To the Editor:
You have been at State almost a week. You have doubtless been buried in a sea of extracurricular activities as well as in the depths of classes. You have received advice from sources innumerable. The top of all this advice, the News ventures to add, is this: Don’t pay too much for your whistle. It’s this: Don’t pay too much for your whistle.

要闻

The News does not necessarily reflect the opinions of extracurricular activities. It may, therefore, be true that all (or nearly all) your epithets have been substitutes for the language of the streets, but it is far more likely that all the Committees of the students have been formed in order to gain a place in the tradition in many a student who rejoices, later finds he has rejoiced were anything bin that. Lack of interest in recent years make them prove it just now. The tradition of the being on the publishing staff of the News does not necessarily reflect the opinions of the student body.

News "Hound" To Resume Place As House Organ For Staff Workers

Thirty-three issues of the State College News will be published during the present college year, according to a program announced this week following a conference between William M. Frantz, 29, editor-in-chief, and Thomas P. Falton, 29, business manager.

Beginning with today’s issue, the News will be published each Friday until May 31, except during vacation periods, Falton declared.

The News today has the best equipped plant in its history, he declared. During the summer, two steel filing cabinets were purchased for the filing of newspapers, advertising contracts, supplies, and other records from time to time.

Registration of the "Hound" will be announced today by the editorial department. This is a home organ devoted to the purpose of promoting better cooperation between members of the staff, and in the publication of a better newspaper. The "Hound" will be a mimeographed sheet, and will be sold to all members of the staff.

An editor for the "Hound" will be named soon and will be in charge of all matters relating to the circulation of the "Hound". He will be "Linux-Hound" will be a mimeographed sheet, and will be sold to all members of the staff.

Return From England

VanKleek is Named Walden School Head

Edwin R. VanKleek, a graduate of State College, has been appointed superintendent of schools at Walden. Before going to Walden, Mr. VanKleek was principal of the junior high school at Plattsburgh, N.Y.

Two faculty members who returned from England for the opening of the junior high school at Plattsburgh, Mr. VanKleek and Miss E. W. Turnell, are extremely pleased with their experiences in the United Kingdom. They were members of the delegation of American teachers who visited the schools and universities there

The Inns of Court have been represented in the universities of England by Dr. M. G. Nelson, assistant professor of law, and Miss Winchell, professor of home economics, trained in England, and Miss Kleeck, instructor in English, studied in Oxford. Miss Winchell, a charter member of the Kappa Delta chapter, will return in the summer to complete her course at Oxford University this summer

Kappa Delta announces the marriage of Albia Jeannette Crawford, '27, to Charles E. Stewart, last Saturday, August 20.

In addition to the usual announcements of the society, many other events have occurred in the past few weeks

The students who successfully passed the trait index tests administered last week under the direction of the educational department are: George F. Sullivan, 27, and Lucille Beauty, 28, of the community. The tests, according to Mr. VanKleek, are for the purpose of determining the ability of the students to accept educational procedure, on a scale of 1 to 100.
