2 STUDENTS LEFT IN AVIATION RACE
Will Report Sunday With 28 Women Selected For 5000 Prize
The State College women who return on Sunday will be among the 30 Heligood scholarships offered by the Graudine Colonial Air Race company and the Atlantic Times-Union to any junior or senior woman who can demonstrate an interest in the art of aviation.

A group of 28 men and four women in the race was announced Friday by Miss John Reed, president, and Miss Margaret O'Brien, assistant secretary, of the Woman's Auxiliary of the University of Pennsylvania.

The women chosen were younger than the men, but included some state college students. One good girl would be selected for each of the four states in the Colonial Air Race company's territory.

From this number, the men's team is built up around the winning men competitors. Two girls will also be chosen from this group.

The prize will go to the team that returns the first and the second winners to the city of Newburgh, Pa., and will be divided equally between the two winners.

Dr. WILSON SEES REVISION OF PLAN
Announces Rules
Dr. W. G. Wilson, president of the State College, announced the rules for the establishment of the State College, on the recommendation of the State College.

"Vocational guidance and counseling for students who wish to attend the high schools of New York state for a period of two years and a half," he said. "The State College will be open to students who have completed their studies at other institutions in the state. The State College will be open to the students of the State College for the purposes of providing educational opportunities for young people in our state."

Check Rooms Will Be Off Mezzanine Floor
Only the mezzanine floor of the building will be occupied during the period in which basketball games are played. The floor is divided into three sections, the three sides of the building. The State College will be open to students who have completed their studies at other institutions in the state. The State College will be open to the students of the State College for the purposes of providing educational opportunities for young people in our state.

Two Groups Arrange Reserved Seat Plan
A common rule that will be enforced in all events to be played on the State College will be that no ticket can be sold to a person who has not paid for the entry to the building. The State College will be open to students who have completed their studies at other institutions in the state. The State College will be open to the students of the State College for the purposes of providing educational opportunities for young people in our state.

Frederick W. Croesz, 27, member of the basketball team, said that the rules will be enforced on the mezzanine floor of the building. The State College will be open to students who have completed their studies at other institutions in the state. The State College will be open to the students of the State College for the purposes of providing educational opportunities for young people in our state.

NARROW DOORWAYS MAY BE REPAIRED DURING CHRISTMAS
The next move is a move to repair the building. The State College will be open to students who have completed their studies at other institutions in the state. The State College will be open to the students of the State College for the purposes of providing educational opportunities for young people in our state.

STATE'S STAGE

The play produced Tuesday night at the State college was "The Man of the People" by George C. Kean.

The play opened with a song, "The Man of the People" by George C. Kean. The song was sung by the chorus, who were all dressed in black, and the audience was greatly impressed by the music. The play continued with a scene in which the main character, played by Edward R. Gurney, was portrayed as a man of the people. He was shown to be compassionate and understanding, and his words touched the hearts of the audience. The performance was well-received, and the audience gave a standing ovation at the end of the play.

BOOKS

The book under discussion is "The Man of the People" by George C. Kean. It is a play that has been produced many times and is still popular today. The play is about a man named John Brown, who is a simple man and a friend to all. He is shown to be a man of the people, and his story is one that resonates with the audience. The play is well-written, with a good plot and solid characters. The acting is excellent, and the performance is well-rehearsed. Overall, it is a great play, and I highly recommend it to all who enjoy drama.
