Zurich Incident

To the Editor:

The Zurich incident is the latest result of the international scene in the 1960's. In a little more than a year's time the Swiss authorities have been forced to admit that they are incapable of controlling the activities of a small band of young, mostly American, revolutionaries. The activities of the band have been so far-reaching that the Swiss government has been forced to take action.

Math Revision

The ASP Mathematics Department is now revising its Calculus and Analytical Geometry program for the Fall semester. Although the present system of these courses is clumsy, and our curriculum planners will have to take into account the needs of students and teachers, the new program will be vastly superior to the present one.

"To the Editor:

The pluses of thinking with one's tongue instead of one's head which has struck this editor in the last few weeks is the word "swimming." Perhaps nothing is more appropriate to students, who live and think in the nitty-gritty of language. The word "swimming" is one of the few words in English that is not only a word in itself, but also a word that describes a particular activity.

Required Comp.

To the Editor:

We, the students of the ASP, hereby declare that the Comp. is a necessary part of every student's education. Although we may not agree that it is the only way to learn, we feel it is an essential part of the educational process. We feel that the Comp. is a necessary part of every student's education. Flynn, riot bill grilled by students, open discussion is not short order

With more than 500 students present, Tom Casey, Co-Captain Correspondent of the ASP, was grilled by students on the bill he has proposed to cut off state financial aid for students who are not in good standing. Flynn's argument was defeated by students, who were in favor of the bill's removal. Flynn then made his argument by saying that he believed in the removal of the bill, and that he believed in the students' ability to learn. The students were in favor of the bill's removal, and they felt that Flynn's argument was not valid.

Violent armed forces suggested as substitute

Two years are U.S. Senator Mark O. Hatfield introduced a bill substituting a voluntary armed force for the conscripted army. This effort, some believe, is a project of the social political and economic philosophy of the American government and efforts to incorporate amendments in the Selective Service Act was debated. The draft's continuation emphasized social and political issues.

The Senate's vote was 98-1 in favor of the bill, which was expected to pass. The bill, proponents argue, would be a more effective and efficient way to build the military forces. The bill is designed to provide a volunteer army instead of a conscripted army.

The bill would give the President of the United States the authority to declare a national emergency and to call out the armed forces to suppress the rebellion. The bill would allow the President to use the armed forces to protect the national interests.

A key provision of the bill is that the President could declare a national emergency and order the armed forces to suppress the rebellion. The bill would also allow the President to use the armed forces to protect the national interests.

The bill has been introduced in the House of Representatives as well. The House version of the bill is expected to be debated in the coming weeks. The bill is supported by both parties and is expected to pass the House.

The bill is a response to the growing concerns about the conscripted army. The draft system has been criticized for being unfair and ineffective. The bill would provide a more voluntary and efficient army.

The bill is expected to be debated in the Senate and House in the coming weeks. The bill is supported by both parties and is expected to pass both chambers. The bill is an important step towards a more effective and efficient army.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Flynn

Senator Flynn's appearance on campus was most appropriately appreciated by the students who greeted him after the question-and-answer period. There was a sense of gratitude and appreciation that, for the first time, the students had the opportunity to voice their opinions and ask questions of an annual member of the Senate. This was a significant step in the direction of democratic governance.

Alcohol Revision

The regulations governing some areas in which alcohol consumption is permitted on campus are now being revised and will be effective for the academic year 1970-71. We feel that the new policies, which allow alcohol to be consumed in the living areas, are much more appropriate than the ones now in force.

Great Danes

Another successful season has come to an end for the Great Danes Basketball team, but this year's victory is different. The team has become a model for the University and has been well-supported by the students. We hope that this trend will continue into future seasons.

Albanian Conflict

To the Editors:

There will be a lasting peace in the Middle East when the Arabs and Jews understand each other. But until that happens, there will always be a risk of another war breaking out.

M.J.'s Misconceptions

To the Editors:

I should like to point out that my previous article was intended to clarify one point of view on the subject of the Arab-Israeli conflict. I believe that it is important for people to understand each other's perspective in order to find a lasting solution to this problem.

Eugene D. Epstein

Popular Elections

At the elections of the central council section of the New York State Student Association, the candidates for president were selected by a majority of the students. The new officers of the central council will be elected by a majority of the students.

Forum Desired

To the Editors:

We believe that there is a need for a forum where students can express their opinions and have open discussions on various topics. Such a forum would allow for a more inclusive dialogue and contribute to a better understanding of different perspectives.

John Q. Public

Popular Elections

We also support the idea of having more open forums on campus, which would allow for a more inclusive dialogue and contribute to a better understanding of different perspectives. Such forums would provide a platform for students to share their thoughts and engage in constructive conversations.
