Albany Stopped In Closely Fought Match With Buffalo

The Albany State basketball squad lost a heartbreaking 71-70 in the first of a three-game series against Buffalo this past Saturday.

The loss was the fourth in the last five games for the Danes, who have managed to turn the tide of the game scoring 12 points. He played his best game yet. He showed no signs of his injury, as he was able to make his shots from the floor.

One of the key players in the game was the Albany forward who had been in close communication with the BSA. To quote Jack Adams, a 5-9 junior, who reported to have been in close communication with the BSA, "They seemed to be intimidated in the least and showed no signs of their injury, as they were able to make their shots from the floor."

Albany turned the ball over only 13 times, and still ended up losing by 10 points.

The Big Ten school's defense was able to prevent Buffalo's offense from scoring. And the Danes were unable to take advantage of their opportunities. In the end, it was a close, hard-fought match.

The Danes turned what was easily their finest performance of the year against a tough Buffalo squad. Although Margison held out eleven points, he directed the offense and turned a fire defensive performance against the opposing team.

The Danes were unable to win the battle with a superior display of skills and endurance. In addition, the defense was able to prevent Buffalo's offense from scoring. And the Danes were unable to take advantage of their opportunities.
