SEX A BIG PROBLEM, DR. EDDY DECLARES

Rape Water Power Monopolies
And Student Ductility

Sex relationship and the danger growing out of wanton marriages, notable water power, are two great problems in which the present generation must cope, according to Dr. Sherman Eddy, traveling before the Y. M. C. A. and delivering a home to the new students at a dinner in the Y. M. C. A. last Thursday.

Dr. Eddy asked and answered two questions which he believes are vital to the welfare and success of women. They were: "Do I get married, or do I not get married?" and "If it is my type of person I wish to become?" "I am finding the real purposes of life," and "I am right and true in my relationship to life."

Dr. Eddy stated that the student of today is too busy to think of the problems of the future, and to combat the problems of today and then to come to grips with them. He declared that education did not mean merely gathering and obtaining a degree. He avoided students of America in too busy doing things, comparing them with students in other lands, who, he asserts, are far in advance of America in times of invention and discovery.

Asks For Faith in Science

Individuals of high caliber may lead a great degree influence with them come into contact, Dr. Eddy said. He pointed out some of the insect ensemble and eating coals who had felt a leading impression on one student's mind, asking that faith in science be revived. "We must take cognizance of the great varieties in the universe and their relation to ourselves," he said. "We must not seek explanations for everything, for we must have real faith in the ways of the universe and relation to us."

"Self-satisfaction will never bear success," Dr. Eddy added. He showed the need for contact with the spirit of the individual in order to make the messages effective.

"In discussing religion he said, "bring your hands and your hearts to right," a conclusion.

ALUMNI WILL ATTEND

Several alumni who are now principle schools will attend the ninth annual meeting of the Associated Academic Principals in Stowe during the weekend of December 27, 28, 29.

The meeting is held annually in the state, and is attended by the students on their own time. The meetings each year are among the Christmas vacation period.

Educational adjustment will be the central theme of the conference. The majority of the schools heard throughout the state will be in attendance. The program will be in the hands of the attenders, and will include topics of the students, where leaders in school work of the country will be expected.

Professor John N. Sayles, head of the education department and professor of education, M. G. Nelson, assistant professor of education, and Dr. F. W. Whitaker, professor of psychology at the college, will be expected to attend.

Mr. Sayles said the alumni of the French have been asked by Dr. Warren W. O'Connell, head of the correspondence school, to give their opinions on educational standards in the state education department, and to encourage him in a state educational research, a joint effort of the state and the university. The alumni of the State College will meet with the French.

TWO STARS OF DRAMA CLASS PLAYS

Greeks to Rush Plans to Freshmen; Begins February 4

Naturally with such freshmen girls for ten days beginning Monday, February 4, the first day of the second semester, the International Correspondence School has announced.

Form invitations will be sent to the freshmen, Thursday, January 31, offering each one invited five dates, from which she may select not more than three from each society.

Freshmen will leave their answers in the student mail box Monday morning, February 4.

During the rush period each society will give a rush party for the freshmen. Invitations to these parties should receive personal audience over a telephone; according to the rush rules of Interorganizing council. Following the rush period is a week of silence, starting with Wednesday, February 5, the day when bids are sent out. At the end of this time the freshmen will have sent in their answers and the initiation ceremonies will begin. According to the council ruling the initiation must be over by the following Sunday.
WHAT ARE TRADITIONS?

A clear definition of college traditions is needed, as is shown by recent developments in both the French and sophomore classes. The traditions are those which the student association has established as its culture. They should in no way distinguish between domestic traditions and social traditions. All traditions must be based on the following great principles: (1) that students shall be considered as members of the student association, (2) that the student association shall have complete authority over all student activities, and (3) that the student association shall have the right to determine the character of those activities.

Social rules are different matters. Social rules are not part of the tradition or of the faculty, nor are they part of the college. They are merely a matter of the faculty's interpretation of the rules for the sake of the students. If there is any tradition at all, it is the tradition of the faculty, and it is part of the tradition of the college. The traditions have been established to maintain the dignity of the faculty, to preserve the institution's traditions, and to prevent any possible conflict of interest between the faculty and the student body.

In the same spirit, the sophomore class has not been satisfied with a strong area of enforcement. It has made one mistake in enforcing a tradition: the enforcement of the sophomore rule, which is often violated by freshmen.

The tradition of the sophomore class is to be upheld, and it is the responsibility of the faculty to enforce the tradition. The faculty should not allow freshmen to violate the tradition, and they should not allow the tradition to be violated. The tradition is the responsibility of the faculty, and it is the responsibility of the student association to enforce it.

DR. SOUTH EXTENDS WORK IN MEASURING

A five year project in administration is being carried on at the State College for Teachers educators and students who are interested in the field of education and psychology are invited to participate in the study.

Tests And Measurement Classes Administered by Dr. South in Albany Schools

An extensive project in administration of educational testing has been set up for his education courses by Dr. Earl R. South, professor of educational psychology at the School of Education, and the staff of the Education Department.

The tests are being administered in the Albany public school system, in the Albany Academy for Girls, the Albany High School, and the U. S. Navy School in the grade and high schools at Schenectady.

The inclusion of this program in the Albany public school system is required by the members of the Education Department as a signal achievement since the theory gained in class is applied in the actual administration of the tests. This is the first year that college classes have administered tests in local schools.

Tests at Academy for Girls

Students from both Education 112 and 144 have been helping test 120 pupils in the Albany Academy for Girls. State College students must continue to work in cooperation with the Academy in helping keep the tests up to date. These students, who have also participated in the testing programs of the nursing training class in the Albany Hospital, are supervised by Dr. John E. South, professor of psychology at the State College of Teachers.

Problem Cases at Asylum

Tests which were begun last year have been continued this year. The number of students has been increased to 210, and the tests are administered by the members of the Education Department.

Park Lake Available for Student Skating

Washington Park lake will be available for skating this winter, according to Dr. John T. Baker, second-year student. A skating club was organized last March, and the group is planning to skate once a week.

Hustling High Sports Evergreen and Holly

The evergreen and holly games were played in the corridors of Husted Hall last week by members of the Home Economics club under the direction of Miss E. H. Stage, 29th of Albany. The games were held as a form of recreation to pass the time between classes.
