FACULTY SURPRISES

All Porks, on Deck

Dr. Hastings certainly surprised us with his entertainment Friday night. In the first place it wasn’t in the gymnasium, but in the auditorium. Last year we thought Mr. Hesser sang his very best, but what could have been better than Mr. Hesser’s singing this year? He was accompanied by Miss Elizabeth Oglesby, who also accompanies him in class. We are all glad to know that Mr. Hesser will sing again next Friday evening.

The second surprise was given by Miss Anna Neukom and Professor Harry Birchenshough, who would ever suggest that Miss Neukom could whistle? Or that Professor Birchenshough could play? Will wonders ever cease? we thought.

They didn’t cease, for Professor York, the only human phonograph on record appeared next. He contributed greatly to the success of the evening. It was remarked afterwards by a great many people that Professor York ought to patent his whistle, and advertise in all the magazines.

Our greatest surprise was given by Dr. Hastings himself. His delightful readings from Pickwick Papers were certainly enjoyed. Dr. Hastings is to be congratulated upon his ability in producing faculty surprises.

After a few announcements, the surprise party adjourned to the gymnasium, where Charlie Reilly’s jazz band played for dancing. In between the dances soft drinks were sold to the thirsty.

DR. MCCORD GIVES HEALTH LECTURE

Doctor McCord, of the State Health Department, gave the first of a series of Friday afternoon lectures a week ago, before the College Nurses’ Training Class. Doctor McCord told first of the trouble that the school nurse had in overcoming the prejudices of the pupils. But he had not been too willing to cooperate with her. But ten years of efficient work and steady progress are doing much to bring the nurse into high favor with all her associates.

The rest of the hour was spent in showing lantern slides of the health work that is being done in the schools of Albany and the vicinity. Every Albany school child is given an examination yearly, and the school nurses see to it that the doctor’s suggestions are carried out, and where the parents are unable to meet the expense of proper medical care, the Board of Education takes steps to see that the child has the needed attention. In cases of tuberculosis the children are taken to a school room where other cases are also kept. Here they sleep and play and study out of doors, even in the harshest weather, protected by their warm eskin suits, and served warm wholesome food from the school kitchen.

It is no longer proper, Doctor McCord went on to say, to close the schools because of an epidemic. If the school is closed, the children are only left free to run the streets, and contract the disease from their playmates. But if in case of contagious disease the children are kept in school, they can be examined daily by nurses and doctors, and in cases of diphtheria cultures can be taken, and these showing signs of illness, can be isolated and the disease quickly and easily stopped.

It has long been known, however paradoxical it may seem, that city children are more healthy than the children of rural districts. This was true in spite of the much boasted advantages of the country. Because as one man said, the country air was so fine, because everyone slept with the windows closed. But with the school nurse and the advent of more sanitary rural schools, the country is fast becoming as healthful a place in which to live as the city.

FIRST ORGAN RECITAL

On Wednesday afternoon, July 19, Prof. T. Frederick H. Caudly gave the first of his organ recitals at St. Paul’s Episcopal Church. Many availed themselves of the opportunity to hear a master of the pipe organ, give several selections. Among the combination of famous and student body were represented.

The program was as follows:

DO IT NOW
Since the summer session began two lessons in the auditorium between twelve and one o'clock, with the exception of July 20, have been given. These lectures will be held in the auditorium at 12 o'clock.

The students of the summer session as a body and the students in various departments have seen and will see every opportunity to hear women and men of prominence in the teaching profession. The public lectures arranged for in the auditorium between twelve and one and in the conferences arranged in the afternoon, by the department of commercial education, have secured the following lecturers: Mr. W. Barnhart, Supervisor in Commercial Education, Federal Board for Vocational Education; Miss Isabel Craig Bacon, Specialist in Retail Selling, Federal Board for Vocational Education; Dr. C. W. Ruggles, Director of Domestic Institute, Minneapolis; Mr. A. W. Fielding, Supervisor of Commercial Education, New York City. These lectures will be held at two o'clock in the afternoon in Room 101. The duties of the lecturers will be announced later.

The department of immigration education announces the following speakers: Mr. Roes, Director of Immigration Education, General Electric Company, Schenectady; Miss Lila Keese, Supervisor and Organizer of Immigration Education, New York City; July 25; Mr. Lester Rice, formerly of the United States Army, July 27; Dr. R. J. Hill, Department of Commercial Education, Albany, August 1; Dr. Eunice Patton, State Department of Labor, Albany, August 5. The lectures will be held at one-thirty in the afternoon in Room 101, with the exception of that by Dr. Patton, which will begin at two o'clock.

