FSAs Going Under, So Board's Going Up

Financial Aids:

Complications and Cancellations Plague Programs

by Sue Leboff

The end game on the SUNYA financial aid programs is simply that the National Board Student Loans and the Federal Student Aid, U.S. Department of Education Student Grant (NDSL) have been turned over to the Corporation for Student Affairs, Neil Brown. Mr. Whitlock finds that while theoretically it is a good idea to simplify and unify all financial aid programs in one computerized system, the actual programs have been run very smoothly by the current system. Mr. Whitlock feels that the differences between students and the Board of Governors are not insignificant and that there is a need for some changes in the programs. Student Activities Poll: Thumbs Up for Concerts, Films; Less Dough for Politics, Athletics

By Mike McAlpin

There were three lines of action. For Mark Twain, regular icon, dusting off his memory, it was unmasking. College Council President Mark Lambert said he might sue the Cornell state aid to the university for the money it would mean if uncollected. In an interview after the poll, Lambert said he feared the results of the poll may be the death knell of any uncollected. He expected the students to hold a rally to protest the state aid to the university for the money it would mean to them.

Lambert also compared the standard deviation (a measure of confidence) for each question. The highest confidence was on football, films, and performing arts, the lowest was on the Cornell state aid to the university for the money it would mean to them. Lambert expected the results of the poll may be the death knell of any uncollected.

The poll asked students whether or not they should spend more money in certain areas. The results were as follows:

- Athletics with 2.81
- Academic Groups 2.60
- Intercollegiate Yearbook, Films, and Performing Arts 2.47
- Quad Programming Stations 2.34
- Fine Arts with 2.34

Students were also asked to rate the distribution of state aid to the university for the money it would mean to them. The results were as follows:

- State Aid to the University for the Money It Would Mean to Them 2.08
- Newspapers and Radio Stations 2.34
- Service Projects with 2.34
- Student Rights 2.47
- Contributions to Community with 2.47

The poll also asked students what they would do with additional money in certain areas. The results were as follows:

- Sports with 3.30
- Brochures & Applications 3.20
- Yearbook, Films, and Performing Arts 3.16
- Athletics with 3.14
- Academic Groups 3.03

WASHINGTON

The Supreme Court today decided an attack on New York state's school aid program for low-income students to be unconstitutional. The court ruled that the program was a violation of the Equal Protection Clause of the Constitution.

The most direct appeal of Justice Harry Blackmun's landmark decision was against the constitutionality of the program, which is based on the socioeconomic status of the student. The court ruled that the program is a violation of the Equal Protection Clause of the Constitution.

PHILADELPHIA

A dramatic move toward the integration of English students into Philadelphia public schools was announced Tuesday by the Philadelphia Board of Education. Under the new guidelines, which are expected to change the educational system in the city, all students must be taught in English.

The move will take place next fall. Abroad, the city's Board of Education has already begun the process of integrating English students into the system. SAN QUENTIN

By Rena Epstein

A recent poll of 1,000 prisoners in San Quentin, California, revealed some surprising findings. The poll showed that 70% of the prisoners believed in the death penalty, but only 30% believed in capital punishment.

The poll also showed that 50% of the prisoners believed that the death penalty was effective, but only 20% believed that it was necessary. The poll revealed that 70% of the prisoners believed in habeas corpus, but only 20% believed in due process.

Loopholed Grading

Academic politicians—the intellectual liberals that sit on university governing councils across the country—prefer compromise over logically consistent actions.

SUNY's grading system recently demonstrated the truth by the Right To Meal group. A veto would have been overridden had it not been for the two acolytes. That decision, which came out of the Joint Committee, is now being reviewed by the Appropriations Committee. This finally sets down, in a constitutional manner, the long-discussed question which personally intrigued them. Now the common and widespread spirit shared in common by students and intellectuals across the country—chronically prefers compromise over logically consistent actions.

The loophole is that any Albany student may still opt to take up a case in the courts. In order to boost Albany's academic rating, an attempt was made to reestablish the tradition of macro analysis and micro decision making. What is the future of students that are interested in the basics, in the fundamentals which seem to be the "in thing" now, and to whom nothing may be more important than the bottom line? To the editor:

I'd certainly prefer to avoid any type of "cadaver," but this particular incident is the latest example of the indifference and apathy of the student population. The Supreme Court decision is a clear indication of the total lack of morality in the situation on the campus. The United Nations has called for a moratorium on the use of all types of United States jets and more recently published in the ASP concerning the slaughter of civilians in Vietnam. The UN's role in the war is probably more important than the role of any country, including the United States. The New York State Senate Faculty of the University of the State of New York has taken a strong stance against research that utilizes human subjects. Oswego Beats Aquamen in Final Meet

by Steve J. Katz

The Oswego State Swim Team should have been less than pleased with its efforts in the 20th annual Marty's Invitational Meet last weekend.

After all, Oswego was outdone by SUNY New Paltz, SUNY Cortland and the two SUNY's in Saratoga and Albany.

But the Oswego swimmers would have been pleased if they had known only in January that the meet was a SUNY Championship. The Oswego swimmers were pleased to win the meet, but the team itself was rated after second in the SUNY's by the same criteria.

Instead, Oswego was looking forward to the SUNY Championship, which was the last meet of the season and the meet had no real meaning for the SUNY's swimming teams. At the same time, SUNY New Paltz, which led in the everyday's favorite team, also had swimmers willing to lose.

The meet was on February 24 in the SUNY New Paltz pool. The meet was a Great Dane entry in the SUNY Championship.
