The City University of New York's (CUNY) long-standing tradition of free tuition and its many unique programs threaten to be in jeopardy due to the recent implementation of a new tuition policy. The University, which traditionally has not charged tuition, is now raising its rates. This move is being met with strong opposition from students, faculty, and alumni. The opposition is based on concerns about the impact on lower-income students and the University's commitment to providing a public education to those who cannot afford it.

The principle of free tuition has been a cornerstone of CUNY since its inception. The University's funding comes from a combination of state and city funds, with the latter covering a significant portion of the budget. However, the decrease in state funding has forced CUNY to look elsewhere for revenue, leading to the implementation of a tuition policy.

The new policy will raise tuition by 50% for all undergraduate students. While the oppositionargues this will disproportionately affect lower-income students, the University maintains that it is necessary to ensure the financial viability of the institution. The opposition has called for a moratorium on the policy, arguing that it will lead to a decrease in enrollment and the loss of diversity on campus.

The University's decision to implement a tuition policy is a reflection of the broader challenges faced by public universities across the country. As state funding continues to decrease, public universities are forced to find alternative sources of revenue. The opposition hopes that by delaying the implementation of the policy, they can find a way to support the University without compromising its commitment to free tuition.

As the debate continues, the University and its supporters are working to find a solution that balances the University's financial needs with its commitment to providing a public education to all who can benefit from it.

To the Editor:

The most recent idea of "manual examination responsibility" has been a recurring theme in our student body. The staff of the Student Press have had the opportunity to examine the situation at SUNY, and we feel that a more thorough examination of the issue is necessary.

The Student Press has always been committed to the examination of student concerns and issues. However, we must be careful to ensure that the examination is balanced and fair. The examination of the issue must be conducted in a manner that is respectful of the concerns of all students.

We urge all students to participate in this examination by expressing their views and concerns. The Student Press will continue to publish articles and editorials on this issue until a fair and balanced examination is conducted.

Sincerely,

Steve Shaw

To the Editor:

I am writing this letter to express my concern about the proposed changes to the Student Affairs Committee. I believe that these changes will negatively impact the quality of student affairs and academic life on campus.

The Student Affairs Committee has a long history of advocating for student rights and interests. I believe that the proposed changes will lead to a decrease in the effectiveness of the committee and a loss of student voice and representation.

I urge the administration to reconsider these changes and to work with students to develop a more inclusive and effective Student Affairs Committee.

Sincerely,

To the Editor:

I am writing to express my support for the proposed changes to the Student Affairs Committee. I believe that these changes will lead to a more effective and responsive committee that can better serve the needs of students.

The current structure of the committee has been criticized for its lack of transparency and accountability. I believe that the proposed changes will address these issues and improve the overall functioning of the committee.

I urge the administration to implement these changes and to work with students to ensure that the new committee is effective and inclusive.

Sincerely,

Jane Smith

As columns and destruction continue, the impact on the Quad is undeniable. Despite the recent measures taken by the Student Life office to address vandalism, the Quad remains a stark reminder of the challenges faced by campus residents. The destruction has not only affected the physical appearance of the area but has also impacted the morale of those who frequent the Quad for leisure or study.

The Off Campus Association (OCA) has been instrumental in coordinating efforts to prevent further destruction. The association has been working closely with campus security and community agencies to provide resources and support to those affected by the vandalism. Their efforts have included organizing clean-up sessions and distributing information about the steps being taken to address the issue.

Campus residents are encouraged to report any incidents of vandalism to the OCA or the Campus Security office. This collective effort is crucial in deterring further destruction and restoring the Quad to its former state.

As the semester progresses, it is hoped that the incident at the Quad will serve as a reminder of the importance of community and responsibility. The Quad, with its history and significance, deserves to be preserved for the enjoyment of all members of the campus community. Together, we can work towards creating a safe and welcoming environment for everyone who visits or lives on campus.

