SUNYA frats resurrecting despite U.S. trend

By Ian Clements

While relations between university officials and fraternities and sororities on some campuses have improved, the situation at SUNY-Downstate Medical Center is a case in point. Though SUNY-Downstate has had a number of problems with its fraternities and sororities in recent years, the administration has taken steps to address these issues.

A recent event at SUNY-Downstate has brought attention to the issue of fraternities and sororities. In a recent letter, the administration announced that it would be implementing new policies to address the problems that have arisen in the past.

The administration has also taken steps to improve relations with the fraternities and sororities. A recent meeting between representatives of the administration and the fraternities and sororities was held to discuss ways to improve relations.

Despite these efforts, relations between the administration and the fraternities and sororities remain strained. However, the administration is committed to improving these relations and working to address the issues that have arisen in the past.

Greek leaders tend to agree with the administration's stance on the need for increased accountability in the Greek system. "We recognize the administration's efforts to address the issues that have arisen in the past," said a representative of the Greek leaders. "We are committed to working with the administration to improve relations and address the issues that have arisen in the past."

Returns on $20 investment fail to satisfy members of Dog Pound

By Ken Borchard

Vice President of Operations

Another group on campus, a group called the Great Dead Dog Pound, and the Student Association (SA) are planning on funding a weekend club that some members of the SA don't want to see. Beginning October 25, the SA is planning on funding a weekend club for the Dog Pound. The club is expected to be $20 per semester, but the student members of the club are not pleased with the amount.

The club is one of the largest clubs of its kind on campus, according to SA President Nick Rivers. "They have a $2,000 in reserve," Rivers said, adding that the club has a $2,000 in reserve. "The group has a $2,000 in reserve," Rivers said, adding that the club has a $2,000 in reserve. "The group has a $2,000 in reserve," Rivers said, adding that the club has a $2,000 in reserve. "The group has a $2,000 in reserve, and we are going to make sure that they get access to funds," Rivers said.

"One of his duties," said Rivers, "was to be in charge of the club and I think the Physical Education department should be involved in the leadership." Currently, efforts are being made to direct club funds to the club. "The club is also an important factor in the community," Rivers said.

The club has been making easy progress as far as funding is concerned, according to SA Controller Eric Schwitzenider. "We have a $2,000 in reserve," Rivers said, adding that the club has a $2,000 in reserve. "The group has a $2,000 in reserve," Rivers said, adding that the club has a $2,000 in reserve.

The fate of next year’s student events, parties and outside groups in your student organizations

Want to know what’s being considered? Go to the meeting! Student events are put on after a meeting has been called, a agenda has been posted, and a quorum of members is present. It’s the only way to find out what the organization is doing.

The new policy will allow for more flexibility in the scheduling of events, as well as the opportunity to invite speakers from outside the college. This will provide students with more options for entertainment and learning.

The meeting was well attended, with discussions ranging from the organization of events to the importance of collaboration with other groups on campus. The goal is to foster a sense of community and engagement among students.

The membership of the organization will be determined by the number of attendees at the meeting, with a minimum of 10 required for quorum. This will ensure that decisions are made by the majority of members and that the organization is representative of the student body.

The meeting adjourned at 10:30 PM, with the next meeting scheduled for next week.

MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING

BY JOSEPH FUSCO

COLUMN

Dear Editor:

I am writing to express my concern about the implementation of the new electoral system for the SGA presidency. As a student who has been involved in previous elections, I believe that the current system is unfair and does not adequately represent the interests of the student body.

Under the old system, candidates were nominated by their respective campus organizations and were chosen based on their willing to work for the betterment of the student body. This system allowed for a diverse range of candidates and ensured that the election reflected the views of the student body.

However, the new system allows any student to run for the presidency, regardless of their involvement in any campus organization. This means that candidates who may not have the best interests of the student body at heart are able to run for office.

I urge the administrators to consider reverting to the old system, as it better serves the needs of the student body.

Sincerely,

UNFORTUNATE QUOTE

To the Editor:

I was appalled to read the quote by [name of person] in the [name of publication]. The quote, "[quote] is grossly offensive and does not reflect the values that this institution upholds. It is important that we are careful with the language we use, as it can have a significant impact on the way others perceive us.

I call on the administration to take action to address this issue and ensure that all quotes in the future are respectful and inclusive.

Hearing examines SA election turnout, funds

By Jeffrey Rooda

Student Association (SA) elections need to be held publically and possibly periodically because of ill government, SA President Jennifer Hertz said at a hearing held Tuesday in the Central Council. The hearing was convened by the investigation committee and A&I Committee, a subcommittee of Central Council to help determine the cause of the SA's possible existence.

"Groups come first as far as open government," said Hertz, "and we should keep open government [as] the best and the most effective way." The SA President accused that "students have the same chance to be in high school and college." The hearing was held by fast, enjoy.

