President Gould Keynotes All-University Convocation
Discusses College Role
In Developing Maturity

President Samuel Gould of the State University of New York highlighted Tuesday's All-University Convocation with a keynote address entitled "The Student and the University." In the speech he discussed the intellectual life of the University and how he hopes it will influence the student and the institution.

He began with a short welcomes of the Class of 1969, and went on to call the University, New Campus a symbol of change which will move the University "towards becoming a major educational and research center."

He then discussed the reasons for the University and the duty towards the student.

University's Existence
Gould stated the existence of the University a "major bastion of democratic ideals and the cultural traditions of this country."

"A democratic society wants a political system that a university should be free and subject to the values of democratic principles and to the hard work of the students," he said. "A university's major responsibility is not to tell the students what to learn, but to show them how to learn."

Preparation for Life
"A university education is not merely preparation for life, it is life itself." He called the student the "individual; he is an individual and he has the freedom to find his own path."

"The university may be the only place in the country where the young man is free to find his own path."

Dr. Fiser, Thorne Accept Positions As University's New Vice Presidents

The University enters the 1965-66 academic year buttressed by the creation of two new vice president positions. Dr. Harold Fiser, recently a professor of political science at SUNY Albany, will be appointed vice president for academic affairs. Dr. Thomas B. Thome, who was appointed dean of students on July 1, was elevated to vice president for student affairs.

Expanded Roles
Both vice presidencies will be expanded by Dr. Evan R. Collins, president of the University. "The move is done through the classroom, per-} President from the University drama faculty were Dr. Paul Pettit, the administration—Dean of new office, who will be in charge of the new Division of the University, and Miss Peggy Wood, noted American actress and president of the ANTA New York State Theatre Service director for the organization.

At the time of the announcement the campus was approved for the establishment of the new office which will be located in the University's administration building.
Welcome Faculty

When welcome is extended by student newspapers, they usually center entirely on students. We wish to welcome our new faculty and our new staff members.

No university community is composed entirely of students; the community is made up of Senator Doolittle to a freshman to a kitchen worker. We of the ASP hope you will all be members of our reading audience and that you will feel free to express your opinions in letters to our editors.

Activities Day

Welcome, freshmen, to our forever expanding University. Like most freshmen you are eager to take an active part in the university's social and cultural activities. In your eagerness many of you may have overlooked the fact that our university is composed entirely of students; the community is made up of Senator Doolittle to a freshman to a kitchen worker. We of the ASP hope you will all be members of our reading audience and that you will feel free to express your opinions in letters to our editors.

The Albany State Student Association is starting the year off with a bang. The organization is in the process of electing a new president and vice president, and the newly elected officers will be in charge of organizing the events and activities for the rest of the year. The selection process will be held during the first week of classes, and the new officers will be announced at the first meeting of the new student association. The association will be responsible for organizing and coordinating the various events and activities for the student body, including sports, social events, and cultural activities. The association will also be responsible for representing the student body to the administration and other outside organizations. The association will be a valuable resource for students, providing a platform for students to voice their concerns and ideas, and fostering a sense of community and involvement among the student body.

Sports

The Albany State athletic teams have been performing exceptionally well this season. The football team has been particularly successful, with several high-scoring games and a strong showing in the conference. The basketball team has also been performing well, with several wins in key games. The track and field team has been doing well in their competitions, with several athletes qualifying for the conference championships. Overall, the Albany State athletic teams have been competitive and have been successful in their respective sports.

Scene

The Albany State Student Association is also focusing on increasing student involvement in extracurricular activities. The association is working to increase student participation in the various clubs and organizations on campus, including the student newspaper, the student council, and student organizations such as the sorority and fraternity organizations. The association is also working to increase student involvement in community service projects and to promote a sense of community among the student body.

State University Theatre Announces Schedule for Upcoming Season

Excitement and variety have become the keynote words to describe the upcoming State University Theatre season. Five major productions, five guest artist appearances, and five student-directed plays constitute the bill for the 1965-1966 year. The season will begin with "The Trojan Women" and "The Legend of 1941" on October 9-12. The opening night will be used to select several of these productions as "Best of the Year." The season will end with "Of Mice and Men," "The Trojan Women," and "The Legend of 1941." The season will also feature a number of special events, including guest artist appearances and student-directed plays.

ASPA to Begin Fund Drive

In an effort to support the Foster Child program, the Albany State Student Association is launching a fund drive. The association will be raising funds through various events and activities, including a benefit concert, a dance, and a silent auction. The goal of the fund drive is to raise $10,000 to support the Foster Child program. The association is also asking for the support of the student body and the community in this important effort.
