Democratic Party Faces Crisis
Over Southern Integration Issue

The Democratic Party of the United States is certain to suffer a political crisis over the issue of Southern integration. The crisis may be so severe as to lead to the splitting of the party. The crisis arises primarily from the policies of President Harry S. Truman, but also includes the non-existent policy of the Republican Party.

The non-existent policy of the Republican Party is, in truth, the policy of the Democratic Party in the South. The Republican departments have not yet recovered from the effects of the political split which followed the decision of the Supreme Court in the Brown v. Board of Education case. The Democratic Party now has the South to itself, but the policies of the Republican Party are still the policies of the Democratic Party.

Supreme Court Decision

The Supreme Court decision
in the Brown v. Board of Education case has brought about a political crisis in the Southern States. The crisis has been worsened by the decision of Mr.
Truman to ignore the Supreme Court decision, and to continue the policy of the Republican Party in the South. The Supreme Court has brought about a political crisis in the Southern States, and the Republicans are willing to go along with the crisis.

Mr. Truman's policies are the policies of the Southern Democrats, and the Republicans are willing to go along with them.

The People's Choice?

Within the minds of each individual there is a standard and grouping of values. Some things are important and some things are not. We respect some values and we also reject them. One of these high values, of course, is love.

This is one of the qualifications we assign to each individual. It is a moral-dical society of the college. All freshmen stand at the head of the hierarchy group but as they grow older, the values become more human, as opposed to the values rejected in the eyes of their fellow students. Unfortunately, this attribute of impartiality has been belittled. Even Mynah has fallen to a vote which might be construed as something less than in concrete qualifications. This was evident in the frivolousness in this week's list of their recommendations and suggestions for elections.

We have the question to ask the present Mynah, do you see the social function for which you were intended? Perhaps a decision from an impartial judge would help.

Get Well...

We think that the Editors are expressing the feeling of the entire student body by saying that we are happy to hear that Dr. Murphy and the men in the laboratory with him are all the expression is that they have been removed from all their attitude and the happy spirit during their prolonged stay in the hospital.

Animals And Animals...

During our trips around the campus this week we have readily noted some of the effects of safety pugilism. We have seen a student in a Florencia, two socks and various other articles in an attempt to see if which surely can sponsor the most ridiculous animal analogue.

We have noticed little response to the appeal for student support that there will be an awful try and try when the monkeys do not come out on time. In fact, we fail to notice anything being done by the pugilists which might clearly assemble the presence of the monkeys.

The big problem with pugilists seems to be a sort of snubbed allegiance. All activities seem to fail as pugilists assume their importance. Pugilists will give up much personal time, however, there is one attitude in the student body which could be sorted for better purposes. Is yours a part of your school? If you don't believe this statement, you are in college or anything else is secondary to the welfare of your school.

The purpose of roles pugilists is supposed to serve the members of a society. If any thought has been given to uniting this college growing at the present rapid rate, more thought will have to be given to the roles of students in the college. This is the only way to show that they are human beings in the college, the faculty, and the grad-

I'm sorry as I am that I missed the Faculty Show, I can't help but feel that I was particularly pleased to hear so. It is important to show that they are human beings in the college, the faculty, and the grad-

I would like to use the school as an example of how it should be. This school is the state of New York. It has been and still is, an example of what a high school should be. The school is a place where students can grow and learn and be successful. It is a place where students can be exposed to new ideas and new ways of thinking. It is a place where students can be encouraged to be themselves and to think for themselves. It is a place where students can be challenged to be their best and to do their best. It is a place where students can be held accountable for their actions and for their learning. It is a place where students can be supported and encouraged to succeed. It is a place where students can be given opportunities to learn and to grow and to be successful.
