STATE FACULTY TO SEE MANY CHANGES

Dr. Conwell Heads Mathematics Faculty at St. Paul's School This Year

PERINE, PELTZ RETURN

MRS. HUYYAC AS COLLEGE

Second new Faculty changes have been announced by President A. R. Brubaker. The new appointments are those of Miss Edith Owen Waller, instructor in Latin, and Miss C. M. Egan, instructor in French. Miss Waller is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Waller of this city, and Miss Egan is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Egan of this city. Miss Waller received her B.A. degree at St. Paul's College in 1922, and her M.A. degree at the University of Maryland in 1924. Miss Egan received her B.A. degree at St. Paul's College in 1922, and her M.A. degree at the University of Maryland in 1924.

Miss Edith Owen Waller, instructor in Latin, has been appointed in the Department of Modern Languages to replace Miss E. M. C. Egan, instructor in French. Miss Waller, Miss Egan and Miss C. M. Egan will all be members of the faculty at St. Paul's School this year.

The change in the faculty is the result of the previously announced resignations of Miss E. M. C. Egan, instructor in French, and Miss C. M. Egan, instructor in Latin.

Dr. Conwell continues to serve as the head of the Mathematics Department at St. Paul's School. He has been at the College for many years, and has made a great contribution to the education of the students.

Sophomore Miss Alice Kirkpatrick, who has been appointed to the faculty of the College, will substitute for Miss Egan. Miss Kirkpatrick is a graduate of the State University of New York at Albany, and has been on the faculty of the College for several years. She is well known for her ability to teach mathematics and to inspire her students to do their best.

Miss Egan's resignation is due to her marriage. She will be married on September 1st, and she will be replaced by Miss Waller. Miss Waller has been on the faculty of the College for several years, and has been a great asset to the department of Modern Languages.

SOME ARE BORN TO RADICALISM—SAYS JEAN PAUL MARAT'S NEW BOOK

Jean Paul Marat—A Study in Radicalism. By Louis R. Gotschall. $1.22 pages. New York: Greenberg. Professor Gotschall has given students of the French Revolution a most interesting account of the political and social life of Marat. It is written in a style that is both informative and entertaining. The author has succeeded in making Marat's career understandable to all readers.

The object of this editorial is to point out an existing conflict that should be remedied. The composition and printing, proof reading, and overall quality of the publication still need to be improved. The mouthpiece of the student body. Any good student will be accepted as reasonable by most people. The papal government, however, is not.

Forbidden Books

Forbidding Books (Editorial, Christian Evangelist)

One of the steady reports against the Roman Catholic Church from time immemorial has been the practice of burning the books of those who disagree with its position. Professor books come in for special treatment in this respect, but not of course all Protestant books are put on the index. Many errors of judgments were committed by the Roman Catholic authorities as well as in many other things. A recent pronouncement by the Vatican on this subject will be accepted as reasonable by most people. The papal interdict shows...

Forbidding Books (Editorial, Christian Evangelist)

No fragile and weak is human nature, that wrests eloquence of style or technical achievement on multi-racial and philosophical grounds. It is possible for a book of less than thirty pages to contain many mistakes. The book that was written by the author of this editorial is so written that the editor does not have to be too much of a critic.

The following is an excerpt from the director of the English and French departments:

"...some errors have been made in the composition of the book. Some students have been known to put on the index. The books of those who disagree with the Church are not put on the index. The Church has a right to put on the index to protect its interests and to preserve its own books..."
Oxford To Publish Book By Thompson

"Life Of Henry Mackenzie" Has Anceodos Of Scott And Burns

Margaret Albany Alumni Event

Anecdotes and Excursions of Henry Mackenzie" collected and edited by Dean George B. Thompson will be released this month by the American Institute of Foreign Study. Dr. Thompson, who is professor of English at the University of Edinburgh, also published "Life of Henry Mackenzie," which will be published in the fall.

Henry Mackenzie, close friend of Scott, was the first Scottish novelist, and the anecdotes of the house (later in the possession of Sir Walter Scott) where he was born have been published.

He did not publish these for fear of offending his friends, Dr. Thompson said.

In his will MacKenzie asked Scott to have the work published.

"It happened that Scott died within a year and the book was never printed," declared Dr. Thompson. Two years ago, Dr. Thompson went abroad in search of the manuscript and found it in a monthly mortgage in England. He prepared it for publication and wrote an introduction.

The book concerns leading men's and women's interests of the period. It includes anecdotes about Scott, Pitt, Garrick, Johnson, Burns and Lady Hester. The value of these anecdotes, Dr. Thompson thinks, is chiefly in their contribution to interpretation of social life in the eighteenth century.

State College News, September 23, 1927
The STATE COLLEGE NEWS is conducting a campaign to enlist members of the entering freshman class as "cubs" reporters. Last year more than sixty freshmen were enlisted in newswriting classes taught by editors of the paper.

Besides Miss Higgins, the governing board of the student publication are: Katherine E. Saxton, '28, interior managing editor; William M. French, '28, managing editor; Elizabeth White plate, '28, associate managing editor. This board has a constitution from the student association empowering it to direct the policies of the paper.

Freshmen students have been appointed to the staff of the weekly. This is the largest staff ever named, exceeding the 1926-27 staff by ten. With the expected freshman assistants, more than one hundred students will be connected with the editorial, news, and feature work. Among these fresh assistants, all but a hundred students tried out for positions this year, according to the governing board.

The former subscription department has been merged with the business department, and new students in finding rooming and dining are encouraged to contact the staff of the freshman handbook, copies of which have been sent to entering students.

Miss Mildred Lusky, '29, editor-in-chief, and Gladys Vanden, '29, assistant editor, are in charge of the publication.

For juniors are members of the staff of the freshman handbook, copies of which have been sent to entering students.

Miss Mildred Lusky, '29, is editor-in-chief. The associate editors are: Virginia Sokich, Seflley Cobb, William M. French and Gladys Vanden. In the book are included messages concerning students from Dr. A. R. Myer, president of the college; William H. Brubacker, president of the college-student; and Gladys Vanden, '29, president of the junior class.

The book is bound in dark green imitation leather and stamped in gold on the spine.

Features of the book are a calendar of events during the college year, and events over the history of State college, and the future of world thinking and study together we will discover new frontiers of expert knowledge and Social work

Conference was conducted by Dr. T. Z. Ross of China who was educated in this country and has done much valuable work for his own nation. He said, "The future of China is bound up with the Christian spirit of fellowshipping of America and a kindly co-experience with the Chinese student, which is growing in America.
