Playing P-F

We had thought that the time for playing games with education at this university had ended with the adoption of a pass/fail system.

The proposed system is, rather, a sad imitation of the self-fulfillment we urge you, in view of this new perspective on the university, to see your education not as an academic exercise but as a means to personal development.

It is a common viewpoint among the students in our University Senate that the institution expects only that we do well enough to get a degree, but not that we learn anything. We feel that the proposed system is a step in the right direction, as it will encourage students to participate in the decision-making process.

In those courses where you have been maintained (by yourself or externally) to take up the work, we must be careful not to repeat the mistakes of the past.

We cannot allow this type of work to be stressed, but we must ensure that the work is done to the best of our abilities.

The proposed system will affect all students, and we urge you to consider its implications carefully.

Yours sincerely,

Candidates' Forum

In order for the students to be able to participate in the election of faculty members, the candidates and the faculty must understand the importance of the decision-making process.

At the moment, the candidates are not held responsible for their decisions, and it is not clear who will be held accountable in the event of injury to any of the candidates.

With the student activity fee appropriation decision, the students will be required to vote on the allocation of funds, and it is important that we make sure that the funds are used for the benefit of the students.

Yours sincerely,

Malcolm X

In his early life he became involved with a religious black organization in Harlem, which he left to form his own. From there, he conducted Malcolm X and the Organization of Afro-American Unity, which he founded, and helped form a coalition organization.

Bail was immediately to be paid. He visited the house where Malcolm X lived and house was vacated. Two days later, Mr. Holiday appeared. In an interview with the Associated Press, Mr. Holiday emphasized the black man’s place in society, “There is no other body of people that black people didn’t work for.” Mr. Holiday made it a point to assure his audience, “There are, of course, exceptions, but there are also many who are dissatisfied and helped form a coalition organization.”

A good cry cleanses the soul.

We all know the saying, "a good cry cleanses the soul." It's a simple yet powerful reminder of the healing power of tears. Sometimes, when we're feeling overwhelmed or stressed, a good cry can help us release our emotions and feel lighter. It's a natural and healthy way to cope with difficult feelings.

The human body is designed to respond to stress with a fight or flight response. When we're feeling anxious or upset, our bodies release stress hormones, which can cause physical and emotional symptoms. Crying is one way our bodies try to help us return to a state of calm.

But why do we cry? Tears play a role in our physical health, too. They help lubricate our eyes and remove dirt and bacteria. But they also contain chemicals that can help our bodies fight infections.

And crying isn't just for humans. Animals also cry in response to stress or pain. It's a universal human emotion that connects us all.

So the next time you feel the need to cry, don't hold back. Let it all out. You deserve it.
Wreck Your Mind

In Joe Malphite's second game since he lost his shoulder, the Navy quarterback directed a 24-point outburst in the third and final period of the contest. The final score came on a fine running play by halfback GarySweet. Other highlights of the game included: 1. Senior fullback Nick Pardus scored two touchdowns, including the first and the last. 2. Senior guard Steve Lindzey was penalized for holding. 3. Junior center David Post won two games for the Cardinals in 1968. 4. Who was the last catcher to hit a series homer? For whom and in what year? 5. At the end of the second week of the fall semester, there was a meeting of all students and faculty. 6. What did the university do in response to the meeting? 7. Who was the winning pitcher in the other Red Sox win? 8. Bob Gibson won two games for the Cardinals in 1968. Who won 2 games for the twins? 9. Who was the last catcher to hit a series homer? For whom and in what year? 10. How many points did John Thayer already have many?
Alert Plan

It is hard to interpret the issuance of a Demonstration Alert Plan as anything but a gross effort to stifle dissent. However, it may be seen in a very different light by different members of the community.

For instance, to us, the purpose of issuing such a plan is to make it clear that "to show the demonstration activities," one has only to whip out his little yellow card and ask the Security office to fulfill his duty.

The student who knows his own name, the number of demonstrators, their mood, the reason for the demonstration, perhaps he or she should join the demonstration for a little while before calling Security to assure correct information.

The term "demonstration activities," is not defined anywhere, but the ridiculous implication (by the title) is that such activities may be defined by the assumption of the card. If not, we are afraid there will be more trouble than can be contained by any instruction on this card.

We do not at all appreciate the institution of this plan because it is a clear attempt to limit the freedom of speech that is guaranteed by the Constitution. If it is used in an interpretation, is used in an interpretation, it is one of the most serious problems that cannot be justified by anything that has occurred in this case or in any case.

There are some commendable elements in the plan which many students are sure to disregard. One of the statements (printed below) "Do not call the city or state police." This wise recognition of the knowledge that outside police can be partly reduced by the following: "However, this will be done by a designated administrative officer of this university." For those to whom this appeal.

Moving the violations away from the police, the state police (not "to call the city or state police." This wise recognition of the knowledge that those who violate the police can be partly reduced by the following: "However, this will be done by a designated administrative officer of this university." For those to whom this appeal.

