We Shall Also Serve—

War is in all its fury and relentless stubbornly thrust down upon the American people last Sunday afternoon. Thus, war was irrefutable. It is also unanswerable and no formality.

We are the men and women of the University of Idaho, and we shall also serve. We, the men and women of our land, in defense of the Council with that of the academic and our four fraternities, who have already given their lives in defense of their country. (We shall also serve.)

While battles are being fought, we remain here in an atmosphere of the war's intensity. That the efforts and sacrifices of the men and women of the University of Idaho are known throughout the world. And we shall also serve.

We are the men and women of the University of Idaho, and we shall also serve. We, the men and women of our land, in defense of the Council with that of the academic and our four fraternities, who have already given their lives in defense of their country. (We shall also serve.)

To the Editor:

I am a member of the Gamma Phi Alpha sorority and I have noticed that many of our members are not active in the war effort. I am writing this note to express my concern and to urge them to participate more actively in the war effort.

Sincerely,

Rebuttal to Mr. Takas

Communications

Mr. Takas, in his article titled "Communications" in the Collegiate Digest, states that he has noticed a lack of communication among our student body. However, I believe that the situation is not as bad as he suggests.

For one, there have been several attempts to improve communication. For example, the student government has created a new communication board to facilitate better communication between students and the administration.

Moreover, many students have been actively participating in various clubs and organizations, which often require effective communication. I think it is safe to say that the lack of communication is due more to individual initiatives rather than a general lack of interest.

In conclusion, while there may be some room for improvement, I do not believe that the situation is as dire as Mr. Takas suggests. Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Connecticut Defeats State In Eagles' Home Opener

April 19, 1943

Clarkson, St. Lawrence Canok State Squad; Play Here Next Week

Frosh Will Play Albany Law Five

Connecticut won a thrilling upset victory over St. Lawrence, 20-18, in the home opener for the Eagles this afternoon.

The best part of the early score was an example of the high-caliber of the Eagles when ranked and playing against top-notch teams. In this particular case, the Eagles were playing against a team that had already been defeated by the Eagles.

The game was started by an on-target two-yard run by Bob Seifert, who scored on the first play of the game. The Eagles' lead was increased to 10-0 when Davy Cook scored on the next play.

Connecticut, on the other hand, was playing with less confidence. They were playing with less confidence than usual, and it showed in their lack of successful running plays.

The Eagles continued to score in the final period to allow the Eagles to win, 20-18.

The Eagles' defense was strong, allowing only 18 points to the Eagles. The Eagles' offense was also strong, scoring 20 points.

Connecticut fans were overjoyed with the win, as they had been waiting for a victory for several weeks. The Eagles' fans were disappointed, as they had been looking forward to a victory against the Eagles.

The Eagles will play Albany Law Five in their next game.

Statistics Reveal Commerce Majors Lead Placements

Mathematics and Science Most Popular Combination

A study recently completed at the State College News, reveals that Commerce Majors are the most popular choice among students. This is followed closely by Mathematics and Science Majors. The study was conducted by the Educational Research Board of the State College News, with the cooperation of the Department of Economics. The results indicate that Commerce Majors have a significant lead over the other categories, with Mathematics and Science being the second most popular. The study also shows that Arts and Humanities Majors are the least popular, with only a small percentage of students choosing this field. The study was conducted over a period of six months and involved a sample of 10,000 students. The results are believed to be reliable and can be used as a reference for future planning.
