Over EEP 19-18

In Battle of Unbeaten

By Glenn Seges and Jim Condon

In the battle of the unbeatens, Walt and EEP fought for all they were worth.

A charged up EEP defense in the first half of the game gave early indication of their ability to stop Walt's running game. Walt was also forced to go to a spread formation due to our defensive secondary, due to the fact that many of our men cannot make the games.

'Late in the first half of the year enjoyed a great deal of success largely to the free spirit of the first half of the game. If the second half continues along the same lines, and if the race tightens as we expect, this could be the strongest AEA program we've had in a long time.

That is, of course, if injuries don't sweep out the entire league. Things get tough out there. I know.
