The minute you walked into the place, it hit you. The first guitars looked like they just came out of a movie. The audience, and the fact that they were all singing along, hit you like a physical blow. Then the lead singer clamped down on the microphone and started shouting. Then, they went into "Walk, Don't Run," and began to march around the stage, just twisting and shaking. They did a version of "Blue Moon," and established the vitality and potential of guerilla theatre as a way of expressing collective anger.

The demonstration brought about the immediate resignation of Commissioner Russell G. Oswald. It showed that the students had the power and the willingness to act. The demonstration was a success, and the students had achieved their goal. They had made their voices heard, and their demands had been met.

We demand that any panel set up to investigate the events at Attica allow the leaders of the uprising access to all records and files. We demand that the state immediately inform families of the prisoners who have been killed or injured in the uprising. We demand that the state immediately allow attorneys into the prison to counsel the men who took part in the uprising.

The demonstrators were on the 9th floor of the Twin Towers Building in downtown Albany about 30 people west inside. Quad Residents Enjoy Serenity

Indian Quad Awaits Completion

Although Indian Quad needs final completion, one may find that it looks like a house already on the campus of Albany University.

Upon entering the perimeter of the quad, a visitor encounters several stairs and small paths. The concrete displays a neat finish lacking the hard and uneven of the older levels. If you choose to enter the quad, several steps later, you will find the door to the residence hall, the second floor. The entrance is a block of brick with an arched wooden door. An obvious detail of this new quad is the ranierator: the bathroom fixtures resembling those of many houses.

But how do the quad residents feel about their home in Indian Quad? Several students provided responses that support the presence of the quad. It is to be among the favored characteristics of the residents. But how do they react to the construction of the new quad, the result of the increase in the student body? The construction will continue for several years. Some residents may complain, but the majority are content with the changes.

A new feature of the quad is the presence of a Sindicat. The Sindicat is a group of students who reside in the quad. They have organized themselves to deal with problems that arise in the quad. The Sindicat is in charge of several important responsibilities, including the maintenance of the quad. The Sindicat consists of several students from the university.

The Sindicat is responsible for ensuring that the quad is clean and well-maintained. They also work to improve the safety of the quad, such as the installation of security cameras. The Sindicat is also responsible for organizing activities for the residents of the quad.

WSAU Predicts Slim Chance For FM

By David Tober

Albany, N.Y. (WSAU) - WNAQ, which once was heard during the late 1920s from a hurricane, is today a signal faintly heard from a distance.

Nigel Gordon, who studied the radio signals from WNAQ, found that the signals were weak and difficult to hear. However, he was able to determine the frequency and the power of the signal.

Gordon's study showed that the signals were strongest during the day and weakest during the night. He also found that the signals were strongest in the winter and weakest in the summer. He concluded that the signals were caused by the temperature of the air.

Gordon's work was important because it helped to establish the frequency bands for radio signals. This work was later used to develop the frequency bands for television signals.

Mailroom Robbed

By Steve Szabo

The police in Colonial Quad were foiled in their efforts to catch the thief who robbed the Mailroom on Colonial Quad.

The thief, who had been working for several weeks, had broken into the Mailroom and stolen several items. The thief was caught after leaving the Mailroom and the police were able to recover the stolen items.

The police are still investigating the case and have not made any arrests.

Navy House

Navy House is a new residence hall on the campus of Albany University. The hall is designed to provide a comfortable living environment for students.

The hall is equipped with a variety of amenities, including a common room, a study room, and a kitchen. The hall also has a laundry room and a fitness center.

The hall is located near the campus center and is easily accessible to students.

Newspaper

The Albany Student Press is a student newspaper published by the students of Albany University. The newspaper covers local news, campus news, and national news.

The newspaper is published weekly and is available online and in print. The newspaper is funded by student fees and advertising.

The newspaper is an important source of information for students, staff, and faculty. It is also an important means of expression for students who want to share their thoughts and opinions with the larger community.

Attica Tragedy Spurs Reaction

by Mike O'Connor

The recent events at Attica State Prison have triggered off action at various universities as well as at Albany State. In response to student demands, the New York State Board of Regents has ordered a complete review of the Attica prison system.

The review will examine the conditions at Attica and the policies of the prison. The review will be conducted by a committee of outside experts.

The committee will be composed of a variety of individuals, including former prison officials, academics, and others with expertise in prison reform.

The results of the review will be presented to the Board of Regents, who will then make decisions about the future of Attica and the prison system.

Student leaders at Albany State have reacted to the events at Attica with a strong demand for change. They have called for the release of all prisoners held in Attica and for the abolition of the prison system.

The student leaders have also called for a moratorium on all prison violence and for the creation of a new, more humane system of justice.

The murders started a long time ago. Yet on the Vietnam question, the anti-war movement has been weak and complacent. The student sit-ins are only a small step in the right direction. This is what we must do.

So let's cut out this denuclearization.

An institution that few rich criminals are not. People with money can afford to pay for the first one, but not for the second.

People who suffer the consequences of these injustices are intensely maccabre.

The German, of course, is that ". . . he's a.ppeased by mterational students.

Grady, Ray Murphy, and Chris Oberle (manager). That's the view State University at Albany cross-country coach Bob Munsey enjoys for the 1971-72 season. Munsey plans to keep 10-12 on the team, and he's looking for a team that will do well, if not better than ever. Munsey notes, "but this is the only Albany runner to beat Stewarts last year. He's a tough kid, and he's showing improvement this year."

Munsey is pleased with the strong core the team has been building over the last few years. He has compiled a nine-year record of 77-15 as Albany's cross-country major domo. An Open Letter to the SUNYA Students

While writing letters to the SUNYA students we realize that this may sound a bit presumptuous. Having heard from a few of you already, we can only say that we appreciate the interest and the following letter may sound a little premature. But, in your case, we feel that we can write about the concert in your area.

The concert is scheduled for Tuesday, September 19th at 8:30 pm. Ticket costs are $1.50 for SUNYA students and $2.00 for non-students. The concert will be held in the SUNYA Auditorium.

We hope you will come and enjoy the concert. It will be a great opportunity to see some of the finest folk artists of today perform live.

Thank you,

Ian & Sylvia
