A university campus was once again the scene of violence and death as two students were killed yesterday morning at Southern University in Baton Rouge, Louisiana. Several others were injured.

One of the slain men was identified as Denver A. Smith, 2D, New Roads. The other remained unidentified.

A coroner's report confirmed that both had been shot. One student also suffered a concussed skull.

Cecil Hipps, a Dodson's, said last night both men were killed by either buckshot or shotgun. Both had head injuries.

An area state of emergency was declared in Baton Rouge by Louisiana Governor Edwin Edwards after Sheriff Al Amin, former civil rights leader, said deputy sheriffs retaliated.

The state of emergency extended throughout East Baton Rouge Parish County and the governor gave the impact powers to set a number of necessary rules of behavior was also abolished.

A curfew was reportedly in effect on the campus last night. Policy and guidelines remained on university grounds.

Earlier in the day, the governor signed a bill creating the National Guard onto the university after the registrar's office was set ablaze.

All students, except those living in dormitories, were ordered home.

The student deaths climax a bloody ten minute confrontation between sheriff deputies and student protestors who were occupying the administration building of the predominantly black campus.

They were warned to move, as some 2,000 student-looked-on from the outside. When fire minutes elapsed, the police moved in with hosed dogs at their side and armed with rifles, shotguns and pistols. They fired tear gas into the building.

Two young black men lay dead.

"Two have been shot and there may be more. We are going to take back the administration building," said Baton Rouge Mayor W. W. Dumas.

Sheriff Amin of East Baton Rouge denied his men were responsible for the shootings.

"We didn't use anything but tear gas," he said.

Drug Program Held
Student teachers in the School of Education at State University of New York at Albany are being prepared in ways to understand and deal with drug abuse and alcoholism - issues that affect secondary schools in New York.

Mr. Lento, who has been a professor of education for more than 20 years, is teaching a class of student teaching and assistant professor of education.

In the above area of abuse. He said the workshop is being offered in New York City schools and locally at the Shenendehowa school age level.

The Albany Times Union reports that the Brat hern, a weekly magazine, and the Liberation, another weekly newspaper, will be included in the program.

Mr. Lento explained that there is no "pat answer" to be given to parents of children of all ages who are required to cope with abuse issues. He said it was not as simple as telling them to "just say no.

Parents are sometimes reluctant to involve themselves in the student's academic problems. The workshop is designed to help parents understand that it is important to be involved in their child's education.

The Albany Times Union also reports that the Brat hern, a weekly magazine, will be included in the program.

Since Miami, Radical Politics Lose Chic

By Nick Walker

Alternative Political Scene

Miami News-Now that's a newspaper! If you take out the front page, it's like taking the facade off an old building. What you get is a look at the city's real problems, the ones that aren't pretty, the ones that aren't covered by the mainstream media. It's like looking at a city through a magnifying glass, seeing the details that you wouldn't see otherwise.

Coming back after the Miami riots, with the Miami Herald's front page splattered with news stories, I felt like I was seeing the city as it really is. The Herald is like a window into the heart of Miami, a place where people can speak their minds without fear of retribution.

But the Herald is not the only newspaper that's covering Miami. There are other sources, like the Miami News, that are doing a great job of highlighting the city's issues. These papers are important because they are providing a voice for those who are often overlooked by the mainstream media.

One of the reasons I think the Herald is so effective is because it isn't afraid to challenge the status quo. It doesn't pull its punches when it comes to reporting on the city's problems, and it doesn't shy away from controversial issues. This is something that other newspapers, especially those owned by large corporations, often do.

The Herald's coverage of the Miami riots was a prime example of this. They didn't just report on the violence; they also covered the underlying issues that led to it. This kind of reporting is what makes the Herald such an important source of information.

In conclusion, the Miami News and the Herald are both doing great work in providing a voice for the city's issues. They are important sources of information, and they are helping to keep the public informed about what's really going on in Miami.

Some of the reasons for the government's right to, and need, to block such a film, and to insist that the production be stopped, are: if not defended, we may end up with a greater enemy than we already have, and that enemy is not our friend. The principles which underlie these two actions are those which make for a free society, and in principle, it is not necessary that the lives of others be at risk in order to preserve our society.

Returnees Key To Successful Season
By Bill Holler
The Albany Great Danes brought back six returnees from last season's 17-6 "rebuilding" squad. Along with these returnees, Coach Ford sketched a plan and calling the right plays, the result was a vastly unproved defense, and a great head coach with good attitude. Most important, he didn't allow the Danes to lose.