In addition to the above, W. H. Manns will demonstrate the use of lantern slides in the classroom on Monday and Tuesday; and in the auditorium, from twelve to one o'clock. Miss Bicking will demonstrate the use of lantern slides on Tuesday, two o'clock. Miss Fielding will demonstrate the use of lantern slides in the conference room on Monday and Tuesday, two o'clock. Dr. Conwell of the College of Education, State Department of Education, at 12 o'clock.

SMITH—"It tells here in this paper of a man who has had an offer in his possession for twenty years."

CLARK—"That's long enough. He ought to return it.

"Funny how a fat woman always feels bigger than she looks.

"Who told you that?

"No, I danced with a man last night."—Stanford Chaparral.

"Poor old Aunt Carline!" said a young colored girl. "She was taken on terrible when I seen her last. Cold as it was, she hadn't a nicked in her house to buy cold water.

"Poor old auntie!" and a second colored girl. "Us got cold water.

"Yes."—Browning Jug.

MAJOR—"When Charley found the beer latest how did he know it was years.

"Marjorie, you little goose, don't you think you knows the taste of it by this time?"

GOOD SUGGESTION
The editor found the following list of suggestions in the mail box on the bulletin board:

Please do immediately the following things:
Item 1. Clear out the News office.
Item 2. Wash, brush the floor.
Item 3. Put everything back immediately.
Item 4. Decorate the walls with nice pictures.
Item 5. Put in 1 piano, 1 banjo, 1 violin.
Item 6. A supply of all the latest dance records.
Item 7. A violin and records (not the same).
Item 8. -Easy chairs.

The suggestions are very good and show traces of common sense. Whether or not we can carry them out in full remains to be seen. When alterations are made, it would be well that the new atmosphere will be more beautiful and comfortable. As a student, I have not decided whether to hang the pictures on the wall or not in under the desk. But, nevertheless, kind friend, thank you.

VISITING FACULTY
Miss Lilian W. Olcott, who has been for some time the supervisor of drawing at the State Normal School of Cortland, N. Y., is one of the instructors of the Fine Arts Department of the Summer Session. She is a graduate of Syracuse University, and although she began her work in her Alma Mater in the science course, she was graduated in design and ornamental art. Later she became its instructor in these same subjects at Syracuse. After some time spent in the supervision of the fine arts department of the Education Department, Miss Olcott became State supervisor in drawing in the Department of Education. She has held this position for seven years, and at the time she took the position, her courses for the past twenty years, from which she has made a diligent search.

AMERICANIZATION EXHIBIT
The charges in Americanization are included in the Education Department of Summer Session, are considered as the most interesting manner by Miss Caroline Whipple, A. M., Specialist in the Division of Immigrant Education, State Department of Education, Albany, N. Y.

There are two courses in this branch of the Education Department. The first is that which deals with the methods of organization and teaching of classes of foreign born and the common problems of Americanization are discussed and since most of the students are teachers with practical experience in this line of work, the classes are highly interesting.

The second course deals with Economic Education and the social aim of this course is to re- create contact with the social and economic history of industrial development of the United States and to determine the relation of this development to immigration. The growth of communities, corporations, associations, and labor organizations are discussed, as well as what is being done in industry for immigrants and also how what might be done. From this course the teachers get a real insight into the background and home life of their pupils and a better understanding of their reactions.

On the second floor of the main building in the left-hand hall, is a splendid exhibit which deals with the progress of Americanization. Figures and charts are shown, which demonstrate very clearly how the desire to be "real Americans," is growing among foreign born. This exhibit is shown at the National Education Association meeting in Boston, where it excited profound interest.

The entire exhibit is not displayed at this time, having been shown in the two screens which will be placed in the hall having a window about four hours of every student's time to examine the display of pamphlets and reports of the two screens in the upper hall.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT

We have heard many students remark that they would enjoy reading the "News," but they add, "I don't know anything to write about." There is no need for this. "The News" is not written for them, but for the students. The "News," then, is a publication written by the students for the students.

SUMMER SESSION SURVEY

A nationwide study of sessions under the auspices of the National Council of Education of the N. E. A., being conducted by a committee of which Prof. W. W. Jenkins, of Teachers College, Columbia University, is chairman. The students of State College have been asked to help in filling out blanks and returning them to the Director. The blanks will be distributed during the coming week and may be taken home to answer. A box will be placed in the rotunda, near the bulletin board, into which the blanks may then be dropped. The name of the student is not asked for and all material is treated as confidential. The Director asks the cooperation of students and faculty in getting these blanks filled out and returned.

