A Ray View of Sports
by Ray McGraw

It has often been said—"but no one so well expressed that the first one is the most important part of the neighborhood baseball game. We accept this statement with a certain amount of enjoyment, for while everyone seems to want the score, we expect them to enjoy the Great Dane baseball team with great temperamental enthusiasm. This desire is in direct proportion to the excitement the team has generated. Twelve men are far more adequate for a basketball team that has to fill only five positions. A baseball team should have at least three extra pitchers, a reserve catcher, a few utility infielders, and a couple of outfielders, all of whom have appeared at games. With a few injuries, coach Burgumme is securing the balance for his squad.

We are totally sympathetic toward the baseball team in its effort to make up an adequate lineup. Every win the team achieves is indeed a credit to the desire of the players.

But over a season with twenty games crowding into eight weeks, a team with only three reserves on hand is in deep trouble right off the bat. Pinch-hitting will be non-existent, and can you imagine the poor pitcher being asked to go for them. But that's all.

Be non-existent, and can you imagine the poor pitcher being asked to go for them. But that's all.

Sharpen your wits and when you can't afford to be dull, sharpen your wits with Doz.

The Four game set was the team's first chance to play on a diamond. After several postponements this past week, the team should be ready for today's play.

We have had few misgivings about how a major professional Shakespearean touring company would be received, but response exceeded our expectations. We've acted on basketball courts, in huge auditoriums, in the country.

Students schedule in San Francisco, Los Angeles, Wichita, Amarillo, New York, and thirty-six-week junket with appearances in more than thirty states— from sympathy and, more importantly, understanding. Ultimately, however, they face up to certain deficiencies in themselves and their neighbors. People are "real," but she detests in an effort to become more hip. Alison, meanwhile, returns to her neighborhood parties in Bloodbury, the fashionable New Jersey suburb.

This will be the only opportunity for first-quarter honors in the evening. It will be held at the University of New York City's Lincoln Center, and will feature the New York Brass Quintet performing in Concert. The event is sponsored by the Colonial Quad, the University Housing Council and Living Affairs Commission.

Invitations have been sent to all members of the Class of 1967 and that is the number of classmates, professors, and guests with whom they plan to spend the evening. The Corsage and Gown Committee, which is charged with selecting the most appropriate evening attire for the occasion, has announced that the evening will feature a black-tie dinner, followed by a dance in the University Union.

The University will hold its second annual Honors Convocation to recognize the academic achievement among undergraduates. The convocation will be held in Draper 349 on May 2, in Draper 349, and in Colonial Quad.

The award was based on past achievement and was made to students in recognition of their excellence. It is an honor bestowed upon those who have demonstrated exceptional character and scholarship.

The University will be host to a week-long program of events titled "The Arts," and will feature the New York Brass Quintet performing in Concert. The event is sponsored by the Colonial Quad, the University Housing Council and Living Affairs Commission.
