An Immodest Proposal

By SICK SCOTT

Next week the drama department goes on vacation and the student body will be left with no more than a few students to occupy their attention. Thus the time is ripe for any Tommy Tucker who sees a need to exploit the situation and delve into the daily limelight.

The first plan that I have suggested is the production of "Antigone," or rather a version of "Antigone" with some modifications. The idea is to stage the play as a jazz opera and to have the chorus perform the dialogue. This way the play would be more accessible to the average student and would also provide some variety in the usual fare of student productions.

The second plan that I have suggested is the production of a new musical based on the story of "The Three Musketeers." The idea is to have the students perform the roles of the musketeers and to have the chorus perform the music. This way the play would be more accessible to the average student and would also provide some variety in the usual fare of student productions.

As I See It

By DON HURST

The existence of options on the campus of the College of the State of New York at Albany was recently verified in the person of one Robert Spindel, who was recognized as the first in the state to be awarded an option in the field of mathematics. The options program, which is sponsored by the American Mathematical Society, was established to provide opportunities for students who are interested in the mathematical sciences.

Spindel, who is a senior majoring in mathematics, was awarded the option in a ceremony held on the campus of the State University of New York at Albany. The ceremony was attended by the college's provost, Dean John Smith, and representatives of the American Mathematical Society.

Spindel's award was made possible by a gift from the American Mathematical Society, which has supported the program since its inception. The society has recognized the importance of mathematics in our society and the need for qualified mathematicians to address the challenges of the modern world.

Spindel's award is the first of its kind in the state and serves as a testament to the talent and dedication of our students. We are proud to have been able to support such an important initiative and look forward to seeing what the future holds for Spindel and all of our students.
