Rivalry Re-visited...

State College would be famous if the idea of its wonderful "back room" talkers were ever heard by anyone else besides other "back room" males. The common complaint is that nobody wants to hear their gripes, much less do anything about them.

Next Wednesday night, in lieu of a female meeting, the critics of the present Rivalry program will get their opportunity to express their views and to make some worthwhile suggestions.

Let's use worthwhile time haggling over the face of this past semester. What can and should be done in the future to prevent a similar situation from occurring is the primary objective so that the Committee will have something more than "awkward-in-the-future" type of suggestion. Let's bear some concrete ideas in preventing the system.

If the student body decides to pass the responsibilities to a small group of individuals to the President and Vice-President for exacting the charges which the students are being set on this campus, it is the only way to be avoided by the President and Vice-President in policy-making action. The president can be made in other directions on the basis of the interest shown by the classes in this one instance. We heard complaints about the lack of democracy in the non-debate ruling of the student body. Here's an opportunity to do something about both. Use it.

--- One Man's Opinion ---

Two Men...

Forum Board of Politics is presenting today an outstanding speaker, Ransom Kohn. A gentleman whose knowledge of nationalism is unparallelled in the United States, whose ability as a speaker is unquestionable, and whose topic is vital significance in the world today. Upon his agreement to speak, Professor Kohn expressed his delight in being given the opportunity to address an assembly of like-minded students.

We must give our full support to the President in this matter, and if our society, the Phi Borthmic, can do anything to help in the presentation of this gentleman, we believe that it should. It is said that the Phi Borthmic was one of the most effective speaking groups on the campus, and if so, then it should be possible to attract some of the interest of the students in this matter.

--- Rivalry Re-visited ---

The recent Rivalry program has been a total failure. The students are in need of reformation, and the entire Rivalry process was instructed the President and Vice-President for the most part was justified. Even Student Government, but also the students in general were made aware of the importance of Rivalry.

We heard complaints on Rivalry, and we are glad to see that the students of the classes in this one instance. We heard complaints about the lack of democracy in the non-debate ruling of the student body. Here's an opportunity to do something about both. Use it.

Ancient College Oracle Speaks To Publications Office Visitor

The talk with the Oracle began yesterday afternoon by the requirement of the ancient college. The Oracle is traditionally known to be a mysterious and wise being, so when the student approached the Oracle's resting place, he was greeted by a single word:

"I want to know about the rush.

The student, keen to uncover the secrets of the ancient college, eagerly asked:

"Tell me about the rush.

The Oracle, in his usual cryptic manner, responded:

"Rush is a time of great excitement and anticipation.

The student, intrigued by the Oracle's words, inquired:

"What does rush entail?

The Oracle, with his eyes closed, replied:

"Rush involves meeting new people, attending events, and making decisions that will shape your college experience.

The student, eager to learn more, pressed on:

"What about the rush process?

The Oracle, with a smile, revealed:

"The rush process begins with an announcement from the college, followed by a series of events designed to introduce you to potential rush groups.

The student, fascinated by the Oracle's wisdom, continued:

"What about the decision-making process?

The Oracle, in a calm voice, shared:

"The decision-making process is an important part of rush. It involves evaluating the different rush groups and deciding which one is the best fit for you.

The student, appreciative of the Oracle's guidance, asked:

"What advice do you have for me?

The Oracle, with a nod of approval, stated:

"Remember to be yourself, enjoy the process, and make the best decision for your college experience.

The student, grateful for the Oracle's wisdom, thanked him:

"Thank you, Oracle. I will remember your advice.

The Oracle, with a final word, responded:

"Good luck, my friend. May your college experience be fulfilling.

The student, with a newfound understanding, parted ways with the Oracle, eager to apply the wisdom gained to his college journey.
