Men, women harriers confident for Nationals

By Keith Marder

I would be willing to bet my entire wardrobe and $200 that the Albany State Cross Country team (4-2) is definitely ready for the upcoming NCAA Division III Championship at Delaware, Ohio. Last year, the men finished 17th overall and the women again placed 17th, and both teams were particularly pleased with their mid-season improvements. For this year, the men and women harriers have compiled some of this year's best times in their respective meets.

Offically, they placed third in Division III at Springfield, New Jersey and Southeastern Connecticut. I'd like to use the last Thursday to the fourth Thursday in November. For the men, their times were 18:09 and 17:02, respectively, at the last Thursday in November. For the women, their times were 20:09 and 19:02, respectively, at the last Thursday in November.

Turley Turley history of changed minds

Turkey's day of the dead

It's not too late to change your mind; if you haven't set it in stone. You can still change your mind and consider another option. It's important to be open-minded and consider different perspectives. This will help you make a more informed decision.

Smokeout享受成功的烟雾行动

By Robert Hanlon

Smokeout enjoyed success despite lone protest.

When Central Council and a number of Student Advocates held an annual smokeout policy last week they raised to the SA Supreme Court to resolve the dispute.

After a hearing Sunday night, the court overturned a decision in favor of the smokeout, allowing Central Council to proceed.

Central Council argued that the smokeout, which is an educational and social event aimed at discouraging smoking, is a form of free speech protected under the First Amendment.

The court, however, ruled that Central Council lacked the authority to hold a smokeout on campus without obtaining prior permission from the Student Affairs Council (SA).

The court's decision was based on a previous case in which the court had ruled that Central Council lacked the authority to hold events on campus without SA approval.

Central Council vowed to appeal the decision to the full Supreme Court, which will consider the case later this month.

The court's decision is likely to provoke a debate on the issue of free speech and the regulation of campus events.

The Supreme Court is expected to rule on the case by the end of the month.

Injunction denied

A motion for a preliminary injunction to prevent the law firm from advertising an event on Monday, November 1, according to a spokesperson from Judge Lawrence Kahn's office. The law firm had requested an injunction to prevent the advertisement because of a potential conflict of interest. The judge denied the motion, stating that there was no evidence of actual harm caused by the advertisement.

Comedian considered

Controversial comedian Lee Atwater may not come to SUNYA until late next year. According to President Kenneth, President of Class of '86, the Class Council has decided to bring him to SUNYA in the spring of the following year. The decision was made after considering the potential impact of his presence on the campus.

College plans banquet

The Rockefeller College of Arts and Sciences is planning to hold an annual banquet on Friday, November 30, at the Century House in Colonie. The college plans to make the banquet an annual event.

Confessions of an Anti-Choice Feminist

by Sharon Long

Most importantly, because the choice to have an abortion is a decision of my life and not society's, the choice to have an abortion is a personal choice. If we do not have this option, we will be deprived of our personal lives. If we do have this option, we will be deprived of our personal choices. If we do not have this option, we will be deprived of our personal lives. If we have this option, we will be deprived of our personal choices.

... abortion damages women. When a woman has an abortion, she is killing a part of herself. She is killing something that is beautiful and awesome and was created out of her own body.

... one day after the abortion, she realized that she did not want to be a mother. She had thought that she wanted to be a mother, but now she realized that she did not want to be a mother. She had thought that she would be happy if she had a child, but now she realized that she would be unhappy if she had a child. She had thought that she would be a good mother, but now she realized that she would be a bad mother. She had thought that she would be a successful mother, but now she realized that she would be a failed mother.

The Children Defense Fund

The Children’s Defense Fund (CDF) is a non-profit, non-partisan, non-profit, non-profit organization that seeks to improve the well-being of America’s children, especially the millions who live in poverty. CDF is concerned with issues of education, health care, nutrition, child welfare, and the environment. It is headquartered in Washington, DC, and has offices in all 50 states. The organization is led by Dr. Marian Wright Edelman, a former Washington, DC public school teacher who founded the fund in 1969.

1. Federal funding patterns act as disincentives to the development of family support services to children. The following recommendations are made:

   a. Funding programs should be increased and redirected in areas of greatest need.

   b. Programs should be designed to meet the specific needs of children and their families.

   c. Programs should be evaluated to ensure that they are effective.

2. Fiscal disincentives which prevent children who have been removed from their homes from being returned home or placed in another permanent living situation, should be eliminated.

   a. Programs to prevent child abuse and neglect should be strengthened.

   b. Programs to provide services to children who have been removed from their homes should be expanded.

3. The federal government has taken an explicit stance against the use of institutional care for children. The following recommendations are made:

   a. Programs to provide foster care and adoption services should be strengthened.

   b. Programs to help children and families to remain in their homes should be expanded.

4. Federal support should remain quality care to children in foster care and adoption settings.

   a. Programs to provide foster care and adoption services should be strengthened.

Croutier: The Danes’ leader

By Keith Marder

Sports Editor

Remember when you were growing up and there was this ball you just wanted to play with your friends and it was always the same two or three of you that would play with it. Well that kid grew up and now he’s playing basketball for Albany. His name is Danny Crouier.

Crouier, who is entering his fourth year as the Great Danes’ starting point guard, is a hard-nosed individual who will never settle for second. He will go to any means to achieve his goal. He is a type of guy who would run over his own mother to get to the basket.

Crouier is a point guard personified; he is a very physical player on him to get a rebound, and he is lightning quick. He can handle the ball with ease and is always looking to make a play. He is the nucleus of the team.

