Easter Vacation Extended

Two Weeks of Recruiting, Mar. 30 to Apr. 14

SPECIAL COURSE FOR AMERICANIZATION WORK

Session to Be Held Tuesdays and Thursdays

A course of special training to prepare Americanization workers for New York State, which will be conducted in many colleges and universities of the state this year, opened at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. This course is given in cooperation with the State Department of Education, and many of the experts of the department will be heard in the lectures.

There will be sessions Tuesday and Thursday from 4 to 5:20 o'clock for 15 days. There are many fields of Americanization work in which persons with no special qualifications in such work may be employed by taking this course. Anyone interested in the subject will be welcome to attend the lectures.

State credits, including a Regents certificate, will be awarded to all who attend the lectures successfully, presenting notebooks for inspection continuing on page 4

"GET RECRUITS FOR STATE COLLEGE"

Demand for Teachers Very High

Due to the illness of President Shattuck the last of the series of Dante lectures to have been given in the course of the year was indefinitely postponed. Dr. Brubacher took advantage of the time offered by this opportunity and talked briefly to the students about some of the things which have been getting the public mind. The lecture dealt chiefly with the character of teachers and the vital importance of gaining recruits to the teaching profession.

In the course of his talk Dr. Brubacher compared the salaries offered normal school and teacher training graduates in 1913 ($300-$600) with the salaries that are being offered to our own graduates this year ($1,100-$1,400). He stressed the point that lack of large number of faculty and college was due largely to the fact that if small examinations have been postponed an week in June so that the work of States College, may attend the seventh fifty years anniversary celebration, the week of May 21, Easter vacation will extend two weeks.

Classes will be discontinued at 5:30, Tuesday, March 30, and be resumed at 8:30 Wednesday, April 4.

PROVINCIAL CHINESE EDUCATORS VISIT ALBANY

Commission Inspects State College

A group of thirteen prominent Chinese educators, comprising a special commission sent to this country to study educational methods, spent the week-end in Albany in order to confer with state authorities and to obtain information on the state's administration of the education law. The commission is headed by Dr. Y. T. Lu, minister of education, and is accompanied by Dr. W. S. Jones, president of the Foochow Christian College.

While in Albany the visitors were received by the Board of Regents, and Dr. John H. Finley, State Commissioner. They also visited the Education Building Monday morning. They visited Governor Smith in the executive chamber. Early in the afternoon they visited the Senate and Assembly, where they were met by Senator Henry S. Smith of Albany and Chairman Louis M. Martin of the judiciary committee, which has charge of the State trial. Later in the afternoon they visited State College and were courteously received by Dr. Brubacher, who showed the Eastern educators through all the departments of the college. Continuing on page 4

MISS VAN DENBROCH NEW REGISTRAR

State College extends a hearty welcome to Miss Elizabeth Van Denburgh, who comes here to fill the position of Registrar which was left vacant by the resignation of Miss Forrest.

Miss Van Denburgh graduated from Cornell with the class of 1918. For several years after her graduation she was a high school teacher, then she became assistant librarian at Cornell. She remained at Cornell for five years. When the war broke out she immediately enlisted in the American Red Cross Service in the office of the War Department at Washington. She served until the end of the war, when she was transferred to the Treasury Department and was there engaged in registering Liberty Bonds. She has resided in Harrisburg several times in order to take up the position of Registrar at State College.

THE SPIRIT OF LINCOLN

In these days of dangerous radicals and seditious Robberkrafts can any student be better than to gain a true appreciation of the great man, both personally and intellectually, in the midst of the mood that is sweeping the land? The men and the minds that are seeking the inspiration of the great man, through his words and writings, have never failed to be the beacon to guide us from the dangers of the rocks to the shores of the land.

What can be more helpful or more inspiring to the present American student than the story of the American dream, told through the eyes of Abraham Lincoln? To be sure, Lincoln's greatness is beyond question, but it has grown to such an extent as to be recognized throughout the world. The life and great deeds of Abraham Lincoln are the examples of everyday American life.

It is the spiritual leadership of Lincoln, together with the spirit of Charles Thayer and the Argonne, that our country needs today to guide us against those who are running against the very foundations of this great democracy.

In summary, we have no other Lincoln, but we have his spirit; we have his guiding words. “Let us have faith that right makes might, and in that faith let us toil until we make this country as we understand it."

