Two Wins By Spirited Spikers Boost Record To 7-3

by Mike Drew

Coach Ted Eastman can only smile. It was a classic example of the perfect game. The Danes defeated the Cortland Red Dragons 15-4 and 9-2 for their second straight sweep in the SUNYAC conference.

The Danes, who remained unbeaten in the SUNYAC conference, improved their record to 3-0 in the league.

The 15-4 victory in the first game, which lasted only 24 minutes, was highlighted by a commanding 10-1 lead in the third game. The Danes took a 7-3 lead in the second game, but Cortland fought back to within three points, 5-2, before Albany went ahead with a 6-0 run.

In the second game, the Danes set a record for the most points scored in a game against Cortland. They scored 23 points in the first set, which was the highest total in a SUNYAC game.

The Danes' victory over Cortland was their third straight sweep in the SUNYAC conference.

Welfare Rights Groups Seek Budget Increase

Welfare rights groups from all over New York will have demanding the budget at the capital on Wednesday amid the state’s current budget negotiations.

According to the state’s budget forecast, the state faces a deficit of $6.9 billion. The state budget is the largest in the country, and it accounts for 40% of the state’s revenue.

The state budget crisis has been exacerbated by the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic, which has caused a significant drop in revenue. The state’s budget is projected to fall by $6 billion this year, with a projected deficit of $6.9 billion.

The welfare rights groups are demanding an increase in the state’s budget for social services, including education, healthcare, and housing. They are also calling for an increase in the state’s minimum wage to $15 per hour.

The groups are planning to hold a rally outside the state Capitol on Wednesday to demand an increase in the state’s budget for social services. They are calling on the state legislature to increase the state’s budget for social services by $3 billion.

The rally is expected to attract hundreds of people, including members of the state’s labor unions, who are calling for an increase in the state’s minimum wage.

Carver, director of the writing program in the English Department, is a native wonderer to RON. Coming here just last year, Carver previously taught at the University of Texas, Penn State College, and Western Washington State College.
According to Bernstein, Carver is the author of some 40 short stories, and he is at work on a novel set in his native Iowa.

Although Daly agrees with Carver that serious programs are not adequately financed to han-

Weird Representatives Issue Law to Stop Kids from Talking

This week, the state Senate passed a bill that would make it illegal for children under the age of 18 to speak in class.

The bill, introduced by Senator Robert Green of the Schenectady Arts Council (listener phone-in: 457-7777), would have dire consequences for the children and their families.

"This is a terrible solution," said Mark Shilling, executive director of the Right-to-Life Party. "It's a gross infringement on the rights of children and their parents."

The bill was a response to a recent case involving a child who spoke up in class.

"We need to empower children to speak up for themselves," said Lucretia Lang, a member of the Schenectady Arts Council. "This bill is a step in the wrong direction."
To Know Education is to Love It

by Robert Fite

The Daily Vindicator paper published this fall. The paper is intended to serve as a platform for students to express their views and engage in meaningful conversations about their experiences at SUNY.

The latest incident to provoke us to write is the reorganization of the dorms on Alumni Quad, an area which the students involved never received a bill for chemicals. The chemical fire extinguisher under my door and outside of the University Guidelines this is a surface-level inquiry, nothing was done. But, please remember kid, have you had an apathy, that great enemy of intelligent progress.

The second point I would like to clear up is that Pittman Hall was in the past. He is necessary today as all good persons, even the editors of the Daily Vindicator, are in the habit of saying, "I call 'em as I see 'em." The call of the editor is usually, at first, a warning, that I was indeed a bonafide official of that paper.

The extra cost is unnecessary, and the need to spend such a large amount of money on such a small item is not justified. We had to go out into the hallway at 3 or 4 o’clock in the morning, and it was a large number of options that I was given to choose from.

The RA was responsible for this dormitory reorganization, and her story can be refuted. She appeared in court minutes after she left, the noise would resume.

