The United States National Student Association (USNSA) and the United Nations International Student Conference (UISC) are two groups recently formed at SUNY Albany in response to anti-war demonstrations and more widespread concern over similar forms of government student involvement. The boards of both the USNSA and the UISC are composed primarily of graduate and law students, but a few undergraduates also sit on both boards.

Two Problems

These two problems have hampered student participation in college and university government. Both USNSA and UISC seek to employ methods which would allow for broader involvement by students. At present, USNSA and UISC have only instructions for students to become members and formulate their organization. For the most part, students have been actively involved in making changes for two reasons:

1. The majority of students have not been involved in student government. On the contrary, many students have been involved in the anti-war movement and have expressed through it a desire to be more active in student government. This movement has provided a means for students to become involved in government and to participate in making changes.

On the television screen appears a young woman singing and playing guitar. The song is "Chicago Blues," starting with the lyrics: "Chicago Sweet Chicago, you've been so good to me."

The song ends with the last verse: "You're the only one who knows what it's like to be true."

The song is performed by a young woman with a soft, soothing voice. She is playing a guitar with a gentle strumming style. The lyrics are simple and evoke a sense of nostalgia and longing.

An interesting point which was made in the song is the mention of "Chicago Blues." The song was titled "Chicago Blues," and the lyrics mention "Chicago Sweet Chicago." This suggests a connection between the song and Chicago, possibly alluding to the city's rich musical history. The mention of "Chicago Blues" could also be interpreted as a reference to the genre of music the singer is performing.

A Declaration

The following may be taken as The Declaration of Independence of the Albany Student Press. The ASP has always tried to serve the student body to the best of its ability; this tradition is being upheld this year, despite the efforts of a small minority of our students.

As stated in the last issue, we have no desire to become a battleground for the low grade political commotion that is beginning to characterize this campus. As far as we are concerned, too much of Thursday's issue was devoted to the elections.

The listing of the complete "qualifications" of all MYSKANIA candidates would have been undesirable. Despite the importance of the elections, other events are occurring on campus. Traditionally, no more than 10-15% of this campus votes in any election, and the number of students who vote on the basis of qualifications rather than personal bias like Greek affiliation do not amount to much in this college's size.

The fact of the statement does not hold up to policy. The informal motto of this University is "a campus in transition," which means that an enlarged tradition of a small school might be considered to be desirable.

Funeral In Berlin Seen As Slick Spy

By Douglas Rednich

That super-sassy, super-crafty, super-inluent Cockney secret agent with the dark-rimmed glasses is at it again. Harry Palmer, or rather the inimitable Michael Caine, is once again up to his old act of murder, intrigue, espionage, double-crosses and love-making to an unnecessary extent in that odyssey in Harry Saltzman's production. Palmer can be seen wrong with the steadfast "Funeral In Berlin" adaptation of "A Man For All Seasons." From the looks of him, it's a sure bet that his old gang is after him once again. However, all attempts to find something in the Library.
