More Liberal Orientation?

A planning committee organized by the Student Personnel Office is currently refining the freshman orientation program for the fall session.

In the past few years, the program has been radically changed several times. It has been reduced from a year to eight weeks, the teachers have changed, department heads made the same directors.

The former changes were probably warranted, but the latter has deprived students of the knowledge and the academic atmosphere of college life. Freshmen have the opportunity to meet the college staff and to make new friends.

The changes have also affected the academic record of a prospective teacher. A student teacher presumably utilizes his practical experience in daily life. A student could fail student teaching and still be credited with eight weeks' study. Therefore, a student could fail student teaching and still be credited with eight weeks of study.

The most drastic change in the scholastic section of the program should affect the whole attitude of the students. The program is supposed to be the basis of all student teaching. It seems that the program is the basis of all student teaching.

This goal must be accomplished in part by learned and broadly educated, intelligent speakers, by demanding scholarly structure, and understanding editors. It was not possible for academic prestige, but we must have a more discriminating attitude.

Does S.U. Harm Averages?

Last year one of the arguments against the bill was that the number of students was already too large. If the committee has not been successful in computing the averages of students.

The purpose of Dean's List and probation lists are to make sure that students do not drop out of school. They could fail student teaching and still be credited with eight weeks of study.

The student teachers should be aware of the importance of education and what it means to them. They are going to shape the minds of the students. They are going to make them into intelligent and successful people.

The committee plans to increase the number of student teachers. They should be more discriminating in their selection of students.

The main problem is that a satisfactory system can be established. It is necessary to have academic prestige. We must have the right attitude.

Corps Needs Young People From Varying Backgrounds

Any person over 18 years of age is eligible to serve in the Peace Corps. A careful screening process is employed to select applicants who will be a good fit for the Peace Corps. Each applicant is assessed based on their skills, experience, and motivation.

Qualifications

The Peace Corps seeks volunteers who are willing to work in challenging environments and who can adapt to new and unfamiliar situations. Volunteers must be willing to work for the duration of their service and be committed to the Peace Corps' goals.

Professional Development

Volunteers receive intensive training before deployment to prepare them for their assignments. This training is designed to enhance their understanding of other cultures and to prepare them for the challenges they will face in the field.

Student Poll

The Peace Corps provides an opportunity for students to gain valuable experience and make a difference in the world. Students who participate in the Peace Corps gain valuable skills and experiences that can help them in their future careers.
