COMMUNIST

The select committee which will sit in the State House this session will have a field day. The Select Committee on Un-American Activities was established in the State of New York by Governor Dewey. It is expected that the committee will be of great benefit to our state and nation. The committee will hear testimony from witnesses who have been under investigation by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Committee members:

Senator Dewey - Chairman

Senator Johnson - Vice Chairman

Assistant Committee Members:

1. Albert Architzel
2. Charles Ettinger
3. Joyce Maycock

The committee was recently presented with evidence of some of the most important cases of subversive activity in the state. The evidence includes statements of witnesses who have already testified before the Federal Bureau of Investigation. The committee has been instructed to use this information to prepare a report for the Governor and the State Legislature.

The committee will also be investigating the activities of the Communist Party of New York State. This party has been under suspicion for some time and has been accused of engaging in illegal activities.

The committee has been granted full authority to conduct its investigations. It is expected that the committee will complete its work within the next few months.

The match that will set the war flames off seems closer than ever to the war front. And more to the point, the reality of the reality of the government and its ability to deal with the war that is coming. Not so much when we think about the day when they come. Not so much when we think about the day when we think about the day when they come. Not so much when we think about the day when the government and the people are prepared to deal with the war that is coming.

EDITORIAL

Does it Pay to Advertise?

One of the chief reasons why college students are so fond of advertising is the fact that it is free of charge. Advertising is a means of publicizing one's own ideas. The more one knows about the subject, the more likely one is to advertise it. But is it really worth while to advertise? The answer to this question is: Yes.

There are several reasons why one might want to advertise. One is to keep the public informed about one's business. Another is to stimulate public interest in one's product. Still another is to compete with other advertisers. Whatever the reason, advertising is a valuable tool for the college student. It can be used to publicize one's own ideas. It can be used to compete with other advertisers. It can be used to keep the public informed about one's business. It can be used to stimulate public interest in one's product. It can be used to compete with other advertisers.

Turn About is Fair Play

For years John Watts, Kent State University journalism junior, has been writing for the magazines, and has received only rejection slips in return. The bandwagon rejection earned him a bit, so he decided to give away some of his own medicine. The new magazine was a real benefit from deciding that he can't find any use for his particular reporter's eyesight.

Madden Afternoon

Although the Blue college baseball team has lost its star bat-er and the starting mound maner, the squad will be in good shape to start the season.

Joe Quattrucci has been named captain of the 1929 Nine by the Blue College baseball committee.

Quattrucci, a second baseman and right-handed hurler, has been on the varsity squad the past three years. In last season's campaign, he led the team in batting average and holds possession of the mound record for a Blue College pitcher.

Quattrucci and the rest of the crew will get their first baseball workout tomorrow afternoon in Page Hall, and the scheduled program will be in a carry-over from the pre-season schedule
employed in the past few years.

A nine-man crew will be put through strenuous training and workout in the gymnasium. The schedule is designed to prepare the squad for the opening game
of the season, which will be conducted against the St. John's Twenty-nine Nine.

The Stale college baseball se-dules will open on April 29.

Said Quattrucci, "We start thinking about the little things."

"Everyone on the team will get plenty of practice, and the majority of the spring workout will be devoted to perfecting the offensive and defensive techniques for the nine.

"The schedule will be tough
but we have a great team."

"We have great material and nothing to worry about."

"The team will open up well in the gym and we should be in good shape to face the St.
John's team."

The squad will have ample time to train before meeting the Stale team. Without question, the team will be in the best shape of the season before the first game.

Quattrucci is one of the few members of the team who is not a member of the varsity squad.

He was a member of the varsity squad all three years.

Batters Have First Workout
In Page Hall Gymnasium
Mandiny Monday

Although the State college baseball team will have new faces this season, there will be enough experienced talent to make the team formidable. Coach Hatfield has been at work on a schedule of workouts, and has arranged for some high school battles which will be held in the gymnasium.

The key to the team this season will be the catching. State will have a very fine catcher behind the plate, and his workmanship will be a decided asset to the team in general.

ENDS, Postpone Rivalry Game

Due to the fact that the Page High School baseball team had to withdraw from the season, the rivalry game between State and Page was postponed.

The next engagement for the team will be against the Frosh-Soph Quintets, who will be in the gymnasium this afternoon.
