Classes To Hold Annual Banquet Tonight

Tomorrow night all four classes of the social work faculty will meet at the annual class banquet, announce their respective Class Presidents.

Seniors Hold Last Banquet

O'Connor's Restaurant at 6 p.m. will host the Class of 1955. The Class of 1956, the last to hold their annual class banquet, announces John Oren, Frank, Walter, Kurtis, and Elmer, President, will be guest speaker, and faculty guests will be Violet Larmey, Associate Professor of English, and Robert C. Elkins, Associate Professor of English, will preside over the program. The banquet will serve Turkey and roast beef dishes will be served.

Dennis Hughes is General Chairman, Mary Ellen Sauer is in charge of arrangements. Sandy Evans handles the public relations and Social Committee will oversee the entertainment committee, which is planning a reading by Albera Young, along with songs by Donald Linz and Nancy Durrell. The cost of the banquet will be $1.50 per person, and Mary Ann is to present a dance by Angela Karmelius, and a piano recital by Olga Schwartz. For the first time all the entertainment will be provided by the Class. The reservations are being taken in Class B. "We Come to State," a song written by James Fairbanks, sophomore, will be sung.

Junior of Banquet At Lordkin Restaurant

The Junior Class will hold its banquet at the Lordkin Restaurant, Lark St., tomorrow night at 9:30 p.m., specify Margaret Ogle. President, faculty guests for the dinner include: Frank Carver, Assistant Professor of Modern Languages, and Gordon Underwood, Professor of English, and Richard Spalding. The junior secretary, Miss Mary Ann Sauer, is in charge of arrangements. The program will feature a skit, and Whitemouth, Juniors, Hum or Road, will play their usual role.

Chairmen Plan Traditional Fair For February 26

The Advert Of Editor Number 40

With fourteen issues of our favorite extra-curricular arrivals, the Associate Editor, has reached the halfway mark—four years. I can say, however, that I am most happy to turn the traditional "ruler of authority" over to you, Editor Number 40, even though you can be assured that your predecessors, are of the "fairer sex." I have been Chief for the briefest period in the history of the State College News. Despite this, I have been confronted with many decisions, some major, others minor, but, essentially, they all boil down to this: "Where is the responsibility?" In short, it stems from an obligation due to the present and the future generations, to the student body, to the school, and to the School of Communication. It involves meeting pressures directed at the editorial policy, and withstanding urgings, both of a personal nature and otherwise. Ultimately it entails employing the inherited authority to control the News in the capacity of a link between past and present, in order to insure a progressive future. I saw this responsibility shouldered by others, too, in the strengthening of the motto: the News always comes out on Friday, tested in one instance this semester.

For these infinite and irreplaceable experiences my gratitude is extended on a four-fold basis: First and foremost to my staff, a numbered few reserved only for the satisfaction of their work in the Publications Office (PO), Second to the News Board, which afforded fellowship, and third to their tolerance of a college mind. And finally to the college administration and faculty, whose commendations have been numerous, for their cooperation, and confidence and advice when needed. Third to our publishers, Bert Tagg, E.A. Star, for their reliability, and their tolerance of a college mind. And finally to the college administration and faculty, whose commendations have been many, for their cooperation and confidence and advice when needed.

The unforgettable memories retained by an Editor are both cherished and lasting. I am happy to relinquish my access to them. Ron Lackey

Teaching Facilities

Many students will be required to travel off-campus next semester due to an increase in enrollment and increased use of the Milne classes for methods and observations. Arthur Milne, Coordinator of Off-Campus Residence, has scheduled a number of off-campus facilities. All students who expect to do their student teaching the fall that year should visit the office of Arthur Milne in Richardson as soon as possible. A preliminary schedule of courses for this fall will be available to determine the number of students who will be assigned to the 1144 off-campus next year. The schedule is being held in a number of one student teacher assigned to each course. In fact, a sharply increased college of in-state students; making it necessary for these students to have access to courses in the off-campus residence.

June 14 is being held in Richardson to determine which students will be assigned to the 1144 off-campus next year. Nativi Ronaldo, the leader of the Philippine delegation to the United States, will speak at Churchill's Hall January 17 at 8 p.m. on "The Philippines: The World's Next Great Republic." He is sponsored by the Hudson Mohawk Council on World Affairs. Arrangements for his appearance were made by Catherine Newbold, Assistant Professor of History.

Ronaldo is a soldier and diplomat and was active in the independence movement and fighting of the Philippine Republic. Ronaldo expressed the desire to speak with students. He will be in the Brubacher lounge from 6 p.m. until 8 p.m. prior to the lecture and all state students and citizens of area colleges are invited to talk informally with him. Admission to the speech at Churchill's Hall will be $3.00 to $1.00 to adults and all members of Forum will be admitted free.
The New ICA . . .

ICA What is it? What does it do? How can State benefiti from belonging to it? To begin with, ICA is the Inter-Collegiate Association of the eleven State Colleges. It is a loosely-knit group of students from the various colleges who are interested in helping to make their college a better place to live. ICA can and should mean more than this. As a result of the first meeting, which was held at Geneseo in December, this year, a constitution was hastily drawn up and should be completed by this fall. This new constitution provides for a strong, active and responsive association which will greatly benefit all colleges.

What benefits will we derive from membership in this association? By having a closer unity between the other units of the university system through newsletter communications, the Inter-Collegiate Association will find itself in a position to determine the various branches of our student government in long hours of discussion. Another goal of the new ICA is to act as a pressure group in the state legislature to assist in obtaining improvement in the facilities for the State Colleges. An individual college should be able to do little along this line, whereas eleven unified colleges in the form of the Inter-Collegiate Association would have more influence.

In conclusion, we active interest in the basic program that we can offer to strengthen ICA, as one of the eleven State Colleges. ICA needs Albany to be a strong su-cer. We need ICA for the betterment of our college and that of the University system.

Editor's Note: In combination with the chart cur-ting, the following was sent in by the headquarters, state ICA. We except the chart article supplied by the state ICA. This material is by no means the complete story, deit worthy of publication in the editorial column.

The 10 p.m. Motion . . .

Wednesday evening Student Council finally clinched one of the major decisions; the student body temporarily by the proposal of Robert Betscha '56, to make the following a part of their constitution. This is interesting since Student Council was in opposition to the ACP Constitution. Section 11 requires changes in the constitution of the organization to be made only through the Student Association.

Democrats Take Over Congress, Milk Diet Allies France With US

Legislatures around the country go into full swing this week, and most of us look at Congress and perhaps our own state legislatures. Nationally, the most important change is the Democratic chairman; perhaps we'll not have to endure the bilestouting expeditions of Reed (R—Louisville, Ky.) McCarthy (R—Boston, Mass.) and some of the other "angry" (G—Ga.), that is when it isn't mixed. A group of Republican congressmen, including some of those who provided the majority of the "George" (D—Ga.), will be present in the last election.
