The POINT SYSTEM

A motion was introduced in the last Thursday's meeting but Friday which provided for a suggested change in the evaluation of several offices on the Westminster News point system in the point system for holding offices. It is the belief of members of the board that the present system of appointments and finance managers of the News in the major groupings, which carries no significant weight for good or ill, is purely arbitrary and inequitable. The motion provided for a change in the system to place these offices in the point system proper.

The discussion and arguments concerning this proposal were somewhat vitriolic, and the point system was thus turned into a political weapon. One man, in his arguments against the proposal, suggested that this was a new way of grading students, a new system similar to the one used in the present grading system, by which a student could be rated and receive a point for each activity he participated in. The speaker suggested that this was more than a point system, that it was a grading system, a point system for holding offices, and a point system for participating in the Welsh College News.

The question of the former stated point system was asked by Mr. James W. Craig, who suggested that the proposal be modified to include the office of the News editor, and that the students be allowed to participate in the decision-making process.

The modified proposal was then voted on and accepted with two votes against.

Y.M.C.A. Will Conduct Meeting Sunday at 3:00

The second Sunday afternoon meeting of the Y.M.C.A. will be held Sunday afternoon at 3:00 at the meeting of the Y.M.C.A. offices in the Union. A public meeting will be held, and all students are invited to attend.

STATES STAGE

In spite of an evident absence of cultural events, the campus is being animated by a great deal of activity. The Student Council is planning a series of events to attract students and visitors to the campus. The events include a concert, a play, and a dance. The activities are being planned to attract students from other colleges and universities. The Student Council is working hard to make the events a success.

Books: Van Loan Writer

World Geography

Fare Side of the Camp

The large flat geography books which children were accustomed to are being replaced by Van Loan's contribution to the subject literature, "World Geography," one of the most significant works of its kind. The Van Loan book is so much better that it has almost as much critical acclaim today as it did in its first print run. It is a work of scholarship and reconstruction, and one of the four classes are studied in the same way. Van Loan has read "The Story of Mankind," a high degree of sophistication with a style than the ones we are more accustomed to and in his own way, a masterpiece. This may be because Van Loan does not play fair, but he is no less a genius than any other writer.

Dr. A. B. Hart Surveys Washington's Life
As Educator at Convocation Friday

"George Washington was changed for the better and Mary [Washington's wife] was changed for the worse," declared Dr. Albert Bushnell Hart, professor, emeritus, of history and politics at Harvard university, at the Convocation of the Regents conducted last Friday afternoon in Connecticut's hall.

Speaking on the topic "Washington as Educator," Professor Hart went on to explain that although Washington attended a school conducted by an eccentric, these first lessons in character were to prove of invaluable value to Washington, the man.

A picturesque figure, with patriarchal beard, appropriate of the old American historian, Professor Hart presented a very interesting lecture, interspersed with remarks lauding Harvard university and its educational system. Hart termed the conflict between the French and colonists at Fort Necessity, a "turning point." He carried on a side conversation with vice-president Blying, who presided, and who expressed Harvard when Hart was a student.

At least 20,000 letters, in fine silver tea revue style, were written for Washington College Friday night, in the store which will be officially concluded Friday afternoon in Chancellor's hall.

"What on earth are you up to now?"

FINDING things out, smarty! I thought I'd examine the tobaccos in a cigarette.

"Look here...this is Chesterfield tobacco. Notice its lighter color...you don't see any dark heavy types, do you? I guess that's why Chesterfields are milder.

"I'm told that uniformly lighter color is due to cross-breading. It sort of welds all the tobaccos into one.

"And here's something else. Notice that these long shreds are all cut the same widths. It stands to reason they burn smoother and cooler.

"I don't pretend to be an expert but it looks to me as if they make Chesterfields right.

"Here, light one. That's the best test after all. They Smirffy."
