Four grapplers are All-Americans

By Marc Schwarz

The Albany State wrestling team recently competed in the NCAA Division I National Championships in Boston and came back to Albany rating their performance as "very successful." The Danes were led by four All-Americans, the most to ever make the NCAA championships by an Albany team. In the past four years, the Danes had never qualified more than one wrestler for the national meet.

Senior John Dixon, a 5'11" 157 pounder from Rome, is one of the Danes' most exciting wrestlers. Dixon, who had a 20-4 record in his four-year career, competed in the 138 pound weight class. "I did some really good things and some bad things," Dixon said after the competition. Dixon placed sixth overall in his weight class.

OPED attempts to avert price war

(AP) Ralph Nader, on Wednesday, said that a price war in the automobile industry could hurt consumers in the long run. Nader said that car manufacturers are under pressure to cut prices in order to maintain market share, but he warned that this could lead to a loss of quality and safety standards.

China sees merit in profit motive

(AP) The Chinese government is considering a profit motive as a way to boost economic growth. The government is weighing the potential benefits of private businesses and foreign investment, which could help to create jobs and increase productivity.

Members eye inefficiency in University Senate

By Bill Broadway

A principal problem facing the body of the Senate, the University's governing council, is the necessity of spending more time on each bill. The Senate must meet only twice a month, and it is often left with bills unfinished.

"The Senate could do a lot more," said Student Affairs Council Chair April Gray, "but it's just not doable due to the time constraints we are under." The Senate is made up of 60 members, which includes the 22 students, 22 faculty members, and 16 staff members who make up the committees and subcommittees. These committees meet weekly to discuss the bills that have been assigned to them, but the Senate does not meet as often as the committees, and therefore, the Senate has a limited amount of time to discuss and pass legislation.

"The Senate is often rushed in order to get bills through in a timely manner," said Student Senator Phil Schneider. "The Senate should merely review the Acts of the councils," he added. "The Senate could do a lot more." The Senate is a principal policy-forming body on campus, and it has the responsibility to make decisions that directly affect university members.

"It's very difficult to get things done," said State Senate Branch Chair Robert Gibson. "The Senate is composed of too many people, and it's hard to reach a consensus." At the meetings, members are often interrupted by other members, and the process of voting on bills is often delayed.

"Students don't have the opportunity to speak as much as they would like," said Student Senator Mike Corso, who is the only student on the Executive Council. "The Senate is very official and very slow." According to OCA President Tim Miller, the Senate meetings are usually ad hoc, and the Senate does not have a set schedule.

"When people are here, they speak for a limited amount of time," said Colleen Schuster. "The Senate could do a lot more if it were more official." The Senate is composed of 60 members, 22 students, 22 faculty members, and 16 staff members, and it is important that each member has the opportunity to speak and be heard.

"The Senate is not being done efficiently," said Student Senator Phil Schneider. "The Senate could do a lot more." The Senate is inadequate in the areas of efficiency and effectiveness, and it is important that the Senate improve its process in order to function more effectively.
UAS gives Glen House to SA

By Prof. Zahm

UAS plans to give Glen House, a bar with 850 student members, to State where it will be operated by the Spectrum. The sale price is $54,000, but the deal is not final until the Spectrum agrees to operate the facility.

A survey of students revealed that 53% of them would like to see Glen House sold, 47% would rather keep it. Glen House is a part of the Spectrum, which also owns the Lamp Post and the student newspaper, Spectrum.

Paul Steinberg, a student member of the UAS Corporation, said that the UAS Board of Directors, in agreement with the Spectrum, would only consider a sale to the Spectrum.

The Spectrum has agreed in principle to buy Glen House. However, the Spectrum still needs to resolve some of the internal problems before the sale will proceed. The Spectrum's president, Tony Sabatino, said that the organization would only buy the bar if it is able to agree to a lease agreement.

The sale of the bar would be a major financial windfall for the Spectrum, which has been struggling to stay afloat in recent years. The Spectrum's current financial situation is not known, but it is estimated that the sale of Glen House could provide a much-needed infusion of cash.

The Spectrum has been in financial difficulty for some time, and it is hoped that the sale of Glen House will help it overcome its problems. The Spectrum's president, Tony Sabatino, said that the organization would use the money from the sale to pay off its debts and improve its financial situation.
Reagan is right

As a young adult and Political Science major I have been especially interested in the direction in which the country is going. Not only am I a student, but I also work as a research assistant for a professor in the political science department. It is my job to keep me abreast of current political developments and to be able to discuss them in a coherent manner.

Ed Reines

The Reagan Coalition

When I was in high school I was very much interested in the political process. I was always active in Student Council and was very involved in student government. I am a firm believer in the idea that our government is by the people, for the people, and I am very interested in the policies that are made by our elected officials.

I am a strong supporter of President Reagan. I believe that he is the right president at the right time. He has made some tough decisions, but I believe that he has made the right ones. He has shown that he is willing to stand up for what he believes in, and I believe that he will continue to do so.

I think that the Reagan Coalition is the right one for our country. He has proven that he is a strong leader, and I believe that he will continue to be so. I am very optimistic about the future of our country, and I believe that our government is in good hands.

A Message to Off-Campus Students

A number of campus problems are caused by the off-campus students. These problems are: noise, drugs, alcohol, and cars parked in fire lanes. Some of these problems can be caused by students who don't really care about SUNY.

To try to solve the problems caused by off-campus students, there is a new Off-Campus Student Association. The OCSA has turned to you, the off-campus students, for help. They have asked us to pass this message along to you. The OCSA wants your help in solving these problems.