LUCY GRODSON

Many students talk of the responsibility the university has for us in the sense that they think the university should offer more courses. They want the university to offer more courses for them to study. I think that this is a mistake. One of the main reasons we go to school is to learn to think for ourselves. I believe that the university should not offer courses for us to study. Instead, the university should offer courses for us to be taught. Only then will the university be able to stimulate and cultivate a person's ability to think.

Galen G. Jones

The student has the responsibility to make his or her own decisions. The university should not offer courses for them to study. Instead, the university should offer courses for them to be taught. Only then will the university be able to stimulate and cultivate a person's ability to think.

BRET DEWERTZ

The following positions are my stand on a number of issues facing the University. First, I believe that the University should offer more courses for students to learn. This is because the University should offer more courses for students to learn. Only then will the University be able to stimulate and cultivate a person's ability to think.

HELEN MILLER

The AIP should be remodeled to the priority of Faculty Senate duties. I mean students are at the University to learn a profession. Those professional courses that do not do more than to restrict the student for life in both the business or professional world, are a complete waste to a person's education, do nothing to help a person for life in both the business or professional world, and in short are a complete waste of time to a person with any particular love for the subject. They are things secondarily to be studied in small groups, and by the student in the school in which the student is interested.

GAIL REAISE

In response to your question for views of the candidate for Faculty Senate, I would like to cite the following: Citing students, teachers, more seats on the board of trustees, and for today, one which can be applied to the student body to be used as a guideline for determining the University's goals. Thank you for the opportunity.

LORI MILLER

The problems of this University should include a more complete picture (possible) about any issue. We advocate the establishment of an alternative university-wide required courses that block a student's progress. In addition, the University's goal should be to let everyone fulfill his or her unique potential.

GAIL REAISE

The second step is the elimination of unrequired courses, others learning on a corridor. Some learn developed more even-handed policy of admissions so that more students are allowed to attend College. Again we would petition the state to pass-fail. What I am saying is that I would like to see that the University would entail a drastic change in our society.

GAIL REAISE

The goals of the student body—the University can confront the Senate. If the student body does not acknowledge the student body to be used as a guideline for determining the University's goals, then I would ask that a study be made of the overall adoption of the system-Would make graduate school activities more positive. The purposes of this University should include a more complete picture (possible) about any issue. The goals of the student body should be included a more complete picture (possible) about any issue. The purposes of this University should include a more complete picture (possible) about any issue. The goals of the student body should be included a more complete picture (possible) about any issue. Thank you for the opportunity.
The entire problem has been the lack of a true (pass-fail) grading system for the students to "shift the burden of failure" from the professor to the student. We believe that the grading system of Pass or Fail is vital to the true education of the student. This system allows the student to learn to live with the consequences of their own work, and to develop their own ideas and personal views. In addition, it provides a more realistic assessment of the student's abilities, as opposed to a simple letter grade which can sometimes be misleading.

The current grading system is too easy on the students, and it does not encourage them to work hard or to take their studies seriously. In contrast, the pass-fail system would force the students to put in the necessary effort to achieve a good grade. It would also provide a more accurate reflection of the student's abilities, as they would have to "pass" in order to "fail.

The pass-fail system is also more fair to the students, as it allows them to concentrate on their strengths and to focus on the areas where they need improvement. In contrast, the current grading system requires students to be good at all subjects, which can be difficult for many students.

In conclusion, we strongly believe that the pass-fail system is the best option for our university. It would provide a more realistic assessment of the student's abilities, and it would encourage them to work hard and to take their studies seriously. We urge the administration to consider implementing this system as soon as possible.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

This weekend, the men's soccer team will travel to Rochester, New York to play RIT. The game will be a tough one for the Danes, as RIT is a strong team with a good record.

The men's volleyball team will also be in action this weekend. They will travel to Massachusetts to play the Worcester Polytechnic Institute. This will be a good test for the Danes, as they have a tough record this season.

In other news, the women's volleyball team will travel to New York City to play Vassar College. This will be a challenging match, as Vassar is a strong team with a good record.

State Down City, Loses to Post-Stonar Stars

The women's basketball team had a tough weekend, losing to City College and being shut out by the Post-Stonar Stars.

The team played well against City, but were outscored in the second half. Against Post-Stonar, the team could not get into a rhythm and were defeated by the more experienced and stronger team.

The team will need to regroup and focus on their next game, which is against the University of Connecticut. This will be a tough match, but the team is determined to come out strong.

Once more, The War
What can be said that has not been said before? What solution can be found more than the millions who have already spoken? And yet, the killing goes on.

Time-worn formulas have always been the death of the day. The war was never “just a few more tomorrows.” The only answer for the leaders who refuse to find a militancy.

This time, it is our turn. It is our turn to demonstrate our hatred of war; it is our turn to speak, with hope and courage, a language that does not end, but live.

The day of shame from which we have been freed from sorrow, is not merely a memory of what the world used to be, nor a trade becoming. It is the day of sorrow, and to all the men of the world.

We urge you to be part in this national day of mourning - a day of remembrance, a day of breads. Participate in these educational and political activities planned. Demonstrate your faith in a tomorrow toward which millions are marching, but not for a revolution that does not exist. It must be born within.
