Students ask control of our environment

A request for a moratorium on the alteration of student campus environment was made by SUNY at Albany students on Thursday in a letter to President John E. Hatcher, author of the statement. Such things as the destruction of trees and roadside flowers and the destruction of the campus lake area can upset the ecology. It is important that such request be acted upon by the college, because nature will inevitably win in the long run.

The letter does not question the need for expenses but it does question "the way the university enforces its own environment. People should be sensible. We have to clear more things for the environment." The letter was signed by 200 PYE members and Environmental Forces is also formed to help with such a request. The New York State Colleges at Buffalo and Plattsburgh, with the help of Hillel, have written in combination with Dr. Long of the Chemistry Department.

Man is becoming increasingly aware of the relationship between himself and his natural environment. In beginning to realize the tremendous consequences that this relationship has as well as the environment consequences that will inevitably follow if we once again treat our planet as though it is infinite.

Because the University is responsible to society it must control itself in the方方面面 of the existing issues of today. We of the University community must begin to recognize that the current destruction of natural areas is taking place here and that action is necessary. New York State is not only aA state involving the destruction of our natural environment but also the whole of the United States of America is not only a country involving the destruction of our natural environment but also the world.

In a college and university course regarding the natural environment one has to ask himself: Do all of the students have a fair share of the information? Does everyone have an equal hand in the destruction of our natural environment? Is everyone equally responsible for the destruction of our natural environment? Is it possible to have a fair share of the information? Does everyone have an equal hand in the destruction of our natural environment? Is it possible to have a fair share of the information?

There was only one project that was included in this. The project will be to help against pollution; PYE to aid pollution survey

by Tom Chang

Storage is shown on the campus PYE office and a sign on one of the entrances to the building. According to 26 students, PYE is always ready to help anyone with the problem. A sign at the entrance says that the purpose of the group is to be a place where the ideas and questions of the group, largely students, can be heard by members. The group has been kept anonymous so that the public is not aware of who the people are.

Five thousand volunteers will be needed to do this work, as well as hundreds of people to distribute and collect the survey forms. The survey will be distributed through the campus mail, with the help of students, and will be collected by members.

It was emphasized at the rank of the group's concern with the overwhelming number of people who want to help the natural environment. The group has a written constitution and aims to remain the amount of the supplies needed to contact those who express interest and to supply them.

Professor Kohn says for a story about the environment of the National Wildlife Federation. The purpose of the task force is to study the future of the environment and the people who live in it.

If you'd like to help in the work, the work is needed. For hundreds of people to distribute and collect the survey forms, the survey will be distributed through the campus mail, with the help of students, and will be collected by members.

Why don't you wait until after you see the play to steal a poster?

Kuusisto Plans For Ecology, Discusses Residents' Problems

by Elaine Luna

"Nativism is not the way to solve the problem of the natural environment," said Elaina Kuusisto, chief of the SUNY at Albany Environmental Sciences Program. "We need a more active and effective approach to the problem of the natural environment."

"Our natural campus environment was made to the natural environment," she said. "We need to show the government, industry, and the people of America that we need to care for our natural campus environment."

Danes Plagued by Frigid
Shooting; Lose 73 - 51

On Sunday night, the Albany State basketball team lost by a tough 52-point score to the University of Illinois. The score was 73-51 in favor of the Illini.

The Danes, led by Guard Tommy Smith, were unable to keep up with the hot-shooting Illini, who hit 52 percent of their shots.

Ithaca at home 73-68.

The comparative field goal percentages led to a half-time lead for the Illini. We shot 6-35 (17%) to their 35-67 (52%).

In the first half, Smith led us in scoring. Sheehan and St. John were also key players for the Illini.

The Danes' shooting was slightly better in the second half, hitting 29-67 (43%). However, the Illini's defense was dominant, holding us to 29-67 (43%).

Despite our efforts, the Illini were able to maintain their lead, ultimately winning by a score of 73-51.

Sailing Club

This past weekend, members of the sailing club participated in the spring regatta. The club has been preparing for this event for the past three weeks.

They have already competed in the fall regatta and have placed second in both races. The club members are confident in their abilities and hope to continue their success in this upcoming event.

PLATTSTUGS SWIMMERS WIN

In last year's Championship Meet, the Danes placed fourth in the University of Illinois Championship. This year, we are looking forward to defending our title.

Last year, we defeated three of the top teams in the nation, including the University of Illinois, and we hope to repeat our success this year.

Coach Todd Bissell has been working hard to prepare the team for this upcoming season. We have been practicing intensively and are confident in our abilities.

The Danes are determined to win this year's Championship Meet and bring home the title.
The Times and the "Dutiful Transmission of Military Lies"
SAIourd, South Vietnamese (CFR) Americans who have helped North Vietnamese forces in the fight against the U.S. and its allies in Vietnam.

When the war ended, they had to report in the press that the Vietnamese Communists were "enemy soldiers," and not also murdering South Vietnamese. Typically, however, they have cleverly conveyed the meaning of the word "terrorists." How many Americans know that the Vietcong are North Vietnamese infiltrators rather than a South Vietnamese political organization.

Vietcong is hardly an exclusion from the U.S. media. Look for our ad in the Student Power advocates demonstrate their enthusiasm for our new student center at an open meeting of the Student Affairs office.

The Office of Student Affairs is planning for this year's Summer Schools, which has the 80 year old Chaplin, playing his famous tramp, back in his best era. The film opens with a medium closeup of a young lady on a circus poster. She is turned to the camera with the words: "The Tramp falls in love with an innocent young lady." Behind the lady, a circus tent is visible. The Tramp is immediately shown as a man who is not very well-groomed. He is standing on the stage of the circus tent, looking at the young lady, and then turns to the audience with a smile. The audience laughs, and the Tramp continues to talk, using gestures and expressions to explain something. The scene is filled with humor, as the Tramp makes various facial expressions and movements to convey his point. The audience seems to enjoy it, and laughs heartily. The Tramp then continues to demonstrate his acting skills, as he plays various characters and situations on stage, all with a great deal of energy and enthusiasm. Throughout the scene, the Tramp remains in the spotlight, with the audience watching intently. He is the main focus of the scene, as he uses his skills to entertain and amuse the audience. The scene ends with the Tramp continuing to talk and act, as the audience continues to laugh. Overall, the scene is a great example of the Tramp's acting skills, and his ability to entertain and amuse his audience. It is a fun and engaging performance, and a great way to start the summer school season.
It Happened in Stuyvesant?

Something strange happened at Stuyvesant Tower Saturday night, but no one knows exactly what happened or why it still remains a mystery. While the resident director stood above the students present and pointed to Resident Assistant Virginia Dawn Mitchell's floor door, the residents were discussed by the director and said by the resident director. Virginia Dawn Mitchell's floor door was then opened, and the residents were said to be present. A typographical error is generally accepted, but it is not the job of the ASP to decide specifically.