Making Book On A Century
Of College Humor Magazines

I
time a logical step toward the acclaim the Yale Record received from the mid-'20s and the 1930s, when a slew of campus cut-ups, including the Harpoon, the Jester and the Yale Lampoon, began to challenge the New Yorker's supremacy. In 1942, the first issue of the Yale Record was published, and it has continued to be a staple of college humor since then.

In the late '30s, when a cartoon depicts a harem of topless women, the theory holds up in the pages of Green's Sporting Life. Lampoon Big Book on College Humor, while the late '70s saw its third edition.

But even with the decline of the New Yorker, the lampoon continued to flourish. In the late '60s, the Yale Record began to publish a monthly humor magazine called the Yale Lampoon. It was a hit, and in 1976, the magazine was sold to the Yale Lampoon Foundation, which continues to publish it today.

The Lampoon was founded in 1926 by a group of students who were tired of the New Yorker's 'liberal' views and wanted to create a magazine that was more in line with the university's spirit.

The Lampoon was successful from the start, and by the late '60s, it had a circulation of over 80,000 and was read by students all over the country.

In conclusion, the Lampoon has been a staple of college humor for over a century, and its legacy continues to be felt today.
Conflict in Northern Ireland: A Fight For Peace

British army were not there to protect neutrals but to suppress the so-called 'Troubles' that were being created by the Provisional IRA and other terrorist groups. The British government has tried to justify its presence in Northern Ireland by claiming that it is necessary to maintain law and order. However, the reality is that the British army have been responsible for many deaths and injuries in Northern Ireland. The Provisional IRA and other terrorist groups have also been responsible for many deaths and injuries in Northern Ireland.

The British government has also been accused of human rights abuses in Northern Ireland. The British army have been accused of using excessive force and disproportionate force in dealing with the Provisional IRA and other terrorist groups. The British government has also been accused of using torture and other forms of abuse in dealing with those accused of crimes.

I have been tortured for up to seven days at a time at Castlereagh interrogation, outside of Belfast. The whole object of their torture sessions was to get me to sign paper admitting to anything I wanted. I was given a wide variety of offenses I could admit to. They said I had a choice. I could sign a confession that would get me five years. If I refused they would torture me into signing more serious charges and I would get life.
A Farewell To M*A*S*H

M*A*S*H Heals Wounds
As It Closes 4077th

With the departure of M*A*S*H for the last of the great TV shows in its golden age, many philatelists, collectors ofchange, and other devoted followers of television will be sorry to see this show leave them. While other shows had to compromise or take the easy way out, M*A*S*H was there to do its job. While other shows had to cope with the limitations of their network, M*A*S*H was able to use the freedom of its own schedule to develop its themes (If Indeed they had wanted to), and they did.

The show's first season was to the show. While other sitcoms had to do with the same old sitcoms with the same old jokes and the same old characters, M*A*S*H had to develop its themes (If Indeed they had wanted to), and they did. M*A*S*H is a spin-off of an enormously successful comedy series, M*A*S*H, which began.

Because of its unique setting, M*A*S*H incorporated television's most desperately needed. In fact, the first season wasn't really that. The most obvious reason for the show's success was the writers, the ability to portray all the characters in a realistic manner, the ability to portray all the characters in a realistic manner, the ability to portray all the characters in a realistic manner, the ability to portray all the characters in a realistic manner, the ability to portray all the characters in a realistic manner. When I do, I'll take you on a journey through the HMV (Hungarian Musical Hall of Fame), where music is not just a hobby, but the center of our lives. It's a place where you get to experience the songs that shaped our generation. By the next stop, I'm taking you to the HMV to see how they incorporated music into their daily lives. It's a fascinating journey, and I'm sure you'll enjoy it.

I Love NY campaign a success

By Caryn Miske

MARCH 4, 1983
ALBANY STUDENT PRESS

The "I Love New York" campaign was a massive success, generating over 540,000 jobs within four years. The campaign was initiated in 1977 and has since surpassed expectations, with over 150 million visitors to New York State. The campaign has significantly increased tourism, boosting the state's economy.

Loire

NY' campaign a success

The campaign was then split into two parts, with one focusing on New York City and the other on the rest of the state. This strategy allowed for a targeted approach, with commercials tailored to different audiences. The campaign was advertised in newspapers, on television, and through various other mediums.

A great momentum, the necessary funds were raised and the budget was allocated. The campaign was promoted extensively, with press releases, interviews, and public service announcements. The campaign was also supported by the government, with funding provided by the New York State Economic Development Corporation.

The hearings were held in the Wharton campus, and the testimony was presented by various professionals. The hearing was chaired by Senator Samuel J. Flanagan, who directed the hearing on behalf of the New York State Senate. The hearing was held on May 16, 1983, and was attended by over 300 people.

Keep fighting the hike!

The hearings were a success, with many recommendations made. The committee heard testimony on a variety of topics, including education, healthcare, and transportation. The hearing was adjourned at 4:30 p.m., with the final report to be submitted to the Senate by May 30, 1983.

Danes meet Rochester in the ECACs tonight

By Marc Bagel

The Albany State Great Danes may not have started an invitation to the NCAA Basketball Tournament but the people at the Great Danes are already talking about their chances to win.

For the first time in years, the ECAC's tournament is being held at Hamilton College, which means that the Danes are in a position to meet the fourth-seeded team in the tourney.

The Danes are currently ranked 6th in the SUNYAC-West and Albany is ranked 1st. The Danes will be the first seeded team in the tourney and Albany will be the second seeded team.

The Danes have received an invitation to this year's tourney, which will be held at Hamilton College. The Danes have had a lot of success in recent years and are off to a promising start this season.
