HONOR SOCIETY TAPS 6 JUNIORS, 2 SOPHS; TO DINE THIS WEEK

Six juniors and two sophomores were tapped for membership in Eta Kappa Mu, honor society for students of social science, Tuesday at the annual meeting of the executive board, in the art department of the College. The annual dinner, held in the art department, was attended by most of the faculty and members in high average and leadership in philosophy.

The ceremony was performed in the presence of faculty members in the art department, and in the presence of the executive board and the students of the honor society. The candidates were called upon to sign the roll, and were presented to the board, which voted to admit them as members of the society.

New Model School To Relieve Practice Unit

Juniors at the State College are enthusiastic about the idea of using a new model school for practice teaching. The school is designed to provide a realistic teaching environment for students.

Each junior will be assigned a classroom and a group of students to teach, allowing them to gain practical experience in classroom management and instruction.

The model school will simulate various classroom environments, including elementary, middle, and high school settings. This will enable juniors to observe and analyze teaching styles and methods, enhancing their understanding of the teaching profession.

The new model school is expected to enhance the educational experience of State College juniors, preparing them for successful careers in education.

Questions About Intelligent Tests

“The intelligence tests we administer are reliable and valid,” Dr. Brown emphasized. “We ensure that the results accurately reflect the students’ abilities and potential.”

Dr. Brown further explained that these tests are essential for making informed decisions about educational placements and future career paths.

Students should prepare for these tests by reviewing relevant material and practicing problem-solving skills. This will help them perform at their best on the day of the test.

The State College’s commitment to educational excellence is evident in its focus on providing students with the best possible tools to succeed in their academic pursuits. By utilizing rigorous testing procedures, the college aims to foster a culture of learning and growth for all its students.
