Undefeated Danes Set Sights On 0-5 Brooklyn

by Paul Schriever

As a team, they have been compared to the New York Yankees, and for good reason. The Danes have the same winning streak that they have now: 12 games in a row. They have defeated every team they have played against so far.

The Danes have made some adjustments to their lineup over the last few weeks. Scott Scarbrough and Francis七十 raspars, two of the team's top players, have been moved to different positions to help boost the team's offense. The Danes have been scoring over 30 points per game in their last three games.

The Danes are looking to continue their winning streak against Brooklyn this weekend. The Danes have won all five games against Brooklyn in the last ten years. The Danes are currently ranked 5th in the nation, while Brooklyn is ranked 25th.

Albany has a tough road ahead of them, but they are ready to face the challenge. The Danes have been working hard in practice and are looking forward to the game. The Danes are looking to extend their winning streak to 13 games in a row.

Offense Fails Booters In Tie With Keene St.

by Jeff Schonfeld

On Saturday, the Albany Booters faced Keene State in a closely contested game. The Bowers were unable to score in the second half, leading to a 1-1 tie.

The Booters dominated the first half, taking a 1-0 lead into halftime. However, Keene came back in the second half to tie the game. The Booters had several scoring opportunities in the second half, but were unable to capitalize on them.

On October 6, 1979, a large demonstration against the construction of a nuclear power plant at Seabrook, New Hampshire, attracted an estimated crowd of 5,000 people. The protest was organized by the Seabrook Women's Peace Group and the Northern New England Student Peace Coalition, who sought to protest the site from the demonstrations. The Seabrook nuclear reactor was to be built in New Hampshire, involving the construction of a new facility and the expansion of existing reactors. The demonstration was peaceful, and the protesters were successful in blocking the construction of the reactor.

We were led by the police and led to a designated location where our potential sentences were read. We were told we could either accept the sentence or leave the site. Most of us chose the former option. We spent a few days in jail, but were soon released. The experience was a powerful one, and we learned a lot about the importance of non-violent action.

The Meaning of Non-Violence

Non-violent direct action tactics were employed at Seabrook for the first time. After many days of preparation and training, the protesters were ready to take action. They blocked the road leading to the plant, and sat in the middle of the road. The police were able to move us out of the way, but we were determined to stay. We were willing to go to jail to prevent the construction of the nuclear plant.

On the Question of Democracy

May I ask what power the people of Seabrook have to decide what should be done? The demonstrators who sought to prevent the construction of the plant did not have any sway over the government. The police were there to protect the government from the people. The protesters were not able to influence the decision making process. We were there to protect ourselves.

The protesters' action was not an act of violence, but an act of civil disobedience. They were willing to accept the consequences of their actions, and were willing to go to jail to prevent the construction of the nuclear plant. Boothing Lose to RPI, 5-1

by New Hippe

The Albany J.V. Boothing team (5-2-1) was defeated by a Division III squad on Friday, October 26, 1979, losing 5-1 to RPI. The game was held in front of a capacity crowd at RPI's home in Troy, New York. Albany's record for the season is now 5-2-1.

The J.V. Boothing team was led by three goals from forward Tom Mayer. The other two goals were scored by midfielders Tony Persson and Mark Giordano. The RPI defense was able to keep the Boothing attack in check throughout the game, limiting Albany to only five shots on goal.

The Boothing team was unable to capitalize on its opportunities, as they missed several chances to score. Albany's goalkeeper, Tim Van Deusen, made several saves to keep the game within reach for the Boothers. However, the Boothers were unable to generate enough offense to overcome the RPI defense.

The Boothers have not played since their loss to RPI, but they will be back on the field this weekend against SUNY New Paltz. The game will be held at RPI's home in Troy, New York, and is scheduled for this coming Friday, October 26, 1979. The Boothers will be looking to bounce back from their loss to RPI and continue their winning streak.

Women Booters Lose To Rochester

by Jerry Miller

The Albany State women's soccer team lost to Rochester College on Saturday afternoon. The team was down early in the game, and could not come back from the early deficit.

The team's top scorer was Lisa Kirk, who scored both of the team's goals. The team's other top performers were Sue Johnson, who had a goal, and Lisa Johnson, who had an assist.

The team's next game is scheduled for next weekend, and the team is looking forward to getting back on the field and playing some good soccer.
Albany State head football coach Bob Ford.

The defense held up for the rest of the game, committing only a few minor penalties. With the extra point failing, a 6-0 lead remained until the fourth quarter.

"I didn't have time to hand off the ball,Verton said, "but we had to make something happen."

With six minutes left in the first quarter, the senior made a blocked kick, recovering the ball in the end zone.

"I was just trying to get it to the 20-yard line, but we didn't have to make much of it," Verton said. "But we had too much penetration in the interior line, so we could have gone for it on the next play."