With the recent win against Penn State, the Albany rugby club is excited to face Union tomorrow. The team has been practicing hard and is confident in their abilities to perform well in the upcoming match. The match is expected to be intense, as both teams are looking to secure a victory.
No one has won the men's race at the Great Danes Classic in nine years. With a pack of runners competing Saturday morning at Moravian College in Bethlehem, Penn., Saratoga Springs junior Brian Smith claimed the top spot. Smith shaved :11 off his previous best by running the course in 29:14.4. The 17-year-old was in 27th place last year. The race had 111 participants registered. Smith turned in a time of 11:35.9 in the six kilometer race on the campus of Moravian College in Bethlehem, Penn. Smith led from the beginning and never looked back. He won by 44.4 seconds over Buddy Feinberg of St. Rose. The Owls, who finished third, were hampered by several late withdrawals. The Owls are eager to gain some ground on the ALAC as well as the SIC chasing the top spot in both leagues. The Owls are currently in the third spot but they are only 18 points behind RPI. Albany's best finish in the past three years was a tie for fourth in 1982. The Owls indicated that the key to this year's success may be attributed to the depth and overall talent on the team. "I think the key to the game is if we can create enough spacing between the other teams," said coach Myers. "If we do it, then we have better chance of winning." He will have five runners that can score and the Owls are hoping to become a factor in the SIC this season. "We're not about to turn our heads and say hey we can't win," said Myers. "We're just going to keep working hard and see what happens." Myers then indicated that the Owls have a number of good options and that he is hopeful that at least five runners can score and place in the top 25. He also indicated that if the Owls can stay out of trouble, they have a shot at a top five team finish. The Owls will lay it all on the line Friday, October 11, 1985 at the Great Danes Classic in Bethlehem, Penn.
The Albany State Great Danes are something of a hallowed name in New York State football. Since 1968, they have enjoyed a SUNYAC dynasty, with an undefeated 1982 season. This weekend, they aim to keep their streak alive, as they face the University of Buffalo, who enters the tournament with a 15-2 record.

The Danes are ranked in the Top 10 in the nation and are a Division III powerhouse. Last year, they dominated the Owls in New Haven, winning 39-0, marking the second straight year they have beaten the Owls. The Danes' offense is their key strength, led by quarterback Mike Milano, who is ranked sixth in the East in passing efficiency. "This year they're not going to look past us. They're prepared for us," said Milano.

But are the Danes worried? Not at all. "But are the Danes worried? Not at all," said Albany State Head Coach Dick Cavanaugh. "Even this weekend, they're looking at us and saying 'We're going to have our hands full in this tournament.'"

The competition will be tough, with the Danes facing the University of Buffalo, ranked second nationally. "We're going to have our hands full in this tournament," said Binghamton Coach Bob Lewis. "They're definitely favored to win."

Bogie’s

Bogie’s, located on the corner of Madison and Clinton and built in 1929 as the headquarters of the Knights of Pythias, is a fantastic, small and intimate live music venue for the Albany music scene. While it can’t compare to the larger venues like the Uptown Grange or the Egg, Bogie’s offers a unique and intimate atmosphere that is unmatched by any other club in Albany. The space is beautifully lit with warm, dim lighting, and the sound is crystal clear. This makes it an ideal spot for listening to your favorite bands or watching a live performance.

Pauly’s Hotel

Pauly’s, located at 288 Lark Street, is the most important club in Albany and is definitely one of the most unique. The building itself has a rich history, having been purchased by John Pauly in 1887, and remained in the Pauly family until 1975. Since then, it has been a hub for local musicians and has consistently provided a space where people can come together to enjoy music. The interior is cozy and rustic, with exposed brick walls and a vintage bar. The bands are booked by owner and resident DJ, Paul DelVecchio, who has a passion for finding and promoting local talent.

Puttin’ on the Ritz

Puttin’ on the Ritz is located at 288 Lark Street, a short walk from Pauly’s. The club has a long history in the Albany music scene, having hosted many legendary performers over the years. The stage is large and well-equipped, with a good sound system and a large crowd of dedicated fans. The atmosphere is energetic and lively, with a diverse range of music genres performed throughout the night. Puttin’ on the Ritz is a must-visit for anyone interested in live music in Albany.

Duck Soup

Duck Soup, located at 297 Ontario Street, is another great option for live music in Albany. The club is small and intimate, with a cozy atmosphere that is perfect for catching a live performance. The sound quality is excellent, and the drinks are reasonably priced. The club hosts a variety of events, including concerts, comedy shows, and dance parties, providing a diverse range of entertainment options. Duck Soup is a great place to experience the vibrant music scene in Albany.

The Smiths, Replacements, New Order and like figures of old, gangster-like men are, if nothing else, a reminder of the club’s past and its connection to the raw energy that defines the downtown club scene. 288 Lark may not have the same size and scale as the other places, but it’s definitely one of the most unique and interesting clubs in Albany, and definitely one of the most attractive as well.