REGISTRATION STATISTICS

The official records of the registrar's office show that 914 students are registered in this year's summer session. The registration blank shows that the condition of the student body is as follows:

The recital began and Candlyn made a few remarks in regard to the program. After other things he told us that the second number, Scherzarenda, was an example of modern Russian music, Oriental in character, and that Toccata in the third movement, was typical of what the French can do. Many State College students will remember that The London String Quartet included. The Londonterry Art in their program when the State College Music Association presented them at Chancellor's Hall last winter.

During the recitals on August 2 and 9, Prof. Candlyn will render two of his own compositions. The program for the recital on August 16 will consist of selections requested by members of the student body. EVOLUTION OF THE "CO-OP"

Two years ago the "Co-op" did not exist except in the minds of a few who believed that a system could be arranged whereby students might obtain more directly and at less expense the text books and supplies necessary to them in their college work. The one to make that a reality was Miss Helen Fay, one of State's own graduates and member of the College Faculty. During the fall of 1920, Miss Fay, with no capital save the enthusiastic backing of the Faculty, opened the Book Club, with as optimist a spirit as the girl must have had who said she went through college in faith in God and her sister's old clothes.

From this small beginning the "Co-op" has grown to nearly as possible all the needs of the college student. Eighteen hundred and thirty text books have been sold, during the summer we attempt to carry a full line of paints and art materials. We are glad to fill all individual orders for books or other articles you may desire.

Co-operation is not merely a word used by the manager of the "Co-op." It is a living principle, according to which all our business is transacted. Our books are sold at a reduction from the list price. All supplies are handled on the same basis. In short, we share our profits with the student body.

During the summer one of the special features is the book exhibit, which is of course of great interest and benefit to teachers. The exhibit begins July 24, in Room B, and will continue throughout the summer. All textbooks are handled on the same basis. Teachers will find the Scott, Foreman and Co exhibit particularly helpful. Teachers of English will be glad to see the books from Hawthorne Milhollin, while those specializing in geography or Americanization work should examine the display from the American Book Company.

One of the most generally helpful departments of the Book Club is that of the second-hand books. We do not buy these books, but we take them and sell them for you at two-thirds the list price. From this we deduct twenty percent, sending you the remainder. It is scarcely necessary to mention the mutual benefit derived from such an arrangement. On the second-hand shelves, you will find a wide choice of books that you may like to add to your library. Here are a few of our present stock:

FRENCH
Vellette's French. Plays, novels, and short stories by the best nineteenth century French writers.

ENGLISH
Books for use in oral English work: A Few Pocket Classics, Age of the River Classics. Water the bulletin board for

FACULTY-STUDENT RECEPTION

Friday evening the big electric sign in the "gym" shone bright and merry as a welcome to all the students of the summer session of S. C. T. Friends and students of last summer were reminded of their old chums and met many new friends besides. In order to facilitate the "get-together" part of the program, each one of us wore a little white paper with our names, addresses and occupations all down in black and white.

Dr. Brubacher, the president of the college, who was scheduled to speak, was unable to be present. Professor Decker, director of the summer session, refused to make "a real speech," but he made the matriculated students feel as if they really had a hearty and sincere welcome to State College.

Miss Grace Fox, the director of the Social activities for the summer and a member of the Class of 21, introduced the speakers and told us of the good times in store for us at the Friday night entertainments.

Then we all formed two large concentric circles and marched around the "gym" to the sound of good, snappy music and entertained ourselves after the manner of children "Going to Jerusalem." Every time that the music stopped, we literally grabbed our nearest neighbor and talked her head off until the music started again. They told us to talk about our favorite professors, but the majority of us thought that that was rather insane, as a few of them were in the circles.

And then we had about two hours of dancing. We danced with our old friends and danced with our new friends. The latter part of the evening was made especially pleasant as refreshments were served and who is not ready to entertain when the weather is hot and the "cats" are in the force of ice cream and wafers? When Charles switched out the lights, and the orchestra played "Home Sweet Home," we were determined to come to the parties every Friday night and have as good a time as we did at the Reception.

IMPORTANT NOTICE
The College library will be closed on Saturdays. Books may be borrowed on Friday afternoon over the week-end.

Owners and occupants of automobiles parking on the College grounds are requested to refrain from all unnecessary noise. The early classes have been much disturbed. If the annoyance continues, the roadway will be closed.