Saturday: A Lesson For Some
by Thomas Coates

The tip of leaves are turning brown, but what some may regard as the end of summer, the start of fall, it is also, in sports, the time for University of the State of New York-Albany, the time to take a lesson from the past.

The lessons to be learned are not from the past year, or even the past decade, but from the past century.

For it was in 1909 that the football team of the University of the State of New York-Albany played its first game.

The University of the State of New York-Albany was established in 1847, and the football team was established the following year.

The first game was played against the University of the State of New York-Cornell, and the score was 0-0.

The lessons to be learned from this game are:

1. The importance of teamwork.

2. The importance of preparation.

3. The importance of persistence.

4. The importance of respect.

The lessons to be learned from the past century are:

Women Gymnasts Expect Much-Expanded Squad

The Albany State women's gymnastics team, under Coach Edith Cobanc, is looking forward to an exciting season this year. The team, which consists of four members, is confident of another strong season, with the addition of some new freshmen and returning athletes.

One of the returning gymnasts, Allyson Bailey, a senior and last year's floor exercise champion, is back to lead the team. Bailey, who is also a member of the swimming team, is expected to perform well in the upcoming season.

Coach Cobanc expects up to twelve members on the team, including returning gymnasts and new freshmen. She is confident that the team will be able to compete at a high level in the upcoming season.

The team's goals for the season include improving their skills, competing at a high level, and winning as many meets as possible. The team is working hard to achieve these goals and is looking forward to the challenge of the upcoming season.

Knickerbockers Knock Ruggers

Albany State's Rugby team defeated the Ruggers, 28-12, in a strong performance. The team was led by the return of senior quarterback Nancy Iaffrei, who returned from a knee injury this past winter. The team's offensive line was bolstered by the addition of two new freshmen, and the defense was improved by the return of returning players.

Coach Cobanc said, "Gymnastics is a team sport, and the team is working hard to improve their skills and compete at a high level. We are confident that we will be able to succeed this season, and we are looking forward to the challenge of the upcoming season."

SUNYA Community-University Day Takes Off

The parents are coming. SUNYA opens its doors to the community at large, including mom and dad of course. Pictured above are visitors taking a break at last year's Alumni Dinner, itself an annual tradition. This year's activities will include the inauguration of SUNYA's new President, Ronald W. Fields, and the dedication of SUNYA's new Administrative Building. Tours and exhibits will be held at both the academic departments. The SUNYA Homecoming Pancake Feed, one of last year's traditions, will be continuing, as will the popular lunch of the Atmospheric Sciences Research Center. And for those of you who still cherish the memories of that college, we have a way back home... SUNYA Alumni. Exhibits run tomorrow from 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

Bombers Napalm Danes, 33-0
Winning Streak Ends Before 8,000 Fans

by Craig Bell

The first half of the Albany
Great Danes football team was the worst they have played all season, but they were able to come back in the second half to defeat the Danes.

The Bombers put on a great show in the first half, scoring 33 unanswered points. The Danes were unable to get anything going on offense, and had to rely on their defense to keep the game close.

In the second half, the Danes were able to gain momentum and score three touchdowns. However, it was not enough to overcome the 33-0 deficit.

The Danes defense was the key to their victory. They held the Bombers to just 172 yards of total offense, and only one touchdown.

The Danes improved their record to 4-1, while the Bombers dropped to 1-4.

Boothees Down Engineers, 6-0

by Nathan Israel

Pamlico Pamlico scored several real goals, and the Bombers added two more in the second half. The Danes were able to hold on for the win.

The Bombers took the lead early in the first half, scoring on a 44-yard field goal. They added a second field goal in the second half, extending their lead to 6-0.

The Danes were held scoreless, and were only able to gain 147 yards of total offense. The defense was the key to their victory, holding the Bombers to just 165 yards of total offense.

The Danes improved their record to 4-1, while the Bombers dropped to 1-4.
