Double Task

The United States is winning the third year of war. For three years now little Ray's academic and social life keep pace with the work of the country. We see, however, that this has meant a lot of hard work. In the past, some subjects in college life have changed little; but now, more than ever, the scope of the war is national. Other school activities have been enormously affected by the war. But now, more than ever, the scope of the work is national.

USAF To Aid Ex-Service Men

Ex-Service Men

College students now in the service will find that they can also serve the service by filling out the data we are using, and by taking their proper part in the planning of our work. We have a job to do in this war, and the compliments of our friends are that you are doing it, and that they will bring in more students to help us.

The flood of students coming out of the service will result in a great demand for college attendance. None of us can afford to be at the end of the block until we are needed. We must be there as soon as we can. This will be the result of a mania acquired by the country for what they call 'Americanism.'

Services Prefer V-Mail Letters

The Naval Department is stressing the need for V-Mail letters. These are letters that can be sent directly to the officer or to the home of the officer's family. This is a great service, and it is especially useful in the cases where the officer is not stationed at a post where he can receive mail regularly. The Naval Department is urging everyone to use V-Mail letters as much as possible.
