TEN YEARS AGO AT STATE COLLEGE
From the files of the News for April 8, 1917

"At the general meeting of all students gathered in the Student Union, it was decided to give a testimonial dinner to the President of the College, Dr. A. W. Hinrichs.

TALKS ON NEWTON
"Though he was a great mathematician and physicist, he never could keep accounts," Miss Hazel Eyre, assistant professor of mathematics, said in a talk which was a meeting of the Mathematics club Thursday afternoon. "He was so sure of the correctness of his calculations that he refused to accept the results of the experiments of others. He was so sure of his business that he would not allow any other man to discuss it with him.

Dr. Brubacher that "the solution is not to be sought in re-forming the number of women teachers, but in making conditions for the protection of the monopoly."
Louise Closser Darke describes Make-up; "Merely Accents the Reality", She Declares

"Make-up, like any phase of dress, merely accentuates reality," declared Louise Closser Darke, America's leading character actress, in her lecture on the "Art of Make-up" Friday evening to a packed Chalmers' hall.

Miss Darke traced the history of dress from very early times and described the rise of the art of make-up and its beginning in the world of cosmetics. She also described the use of the technique in character make-up.

SOPHOMORES WIN SING

The sophomore class outnumbered the junior class 15 to 7 in the junior class Friday in assembly. This was the judgment pronounced by Vachel L. L'Amoureux, instructor in Latin, Dr. Harold W. Thompson, professor of English and Adam S. Walker, professor of economics.

Each class sang three songs, the work being composed by members of the class. The time were adopted and each class was designated as its final class, one to the Mary Miner and one to itself.

The songs were judged on their lyrical composition, poetical quality, ensemble rendering, and spirit.

HOLD FOOD SALE TODAY

Clubweek club will have its food sale today in the lower rotunda of the science building. The committee in charge was Miss Elizabeth Dodge, 27, chairman; Lorna Gerke, 28, and Margaret Oswald, 26.

ECKLER, GRANT WILL DIRECT LAST PLAYS

Annual Long Drama, To Be Given Late in Semester, Will Be Chosen Next Week

The last one-act play to be presented this year by the advanced dramatic class will be given April 6, when Ulrich Eckler, 25, will direct an English comedy entitled "Between the Soup and the Savoury," to soprano Froude, and Melody Frontera, 27, will direct an adaptation of a play from a long play.

The cast of Miss Eckler's play includes: Beryl A. Mason, 27; Robert Daniel Horr, 27; Richard Jenkins, 27; Arvel Hardy, 28; Nick of Travers, 27; Thecla Durkee, 27; and Bertha Zayan, 27. The comedy was cut yesterday afternoon.

Selection of the annual long play to be presented by the class late in the semester will be made next week, according to Miss Mary Linton, instructor in English.

DR. THOMPSON'S BOOK WILL APPEAR IN JUNE

"Aurorales and Egalitarians of Henry MacKinnon," the volume edited by Dr. Walter T. Thompson, will be released from the Oxford university press in June. The proofs of the edition, which were to be released in April, have been delayed. Dr. Thompson is now working on the "Telescope," a book for which he expects to publish next fall.

Dr. Walter T. Thompson, professor of English, has been awarded a second Carnegie scholarship for research work abroad, and will spend the summer at the University of Edinburgh. He will sail late in June and will return in September.

Dr. Thompson will continue his work in studying Scottish literature. During his study abroad on a Carnegie scholarship last year, he collected many concerning Henry MacKinnon.

SENORS HAVE DINNER

More than eighty seniors attended the senior gift-supper dinner and party Tuesday evening. The evening began with a dinner in the cafeteria at S. R. 22. W. C. M. L. Caroline Crusade, College physician and professor of botany, and Elizabeth Morris, assistant professor of philosophy, were guests of honor. The ceremony was trimmed in green and white, the class colors. Tables were arranged in herringbone formation. Between courses, the guests were entertained by violins played by Nettie Gilbert. 27, Hildre. Smith presented a stent.

After the dinner, there was dancing in the gymnasium. Ellott. Smith, 27, was chosen as the class' best man, and Elizabeth Morris, assistant professor of philosophy, was guest of honor. At the conclusion of the dancing, the guests were entertained by violins played by Nettie Gilbert.
