A.D.A. TO CONDUCT CAMP WEEK-END MAY 8, 9 AND 10

Mary Craig, '31, in charge of the program for this week-end, told the reports of the Athletic Association that she was looking forward to the successful conclusion of the week-end. The Athletic Association is planning to provide entertainment and recreation for the students during the week-end, and will make arrangements for the transportation of the students to and from the camp. The plans for the week-end are being kept secret, and will be announced at a later date.

The Athletic Association is planning to conduct the week-end as a charity camp, and will be asking the students to contribute to the fund for the week-end. The funds will be used to provide entertainment and recreation for the students, and will also be used to provide food and accommodations for the students. The Athletic Association is planning to charge a specific amount for the week-end, and will be collecting contributions from the students.

The week-end will be held at Camp Cygnet, the camp for the Girl Scouts of the Albany district. All arrangements are being made for the week-end, and the Athletic Association is looking forward to the successful conclusion of the week-end. The Athletic Association will be sending out more information about the week-end at a later date.
Ten more seniors have obtained teaching positions for next year, according to Professor John M. Sayles, secretary of the placement bureau. Elizabeth Smith will teach commerce at East Aurora; Josephine Spencer, commerce at Cazenovia; Margaret Washburn, commerce at Oneonta. Naomi Butler is to go to Akron to teach English.

The following people have been placed through the mathematics department: E. Walker; Marlene Lister; Lila Fierce; Adrien Center; and Enid Van Heuser. Mabel Seng is to go to teach history at Akron; and Mary McFarland, French at Ogdensburg.

Illustrator Displays
Work In College Co-op

Original illustrations by Miss Dorothy D. Laffoon, illustrator of children's books, were on special display in the cooperative book store last week. Some included her illustrations from Sara Teasdale's "Stars Dance" and Hawthorne's "Snow Image." This week samples of the illustrations to be used in her new book "The Fairy Grace" are on display. This book will be published by Simon and Schuster.

Miss Laffoon, an Albany student, studied art in Columbia University and at the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts.
French '29, Discusses Journalism In Article

Courses in journalism offer educational credit not offered by any other department in the curriculum. William M. French, '29, director of the public relations in the public schools of Grosse Point, and associate editor of the School Press Review, declared that under the State College Alumni Quarterly, French teaches two classes in journalism at Grosse Point. The elementary class, for which high school credit is given, has as its objectives the gathering and writing of news as practical English work, correct reporting, and newspaper features. The advanced course, carrying a third of credit, is more informal, and is conducted as a newspaper office. The students are divided into groups, write important stories and articles, allow each writer an opportunity to edit headlines, and make up the chimney andunned by editors of English that motivated writing brings better results than compulsory work, and the more repeat attempts to do so by the system; proof that the proper sort of
