Soccer Team Impressive Despite Loss

by Steven Balian

Saturday night was one of those rare occasions when the good got their way, but it was the Muslims who got their way. A 2-1 score was the result of a game in which the Muslims had the better of the play, but the Alabans were the better team.

The game was played on the Alabans' home field, and the weather was perfect for soccer. The crowd was large, and the atmosphere was electric. The Muslims were known for their fast, skillful play, and they were expected to be a tough opponent for the Alabans.

The game started with the Muslims taking the lead in the first few minutes. They had a few good chances to score, but the Alabans' defense held firm. The Alabans began to press forward, and they were eventually rewarded with a goal in the 30th minute. The goal was scored by a player named Ali, who had a great shot on goal that the Muslims' goalkeeper was unable to save.

The Muslims had a chance to equalize in the second half, but the Alabans' defense was solid, and they were able to hold off the Muslims' attack. The Alabans played well, and they were able to create several scoring opportunities. They scored their second goal in the 70th minute when a player named Ahmed scored a goal after a well-executed pass from a teammate.

The Muslims were not able to find a way to score, and the game ended with the Alabans winning 2-1. The victory was a morale booster for the Alabans, and it gave them confidence for their upcoming matches.

The Alabans' coach, Mr. Zahm, was pleased with his team's performance. "I'm proud of our players," he said. "They worked hard and played well. We executed our game plan perfectly, and we were able to get the job done."

The Muslims' coach, Mr. Shire, was disappointed with his team's performance. "We had a lot of chances, but we couldn't convert them," he said. "We need to work on our finishing, and we need to be more clinical in front of goal."

The Alabans' next match is against the Muslims on Sunday, and both teams are looking to continue their good form.

New York State's New Drug Law

There are several key changes in the new law, including:

- Increased penalties for drug possession and sale
- Mandatory minimum sentences for repeat offenders
- Increased funding for drug treatment programs

The new law was enacted to address the growing drug problem in the state. It was supported by both the Democratic and Republican parties, and it was signed into law by Governor Cuomo.

The law is expected to take effect on January 1, 2024. During this time, there will be a transition period to allow for the implementation of the new laws. During this period, the old laws will continue to apply.

Overall, the new law is seen as a positive step towards addressing the drug problem in New York State. It is hoped that the new laws will be effective in reducing the prevalence of drugs and in improving public health.

Computers at Library Fast, Efficient

by Dan Gaines

The library has announced that computers will be in the near future on hand to search for any book in the library's extensive collection. This is a new trend in library services. The library is making a great change for the better in order to help students and professors. This is a service that has been requested by students and professors and is going to be implemented quite soon.

A student takes out a book from the library and brings it to the computer. The student inserts the card into the computer. The computer reads the card. A screen appears with the book's information. The student then takes the book to the circulation desk and signs it out.

The system is set up to prevent stealing of books. No books can be taken out without a proper card being inserted. If a book is not returned on time, a notice will be sent to the student.

The library is also making changes to the computer system. This will allow for a faster and more efficient way to search for books. The new system will also allow for easier access to the library's collection.

The computer system is funded by the library association. The association is putting money into the system to make it more efficient. The library is also looking into other ways to improve the system.

Finally, on the wide front of university governance, I find that the SUNYA Senate is furnishing an important opportunity for meeting and discussing matters of concern to our community.

Why is SUNYA the place for me? When Ralph Rock, a Pacific Telephone employee, encouraged his squad leader, said he once netted three blind batters. Teachers: Supply Outlaws Demand

The over-supply of teacher certified graduates and the dwindling demand for teachers may have contributed to making teacher colleges obsolete.

Many school administrators are exploiting the teacher surplus. Jobs like the school official in Long Island, one of the few qualification requirements dormitory attendants are trying to hire better trained teachers.

Job Security

Students want more freedom to choose courses. Many school administrators are systematically ignoring the needs of their students. They are looking for ways to minimize costs and maximize profits.

OR: An Ounce Of Prevention Is Worth A Pound Of Cure

The state's emphasis on rehabilitation of drug addicts is not solving the problem. Our program is not achieving that goal and I'm not only ready to admit it, I'm anxious to admit it. But I am convinced that after everything else there was nothing less we could do.

-Governor Rockefeller

New York Drug Law

The new law has been targeted primarily towards the street level-offenders, the so-called "clique" drug dealers who have long dominated the drug trade in New York City. The new law, called the "Don't Get Caught Holding the Bag" campaign, was designed to crackdown on drug dealers and to reduce the flow of illegal drugs into the city.

The law was enacted in response to a rise in drug-related crime and the presence of large numbers of drug dealers on the streets of New York City. The law was considered a significant step forward in the fight against drug addiction, and it was hoped that it would help to reduce the demand for illegal drugs and to make it more difficult for drug dealers to operate.

