TWAIN AND PAINTER IN A DISAGREEMENT

Mark's "A Priori Speculation" Lacks Empirical And Scientific Grounds.

Dr. George S. Painter

While recently in the famous University City exploring the ruins of the ancient Castle of Heidelberg, I recalled that Mark Twain visited the theory relative to the Castle of Heidelberg in the cellar of the Castle that it's use had been to furnish water to the princely drinking population of Heidelberg.

But Mr. Twain's theory has since been exploded by the town of Heidelberg, that is to say research and observation have made it clear that water was never so many non-beer drinking people in Europe as at this time, and no task would supply. Also analysis makes it very difficult if indeed even existed in that cellar.

Mr. Twain's theory, accordingly, appears in some hotels where American days, lacking all empirical and scientific foundations.

The administration of Mr. Twain, nevertheless, is capable of certain reflections in my mind regarding a much wealthier matter. As I sit on a mountain peak on the Jungfrau overlooking the extraneous beautiful scene of Heidelberg and the Neckar valley, I reflect that the Francon had burnt and destroyed this noble Castle in the year 1547. This fact, I say further to ponder as to why Europe is in present state. Just for the moment, indeed, it is relatively quiet and to be enjoyed in the area which was burnt in the ring among. This problem, therefore, was why is Europe eraany at war?

By the way, I observed a contrivance of the great European nations and their great quantities of beer and other strong drinks that their minds are used to, and how the popularity of beer is in the winter and summer, etc.7

The weather was fine and the day was bright and the sky was clear. Who you will find the ubiquitous feathered.

The only exception to this is in some hotels where American days, brought them into touch with real civilization. In such cases, they have compromised relativized and modified their theory, which is only sustained in a momentary period by a reduction of the size of the feathered.

Now I submit that any set of men who have ever cultivated the sources of feathers in the intense heat of the summer time, and then purger's, bell, and war have no particular patience in the Kasten, in f, keep the blood of the European in a state of extreme condition with a help of the spray. At any such game which your subjects, kings and such, playing the theory, therefore, is that the cause makes for the feathered.

CHRISTMAS ASSEMBLY PROGRAM IS PLANNED

Santa Claus will appear at student events and on the TV program of the 15th, consisting of one member from each class of the upper class at a time. After the Christmas tree, card wheeling, a visit, and the like, the annual joint assembly will be held at that day. Plans were made Wednesday by student council.

TEN YEARS AGO IN STATE COLLEGE

From the files of the News for Nov. 8, 1916

"The State College for Teachers is already on the map; it remains for us to make it its prominent place in the Adirondacks or the Great Lakes. To do this it is to be located some which will have as its chief purpose the spreading of new and interesting developments over the college. The student of the Adirondack and the Great Lakes section of the State will, therefore, be equipped with that which means wherever there are friends of the college who will be interested in seeing its beauty with their own eyes."

"A club which is being organized by Dr. Thompson, which leads fair to be one of the most flourishing organizations in the College. A rather large number of men have tried out and about thirty have been joined if you are interested see Dr. Thompson."

Since the German department, by Alexander Ant, tended to all students registered in the German department, German speakers were well represented in the student body. The German club will be meeting this week to discuss plans for the upcoming German club party tonight. The party will feature a talk on the history of German art and culture, as well as a performance by a local German band.

CHURCH IS DEFENDER OF SATYR,
SAYS COLLINS TO NEWMAN

"At present the Catholic church is the one defender of democracy in Mexico," as opposed to the tyranny and oppression of the Mexican government. The Rev. J. J. Collins, spiritual leader of the Canadian church, told the members of the Newman club, November 3, beginning a series of talks on the Mexican question, traced the history of the formation of the Mexican nation, and showed the relation between the church and the state.

"The service of the Catholic church has been great. Up to 1890, all education was carried on by the Catholics. In 1920 the Catholic church in Mexico had 200,000 members. It was at that time that the state first interfered. In 1926 the policy of the Catholic church to educate the farm workers and Christians in Europe by persuasion, but it has never used coercion.

The question of the Mexican question will be continued in the next two monthly lectures.
