Gridders Put Most Experienced Team On Turf

By Eddie Lannom

Robert Lloyd, last year's coach of the Albany-Hills voleyball team, was named head football coach this season. Lloyd will be assisted by his brother, Ed Jr., who was an assistant last year.

Lloyd said that his team will have experience, but it will be tough to preview the team's ability until after the first game.

Lloyd added that he was looking forward to working with the players and that he was confident that the team would be successful.

Corning Machine Works Primary

By Paul Race

B. Alway's mayor since 1980, nearly fulfilled his campaign promise to put Corning Machine Works in the city's plans for economic development. The mayor said that the city would also use the facility to attract new businesses.

Alway's campaign promise to keep the machine Works in the city was a major issue in the campaign.

The mayor also said that he would work to preserve the Works' historical significance.

Mayor Concedes Defective Decision

By Mark Fena

The Albany County Republican Party has conceded that its decision to support the incumbent mayor was a mistake.

Fena said that the party had supported the incumbent mayor because they believed he would be able to carry out the campaign's goals.

However, Fena added that the party had now come to realize that the incumbent mayor was not the right choice for the job.

A scene from Nolan Headquarters in the Albany County line, where supporters who had to change their ambitious political plans following the election results.

Nolan, who was the incumbent mayor, conceded that he had not yet won the majority of votes.

However, he said that he would continue to work to improve the city and would not give up.

Some of the problems that Nolan had faced included financial issues and a lack of effective communication with the community.

Nevertheless, Nolan remained determined to continue his work and to make a difference.

Coed Sports Evolve

By Andy Hyder

The Albany State sports year is upon us, accompanied by the usual intramural sports like soccer, volleyball, and baseball. The girls have-increased their participation in some sports, but not in others.

The girls' soccer team is one of the few that has doubled their numbers since last year. The team is preparing for its upcoming season, but it remains to be seen how successful they will be.

The girls' volleyball team is also growing in numbers, with more girls trying out for the team this year. The team is looking forward to a challenging season.

The girls' basketball team has remained consistent in its numbers, but it has seen some changes in its coaching staff.

The girls' baseball team is also growing in numbers, with more girls trying out for the team this year. The team is looking forward to a successful season.

Parker's Point

Nolan's concession speech echoed the frustration and disappointment felt by his supporters.

"We had hoped for a better outcome," he said.
"I would like to thank all of my supporters for their loyalty and support throughout the campaign.
"I will continue to work hard and to make a difference in the city of Albany.
"I hope you will continue to support me in my efforts to make this city a better place.

Corning Mayor Gary L. Stillman, who was re-elected to a second term, acknowledged the difficulty of his re-election campaign.

"I am grateful for the support of the Albany County Republican Party," he said.
"I will work hard to fulfill the promises made during the campaign and to continue to serve the residents of this great city.

I will work to make this city a better place, with a focus on economic development, education, and infrastructure.

efforts to make this city a better place."