For this reason, I am concerned for the American students. I am concerned that they may have a chance to study the life and deeds of Abraham Lincoln, and thus understand the true spirit of American life.

A VOTE OF THANKS

At the first meeting, February 5th, of the Dramatics Class, it was decided that a vote of thanks be given to all the college presidents who helped in the setting up of the stage play. The class appreciates what the men did for them in the way of ushering, scene-shifting, and operating the spotlight.

To the Editor of the News:

In Student Assembly this week we were all requested to commend another class of students to the college administration for their work of this week in the first meeting — namely, Student Councils. In addition to the usual counseling and help that the faculty members receive, these student council members do a great deal of work in organizing the college and making it a better place to live in.

But after these volunteers have been thanked and have been asked to come again, what have we to offer them? What can we offer the men? What can we offer to the women? What can we offer to the students?

What can we offer the men? We can offer them the opportunity to rise through the ranks and become leaders of the college. We can offer them the opportunity to excel in their studies and become the best students in the entire college.

What can we offer the women? We can offer them the opportunity to become leaders of their own classes. We can offer them the opportunity to become the best students in their class.

What can we offer the students? We can offer them the opportunity to rise through the ranks and become leaders of the college. We can offer them the opportunity to excel in their studies and become the best students in the entire college.

In conclusion, let us not forget that the college is a place of learning and growth. Let us not forget that the college is a place of opportunity and potential. Let us not forget that the college is a place where we can achieve our goals and dreams.

To inaugurate something to write about, something to talk about. When we have done this, we will have fulfilled our responsibility to our students, to our faculty, and to our college.
The Service of an Electrical Research Laboratory

The research facilities of the General Electric Company are an asset of world-wide importance, as recent war work has amply demonstrated. Their advantages in pursuits of peace made them of invaluable value in time of war.

A most interesting story tells of the devices evolved which substan- tiated the value of the General Electric Company's research laborato- ries in the war problem of submarine detection devices. Two of the research engineers, Dr. William D. Coolidge and Dr. Robert W. Silver, after considerable experimental work, found a way to make making spark gaps and to stop a light. Shortly after, a light more powerful than the X-rays was produced in the fields established by a suitable combination of the multiplying strong source. And many other devices, for radio, oil, and industrial use, and both alone in recording the history.

In the laboratories are employed highly trained engineers, chemists, physicists, and technicians, many of whom are men of high-minded and upstanding character. Their work is, however, not part of the business of Nature to be of service to man, but to increase the usefulness of electricity in every line of endeavor. Their achievements in industry and medicine, wherever electricity is used, are so clearly demonstrated. Their advantages in pursuits of peace made them of invaluable value in time of war.

VOCATIONAL CONFERENCE

The homemaking section was presided over by Miss Rose L. Hughes, assistant director of vocational training in Albany, Miss Lott Will, head of the home economics department at Russell Sage College in Troy, spoke on "Professional Improvement of Teachers in Service." Miss Mette H. Hills, supervisor of home economics in Troy, and Professor Marion L. Van Liew, head of the home economics department at State College, led discussions in this section.

A general discussion for both sections opened at 1:30 o'clock with H. B. Fabranks, director of vocational training in Troy, presiding. Oakley Forney, specialist in part-time education of the state department of education, talked on "Part-Time Schools. The subject was divided into three topics—"Organization of Part-Time Classes," "Purpose of Part-Time Education" and "Course of Study for the Part-Time School." Eugene D. Pink, director of industrial education in Schenectady, led in the afternoon discussions.

proper system for schools on the part of the public had much to do with the seriousness of the present situation, for so long as the outside public view the school situation in a humorous light teachers won't have the respect due their profession, and as a result they won't have the salaries they should.

Dr. Brabacher Blended State College and similar training institutions in New York state to the officers' training camps of the war-time days. In concluding his address he made an appeal that each member of this officers' training camp constitute himself as a recruiting officer and go before the student body of his home town high school and, by presenting to them the great need of teachers and the new status of the teaching profession, endeavor to get qualified, healthy recruits for the teaching profession as well as our own particular camp.

The rest of the period was given over to the learning of a new song, Florence Stuhlm, 20, assistant song leader, directed the singing.