To the Editor:

Pat, it was natural for the contestant to fall during the final shot. In fact, the entire contest was a letter by Patricia Dowse which was called "The Shot of the Century." The call of the announcer in particular.

We arc writing this letter in response to the reactions that occurred last semester. We are calling the Shots, and we are asking our readers to consider the implications of this incident.

We believe that this situation is much more serious than it appears on the surface. We have been hurt here, and we are asking you to consider the implications of this incident.

The reaction to this situation was extremely critical, and we believe that it was a crime of waste to allow a person to be subjected to such treatment.

Please, take a little consideration.

Unhappy Birthday As Spikers Lose Two Matches

Defeats By Cornell, USMMA
Drop Albany Mark To 7-5

by Mike Dower

Saturday should have been a day for the Albany State indoor track squad to revel in the joy of their birthday. However, tragedy struck and there were no celebrations after the superlative performance their team displayed on March 10.

The Danes were coming off their six-month vacation and were ready for action. It was a break on the schedule for the Danes and a warm-up for the upcoming season.

The Danes were coming off their six-month vacation and were ready for action. It was a break on the schedule for the Danes and a warm-up for the upcoming season.

One year ago the Danes set a milestone in their history. Their victory over the Cornell men's track was a turning point in their season. The Danes had been on a winning streak and this victory served to solidify their position as the top team in the Ivy League. However, their victory over Cornell was marred by the loss of their star runner, Bruce Shapiro.

Shapiro was a key player for the Danes and his absence was felt throughout the season. The Danes struggled to replace his speed and endurance and this resulted in a disappointing season.

The Danes lost 15-11, 15-5, 15-8. "We were way off our game," said Earl. "We had lost confidence in our ability to win.

Earl gave the Ivy League squad much credit. "Cornell beat us," said Earl. "We had lost confidence in our ability to win.

Earl feels the team must improve their work ethic. "We have to work hard if we want to win. We have to be more disciplined.

The Danes have a chance to turn things around. With three games remaining in the season, they are still in contention for the Ivy League title. The team will need to improve their performance in order to challenge the traditional rivals.

Women's basketball coach Johnetiu Munsey also expressed his disappointment. "This was one we should have won,

"We have to work hard if we want to win. We have to be more disciplined.

Records Set In Weekend Track Meet

by W.D. Brashaw

A new record was set in the Illinois Winter Track Meet. The record is held by Bob Murney, who set a new record in the 600-yard dash.

The Danes finished third in the meet. It was a successful weekend for the Danes as they prepared for the upcoming season.

The Danes had a successful season last year. They finished in the top three in several meets and ended the season with a win.

The Danes have a good chance of repeating their success this year. They have several strong runners in their lineup and are poised to compete for the Ivy League title.

Women's Basketball Squad Decides To Forfeit Season

by Mayrene Garros

With three games remaining to play in the 1978-79 season, the Albany State women's basketball team decided to forfeit their final three games.

The decision was made after the team struggled through the season and finished in last place. The team was not able to overcome their injuries and losses in their lineup.

The program is expected to be restructured and a new coach will be appointed. The team will continue to compete in the upcoming season.

With three games remaining to play in the 1978-79 season, the Albany State women's basketball team decided to forfeit their final three games.

The decision was made after the team struggled through the season and finished in last place. The team was not able to overcome their injuries and losses in their lineup.

The program is expected to be restructured and a new coach will be appointed. The team will continue to compete in the upcoming season.

The Danes have a chance to turn things around. With three games remaining in the season, they are still in contention for the Ivy League title. The team will need to improve their performance in order to challenge the traditional rivals.

Proposed Bill To Raise Drinking Age In New York

by Paul A. Maguire

A new bill has been introduced in the New York State Assembly to raise the drinking age to 18.

The bill was introduced by Assemblyman James O'Rourke and is expected to be considered by the Assembly in the near future.

The bill would raise the drinking age from 21 to 18. The state has been considering the idea of lowering the drinking age for several years.
