Dean Derringer Relates New Program Changes

In a recent interview Dr. Jack McElvain, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, discussed the changes he is planning for the General Program of Study. The General Program is currently being revised with the assistance of a committee of faculty members. The changes are designed to better prepare students for the job market and to provide a more flexible curriculum. The revised program will be submitted to the Academic Council for approval in the fall. The new program will be implemented in the fall of 1963.
Audit and Credit

The Trustees have apparently discussing student credit in many colleges. However, those at State University, New York, addressed their recommendations for auditing and credits. They hit the point that state colleges adopt similar programs.

Under such a system any student in good academic standing who is registered as a student at the end of the term may receive additional units by the approval of his advisor and the instructor concerned.

An auditing student could be permitted until the end of the grace period and prior to the beginning of the next term for studies to convert his audit registration to regular registration credits. The written approval of both his instructor and advisor is required.

Individual instructors could establish a work program necessary for changing from audit to regular registration.

This program would enable the gifted and interested students to graduate with a broader background and avoid additional credit fees. The less able students who wish to try some liberal arts, but would not have the time for a major course which interests him could audit it, and if he finds himself capable of the added work load, add the course for credit.

Honor and Secrecy

We understand that for student credit records kept by the college is there a need for the flexibility which has been recommended? Although we do not think that students must have complete flexibility in this respect, we do believe that they should have the right to change their minds.

At Queen's College, Oath, a new democratic student body and other student-faculty committees, is recognized. The college students, who are privileged to inform them, represents the students and their privileges, and the general public with the college's mission.

To honor freedom of activity, the student council, representing students in those areas should not be "inducements" to maintain activities that are not related.

Statements on credits or for the use of books to the students and a general privilege of the students regarding the number of books obtained, are not related.

Editor's Note

The editors of the News are perfectly willing to accept letters from students who wish to express their views. However, the editors do not necessarily accept the views of the writers. They are not always expressed in the News, even if the views expressed are not related to the number of books obtained, are not related.