One year ago, Forward Larry Johnson was the highest scorer on the Danes, topping out at 30 points. This season, however, he was only able to score 19 points. The team's second highest scorer was Forward David Bui, with 14 points.

The Danes are back from last season's Reconstruction. One year ago, the team was put together from scratch. This season, the team is returning almost everyone from last season, including Forward David Bui, who had 14 points last season.

The Danes are also returning Forward Mike Hill, who had 13 points last season. Forward Mike Hill is expected to play a key role in the Danes' success this season.

The team is also returning Forward Mike Phipps, who had 12 points last season. Mike Phipps is expected to play a major role in the Danes' success this season.

The team is also returning Forward Jerry Johnson, who had 11 points last season. Jerry Johnson is expected to play a major role in the Danes' success this season.

The team is also returning Forward Jim Shrader, who had 10 points last season. Jim Shrader is expected to play a major role in the Danes' success this season.

The team is also returning Forward John Koch, who had 9 points last season. John Koch is expected to play a major role in the Danes' success this season.

The team is also returning Forward Steve Sumi, who had 8 points last season. Steve Sumi is expected to play a major role in the Danes' success this season.

The team is also returning Forward Kevin Bohn, who had 7 points last season. Kevin Bohn is expected to play a major role in the Danes' success this season.

The team is also returning Forward David Bui, who had 6 points last season. David Bui is expected to play a major role in the Danes' success this season.

The team is also returning Forward Mike Phipps, who had 5 points last season. Mike Phipps is expected to play a major role in the Danes' success this season.

The team is also returning Forward Jerry Johnson, who had 4 points last season. Jerry Johnson is expected to play a major role in the Danes' success this season.

The team is also returning Forward Jim Shrader, who had 3 points last season. Jim Shrader is expected to play a major role in the Danes' success this season.

The team is also returning Forward John Koch, who had 2 points last season. John Koch is expected to play a major role in the Danes' success this season.

The team is also returning Forward Steve Sumi, who had 1 point last season. Steve Sumi is expected to play a major role in the Danes' success this season.

The team is also returning Forward Kevin Bohn, who had 0 points last season. Kevin Bohn is expected to play a major role in the Danes' success this season.

The team is also returning Forward David Bui, who had 0 points last season. David Bui is expected to play a major role in the Danes' success this season.

Two Students Die At Louisiana Campus

In an interview after the area around the administration building had been cleared, Amis told reporters: "We heard two pistol shots, then a pistol that came from the crowd."

While Governor Edwards rushed to the campus to confer with Amis, a crowd estimated by police at 3,000 to 4,000 rushed officers and Amis was reached with tear gas.

Trouble continued into the afternoon as crowds of students threw stones at police and vehicles. They damaged two structures, one of which was the registrar's office housed on the first floor of a university building. A French instructor in another building at the university campus died from injuries sustained in the rioting. To prevent violence. We've got to maintain control!"

Edwards instructed the officers to "do everything you can to maintain order." The campus was blocked by state police and sheriff's deputies. One hundred National Guardsmen were on university grounds. Four hundred more were ordered out as a "last resort".

In sending the guard onto the campus, Governor Edwards insisted the officers do "do everything you can to prevent violence. We've got to maintain control!"

"In an interview after the area around the administration building had been cleared, Amis told reporters: "We heard two pistol shots, then a pistol that came from the crowd."

Ironically, the shootings occurred at the same time that the Louisiana National Guard was being called out to help control civil disorders in New York City. In the terminology of the administration, it was a "last resort." But the governors of both states are facing the same problem: how to control violence without resorting to the use of force.

In the terminology of the administration, it was a "last resort." But the governors of both states are facing the same problem: how to control violence without resorting to the use of force.

The campus was blocked by state police and sheriff's deputies. One hundred National Guardsmen were on university grounds. Four hundred more were ordered out as a "last resort." In sending the guard onto the campus, Governor Edwards insisted the officers do "do everything you can to prevent violence. We've got to maintain control!"

"In an interview after the area around the administration building had been cleared, Amis told reporters: "We heard two pistol shots, then a pistol that came from the crowd."

Ironically, the shootings occurred at the same time that the Louisiana National Guard was being called out to help control civil disorders in New York City. In the terminology of the administration, it was a "last resort." But the governors of both states are facing the same problem: how to control violence without resorting to the use of force.
