It Could Be Worse

Thanksgiving vacation with its merry, happy groups and pranks in the dorm rooms seems to be over. We have no time for over-enthusiastic pranks; therefore let us now speak of the most disgraceful prank of the season: the damage wrought on the walls of the MAHS Dormitory.

This prank was committed on November 30th by a high school student. It is rather difficult to understand how such a prank could be committed by one who had been taught to value the property of others. The damage was done by the painting of swastikas on several of the walls.

We are indebted to the local police department for their assistance in bringing the offender to justice. The offender has been handed over to the authorities, and will be tried next week for the crime.

We are also indebted to the students of the MAHS Dormitory for their cooperation in helping to identify the offender. We are certain that the offender will be punished severely for this act.

We would like to remind all students that the property of others is to be respected, and that such acts of vandalism will not be tolerated.

Japanese March Into Manchuria Marks True Beginning of War

By Paul Johnson

In the Pacific, the invasion of Manchuria by Japanese military forces marks the true beginning of the World War. This was the scenario presented at a meeting of the Interfraternity Council last night. The occasion was planned to commemorate the occasion when Japan first started World War II. The meeting was attended by representatives of the entire College.

The meeting also served as a preview for the coming radio program by the Interfraternity Council. The program will be entitled "Pearl Harbor Day," and will deal with the significance of Pearl Harbor to the progress of the war.

Hitler's Headaches

Hitler's problems of today are potentially the six-year fight with Japan. A great deal of the 1940 campaign was world domination. America sat back and foolishly backed by Britain and France. The fascist philosophy whose ultimate aim was world domination has been severely defeated by the power and resources of the U.S.

Remember Pearl Harbor

Remember, Pearl Harbor is a drop in the ocean of war. The war against fascism has not yet reached its climax. The boys who did everything right, the boys who were loyal to their colleges, and who have been so many years working for the rights of the people have now reached a point where they are fighting to restore freedom to the world.

Varsity Debaters Will Attempt To Put Skids Under Skidmorites

By Lewis Cooper

The debate committee has decided to challenge the Skidmorites to a debate in order to stop this devastating onslaught. Mr. Kiley's performance was good and will certainly stop this devastating onslaught. The important thing is to maintain the peace and to put an end to this destructive and unprofitable war.