"He’s the nucleus of the team," said Dane center Greg Hart. "He knows what it takes to win and he is willing to do whatever it takes to win."

"He’s the leader," said Coach Dick Sauers. "He’s the team’s leader."

"He’s the Danes’ leader," said Sports Writer Kristine Ullman.

"If he plays well we win," said the 6’5” senior in high school he was named to the Daily News All-Star team as he led St. Agnes to the Catholic High School Championship.

Guards to be strength for men's, women's teams

When analyzing the 1984-85 version of the Albany State men's and women's basketball teams, one tends to notice the same strengths and weaknesses that the 1983-84 squad had. With some of the key men from last year returning for another season, almost everyone agrees that this will be the team that gets Albany State basketball back in the limelight.

The 5'11" Schenectady native's perimeter weapons last year, as his highlights included a 20-point outing against Potsdam. His play as a "jumper" who will shoot the ball, is Julie Hotmer, a 5'8" forward. "She's not very tall, but she has a good outside game and knows the game well," said Warner.

Another newcomer is sophomore Jill Silverman, who will see a lot of playing time. "She's a jumper, too," said Warner. "I think she's going to be a fine outside shooter." Freshman Donna Hughes, from Catholic Central High School in Troy, will play the guard position.

The women hoopsters have a lot of depth. "Everyone should contribute," said Warner. "The third team will have to be a tough team." Tough competition will play a lot of man-to-man defense. They play a tough schedule. Their first three games will be difficult. Tough competition will be a key to the team's success. The opening game will be against SUNYAC rival Oneonta. They'll have to cut down on turnovers. We'll have to play well," said Warner, pointing out that they'll have to get used to playing on the road.

Grass student was the harbinger of unity

By John Crawford

Well, it finally happened. A question jumped out of the SUNYA, History, Relating, For those bloom. November 4th, students killed. We are just the beginning of the movement to expand the agenda. We didn’t get any more. The students were not ready, they were not ready, they were not ready. We didn’t get any more. We didn’t get any more. We didn’t get any more. We didn’t get any more.

The Graduate Advocate

The Graduate Advocate is a student-run publication that focuses on issues affecting graduate students at SUNY Albany. The Advocate covers a wide range of topics, including academic matters, student life, and campus events. In this issue, the Advocate features articles on the importance of the Graduate School, the challenges faced by graduate students, and the role of the Graduate Advocate in promoting the interests of the graduate community.

Invitation

University Publishing

Invitations are often seen as a form of communication, expressing an interest in attending an event or receiving a gift. In this issue of the Advocate, there is an invitation to attend an event, which is a great way to connect with others and learn more about the university community. The invitation highlights the importance of networking and building relationships, which are essential for success in graduate school.

The Great Debate

The Great Debate is a popular event at SUNY Albany, where students from different disciplines and perspectives engage in a lively discussion on a current issue. In this issue, the Advocate features a debate on the topic of student protests and their impact on the university community. The debate provides an opportunity for students to exchange ideas, argue for their positions, and learn from each other.

Visualization

Visualization is an important tool for understanding complex systems and data. In this issue of the Advocate, there are several articles that utilize visualization techniques to make data more accessible and understandable. For example, a visualization of the university’s budget shows how funds are allocated across different departments, while another visualization illustrates the distribution of graduate students by discipline.

Graduation

Graduation is a significant milestone for many students, marking the end of their academic journey. In this issue of the Advocate, there are articles that celebrate the achievements of graduating students and highlight their contributions to the university community. These articles provide inspiration for current students and a sense of pride for those who have already graduated.

Women's hurdlers place 8th in NCAAs

By Keith Warder

In the last hurdlers event, according to DeMeo, "it was a great, natural power. Perfectly executed. I had no idea that was possible."

"But he's got natural power since he came here," said Adelstein. "He's a qualifier for last year's world championships. A bunch of seniors on a team, they are used to the intensity of the games. They know what to expect."

"I expected to be a high seed," said Ryan. "But I ended up with a low seed."

Albany grapplers capture Great Dane Classic

By Marc Berman

The Danes almost always dominate the wrestling at the annual Great Dane Classic. The Danes brought in their 13th straight victory at this year's annual Great Dane Classic, which was held at the Times Union Center in Albany. The Danes scored a total of 198 points, which was 98 points more than their nearest competitor, Franklin and Marshall University.

In the 118-pound weight class, Seras, who was the defending champion, easily defeated his opponent in the final match to win his third consecutive title. In the 126-pound bracket, Junior Donna Burnham won her third straight title by defeating her opponent in the final match.

Seras had the advantage in the tournament, as he defeated his opponents in all of the previous matches, including the championship match. Burnham also had a strong performance, defeating her opponents in all of the previous matches as well.

The Danes had a total of 198 points, which was 98 points more than their nearest competitor. The Danes had a strong showing in all of the weight classes, but particularly in the heavier weight classes, where they were able to maintain their dominance.

Wrestling is a sport that requires physical strength, technique, and strategy. The Danes have been successful in this sport due to their strong team, as well as the individual talent of their wrestlers. It is a testament to their hard work and dedication that they were able to achieve such a winning streak and maintain their championship status.

By Tom Kacandes

Despite a strong showing in the dual meet season and going on to snatch the SUNYAC successful season in a decade. Ranked tenth for the last part of the season, the Danes were able to place seventh in the NCAA meet, which was a significant accomplishment. The Danes had a total of 198 points, which was 98 points more than their nearest competitor, Franklin and Marshall University.