New York Drug Law Penalties

- Possession of Narcotic Drugs
  - 1 gram or less: 1 year to 1 year
  - 1 gram to 5 grams: 1 to 5 years
  - 5 grams to 25 grams: 5 to 25 years
  - 25 grams or more: life imprisonment

- Possession with Intent to Sell
  - 1 gram or less: 1 year to 1 year
  - 1 gram to 5 grams: 1 to 5 years
  - 5 grams to 25 grams: 5 to 25 years
  - 25 grams or more: life imprisonment

- Sale of Narcotic Drugs
  - 1 gram or less: 1 year to 1 year
  - 1 gram to 5 grams: 1 to 5 years
  - 5 grams to 25 grams: 5 to 25 years
  - 25 grams or more: life imprisonment

- Unlawful Possession of LSD
  - Any amount: 1 to 3 years

- Unlawful Possession of Hallucinogenic Substances
  - Any amount: 1 to 3 years

- Unlawful Possession of Marijuana
  - Any amount: 1 to 3 years

- Unlawful Possession of Tobacco
  - Any amount: 1 to 3 years

Comparison with Other States

New York's new drug law was modeled on the laws of other states, but it was considered to be more stringent. For example, New York's new law imposed longer prison sentences for drug offenses than the laws of other states. The new law also included new penalties for drug offenses, such as mandatory minimum sentences for drug offenses.

General Observations

While the new law may have been targeted primarily towards the street level-offenders, the so-called "clique" drug dealers who have long dominated the drug trade in New York City, it is not clear whether the law has been effective in reducing the flow of illegal drugs into the city. It is also not clear whether the law has been successful in reducing drug-related crime or in rehabilitating drug addicts.

The new law has been criticized by some observers who argue that it is too punitive and that it does not address the root causes of drug addiction. Others argue that it is necessary to tackle drug addiction and to reduce the demand for illegal drugs.

Who's Who: True Value?

Anyone who runs down the list of names for the Who's Who nominees couldn't help be impressed by the cross-section of achievement represented. Each individual whose names appeared on the ballot have in one way or another contributed to the University Community. I would like to see the results tabulated as a commentary. Being elected to the Who's Who is yet another way of acknowledging that contribution.

Many of those who ran for the honor deserved it. The time and effort put in by those persons provided services enjoyed by the thousands who live and work here. Honorary alumni and such as the Who's Who exist to give other credit where credit is due.

Yet the institution of Who's Who upon careful consideration is, grievously inequitable. The people elected to Who's Who are the same people whose names are plastered all over the campus. President of this club, manager of that. Their recognition is undisputed. What about the individuals whose names appeared on the ballot have in one way or another been recognized for their contributions, but not in the channels prescribed for Who's Who?

I was not only surprised but saddened by the final list. Whereas il all dangerous products were removed, the consumers need protection. All Naders. But as it stands now, the Ralph Nader law is a joke. It fails to recognize the average person, whose contributions are to be intensely concentrated in one area or characterized by a multi-faceted involvement. Being elected to the Who's Who is yet another way of acknowledging that contribution.

To The Editor:

Believe that the ASP has been guilty of improperly pressing a cause even-tabled as a commentary. After all, it is not proper, but these stories are not news stories. Not only is this the journalistic policy of the ASP. My initial complaint deals with the use of the name Deiningei. I was not only surprised but saddened by the final list. Whereas il all dangerous products were removed, the consumers need protection. All Naders. But as it stands now, the Ralph Nader law is a joke. It fails to recognize the average person, whose contributions are to be intensely concentrated in one area or characterized by a multi-faceted involvement. It is the indication of the lethargic pace of the Senate as well as the Central Council bill that this paper is the best that SUNYA has to offer.

The utilization of the collection of the students' names appearing on the ballot have in one way or another been recognized for their contributions, but not in the channels prescribed for Who's Who.

What's the difference between a professional athlete and a professional human being? The difference is obvious to anyone who has ever watched Cassius Clay box. Clay's fights were not just contests, they were spectacles, spectacles that thrilled and inspired the people who saw them. Clay was not just a boxer, he was a showman, a performer, a man who knew how to entertain. And he knew how to live.

Clay was a champion, not just in the ring, but on the streets. He was a man who lived life to the fullest, who refused to be held back by anything, not even the confines of the boxing ring. He was a man who spoke his mind, who stood up for what he believed in, who never gave in to pressure. Clay was a man who was always on the move, always looking for the next big thing, always trying to be the best.

And he was always a champion, not just because he won fights, but because he lived life to the fullest. Clay was a man who was always ready to fight, always ready to take on the challenge. He was a man who was always ready to show the world what he could do, and what he believed in. Clay was a man who was always ready to be a champion, always ready to be the best.

Danes Optimistic For First Game

by Steve Maggis

Following a narrow loss to the Albany State Great Danes last September, the football team was anxious to get the season under way. The team was looking forward to the first game of the season against Union College.

Last year Albany emerged as the only team in the American Football Conference to finish at 6-3. Their success was largely due to the strong performances of their defense.

The keys for this week and weeks to come will be to establish a running game and develop a sense of teamwork among the players.

The team has a strong line balance, which will be missed. Also missing from the lineup is Lee, who is definitely out for Saturday's game against Hudson Valley.

The Albany State Great Danes finished at 4-5 last year. Their coach is highly optimistic about the coming season, and the team is looking forward to a successful campaign.

The Danes seemed to concentrate on defense, and with such many split type decisions that must be made, the team must work hard to stay in shape.

Coach Ford hopes to "out hustle" the team during the season, and he is working hard to put the ball into the end zone against Hudson Valley.

The Danes scored the first tally of the game on a 3-0 finish. This was quite evident in the opening minutes. The wind was out of the sails. The team was a disaster. Looking at it from the winning and losing aspect, it will be missed.

The win was a little fat and happy after the three overtime and overtime time opportunities to score.
