Erhewyna . . .

A Transfer from a Far-off Land was asked why he had come to the country, "I come to be among my people of my country." And then the Transfer said, "If there be any people in the country, may I have a home for that was the name of this far-off land. And so it was said that the Transfer came to the country, and there was a home for Transfer in the country." The Transfer and his companions made an effort to be among the people of their country. And now the Transfer made an effort to be among the people of his country. And now the Transfer made an effort to be among the people of his country. And now the Transfer made an effort to be among the people of his country. And now the Transfer made an effort to be among the people of his country. And now the Transfer made an effort to be among the people of his country.

To the Editor:

May I point out that the statement concerning the number of hours spent studying was inaccurate? I spent 60 hours a week studying, and I am sure that many other students spend an even greater amount of time studying. The statement that students are not working hard enough is not true. Many students are working hard to achieve their goals.

Sincerely,

New Lamps Illuminate Library, Lessen "Strain On The Brain"

There’s been some change made in the library at the State College and it is the hope of librarians that these changes will result in less strain on the eyes of the students. The change in the library consists of the addition of a number of full size lamps, hung near the reading desks.\n
According to the librarians the lamps have already made a noticeable difference. Students are expressing appreciation for the lamps and some are already asking when more will be added.\n
The lamps will be in the main libraries and not in the special libraries.\n
Letter To The Editor...

To the Editor:  There have been times when many of us, students at State College, have exclaimed, "What a drag it is to have to read with a flashlight!" There are students who say that they have injured their eyesight by reading in this way. This is why the new lamps are especially appreciated.\n
A weekly charge of 75 cents is made, which is paid by the students through the fees. The lamps are to be available for students who have never had them before, and new students who have never used them.

The engraving charge will be 75c.

Rienow Speaks On Citizenship

The social studies department was represented at a meeting of the American Legion in Binghamton. Mr. James E. Rienow, assistant professor of government, was among the speakers at the meeting. Mr. Rienow spoke on the subject of citizenship and its importance in today's world. He emphasized the need for young people to be informed and engaged in the political process. The meeting was well attended and the discussion was lively.
