TEACHERS' CONVENTION

Most Successful in Years

Between 6,000 and 8,000 school teachers from all parts of New York State registered for the 26th Annual Session of the Teachers' Convention held at State College last Thursday and Friday.

The convention was formally opened by President T. M. Emmerich, at State College, Thursday, the 24th of November, at the St. Regis Hotel, Broadway and Lexington Avenue.

The convention is held every year at different places in the State, and is the largest annual meeting of its kind in the world.

The closing exercises of the convention will be held at the State Normal School, at Middlebury, Saturday afternoon, and the closing exercises will be held at the State Normal School, at Middlebury, Saturday afternoon.

SOPH'S WALKUP '23

Fresh Suffer Second Defeat

The sophomores, in their final game of the interclass series, staged a good comeback from their former losing streak by defeating the freshmen with a score of 28 to 13.

The first half was close. The freshmen started the first period off by scoring a spectacular goal from a hard drive in front of the senior goal. The seniors, however, were unable to equalize and the score remained at 1-0 until the second half.

The second half was decided after the新鲜 defensive went to the press, and Neumann and Willar scored at will. They did not play out of position, and once the seniors were on the back foot, the sophomores scored three more times to take the lead 20-12. The freshmen were unable to get back into the game, and the sophomores secured their victory with a score of 28 to 13.

MUSIC CLUB

Music Club will meet Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the auditorium.

MR. Mccoy Addresses Press Club

Mr. Harold McCoy, of the Knickerbocker Press, spoke to the members of the Press Club last Monday afternoon on "Fundamentals of Newspaper Writing."

Mr. McCoy impressed his listeners with the importance and necessity of knowing how to write a good lead for every newspaper story. In taking up the question of leads, the speaker described the two standard types with their several subdivisions. He stressed the necessity of getting facts accurate to the last degree and of the importance of the use of facts of life and color.

The second half was not only very interesting, but very helpful to those who were fortunate enough to hear it.

JANE MANNER DRAMA

Reading

A sympathetic and responsive audience enjoyed the second Jane Manner Drama Reading Saturday evening, November 22, President Francher addressed the section on "State Teachers' Retirement Fund." It will be the last in a series of three evening readings.

The reader prefaced the play of "The Legend of Don Quixote" by John Galsworthy, with the following words: "This is the story of a man who has devoted himself to the study of life and to the improvement of human nature." The reader went on to say that the reader would be able to understand the play better if they knew the life of the author.

The first period was played in the first half of the play. The reader went on to say that the reader would be able to understand the play better if they knew the life of the author.

The second period was played in the middle of the play. The reader went on to say that the reader would be able to understand the play better if they knew the life of the author.

The third period was played in the last half of the play. The reader went on to say that the reader would be able to understand the play better if they knew the life of the author.

The final period was played in the last half of the play. The reader went on to say that the reader would be able to understand the play better if they knew the life of the author.

EIGHTEENTH INTERNATIONAL CONVENTION OF STUDENT VOLUNTEERS

Des Moines, Iowa, December 31 - January 1

During Christmas vacation State College is planning to send a party of ten delegates, three girls and two men, to the Eighteenth International Convention of the Student Volunteer Movement at Des Moines, Iowa. This is to be the first convention in six years, and the first since the death of Mr. G. C. Parkes, who served as secretary of the National Student Volunteer Movement from its inception in 1908 to his death in 1920.

The convention was held from December 31 to January 1, 1920, and it was attended by delegates from the United States and Canada, and some forty other nations. The convention was addressed by Mr. G. C. Parkes, who served as secretary of the National Student Volunteer Movement from its inception in 1908 to his death in 1920.

THANKSGIVING HOP

Y. M. Has Successful Dance

In spite of the bad storm last Wednesday evening about seventy complex attended the Thanksgiving Hop in the college gymnnasium. It was a substitution dance for the benefit of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A.

The gymnasia was pretty decorated with the college colors, purple and gold, Japanese lanterns and parasols, and the class, society and inter-class banners. Gregory's orchestra furnished excellent music. The faculty members present were: Miss Cobb, Miss Phillips, Miss Murray, and Dr. and Mrs. Power. Refreshments, consisting of punch and wafers, were continued on page 4.

SPANISH CLUB

There will be a meeting on Monday, November 3rd, at 4 o'clock. Watch the bulletin board for notice of place of meeting. Miss Martin will give an informal talk.

DANCING AT Y. W.

Bazaar

After the game Saturday night there will be no dancing in the High School gym, but everyone is cordially invited to the Y. W. Bazaar and minstrel show in our own gym. The proceeds of this will be used towards the Thanksgiving Hop will go toward defraying the expenses of the committee to Des Moines. There will be no admission charged, but there will be a benefit sale.

SATURDAY NIGHT

Saturday night is our first opportunity to see what State College can do in basketball this season. Everyone has his blanket-tax card and is determined on getting as many college dollars' worth of enjoyment. We guarantee you a superior basketball game last year with a score of 46-38. That sounds as though this year's may not start off as brightly and it will be a test of the new coach, a practically all-new squad, and of our ability to watch and cheer for the cheer-leader. Everybody out! Here's looking at you for a big victory to start the season right!

THE SADDEST WORDS

Did you hear any comments on college news other than that of the last week? Did you wonder who was in love with whose wife? Did you think the HORMONE? Congratulations are due the members of Chemistry Club on the first number of their paper, the "Hormone" or "Chemical Aphrodisiac." It is a clean, good paper, and gotten up on a monograph. The ideas are original and the apparatus is accurate. The next number which is planned will be printed.

THE CONVENTION

Very appropriate for the Thanksgiving season was the Teachers' Convention held in Albany last week. This was an opportunity to return thanks for the notable progress of education in New York State, and to gain courage from past successes to face the future with a strong heart.

The three days during which the Chauncy House opened its doors to the educators of the State and men from all parts of the country, who were interested in education were three of the greatest days in the history of a town. In a time of trouble and uncertainty like the present it was a splendid opportunity to be able to enjoy the stimulating and constructive influence of events like the De Fley and Indre Rhine, the promise of American Federation, and the noble educational activities, which with their three and a half hour and a half devote the values of the school.

The convention meant a great deal to all the people of Albany, but especially to the faculty and students of State College. It gave a chance for reminiscence, for among the teachers were many State College graduates. It gave an opportunity to the faculty and to the students who were anxious to find time between classes (which did not interfere with the attendance at the convention) to confer and meet at the various conventions in all fields of educational activity and to bring out the true meaning of education; and it served as an inspiration to those who are soon to open up the great work.

On the whole it was a wonderful and successful achievement. Our only regret is that no arrangement was made for the students of State College could have realized the greatest amount of benefit from it.

LAST GAME TO-MORROW

Tomorrow afternoon at five o'clock the last game of the men's interclass basketball series will be played by the seniors and juniors. As in the last three years three leads, we're likely to have another very exciting contest. The game promises to be the best of the season. As usual there will be dancing in the half time. Everybody out!

SENIORS!

A Gateway—Electrical

ONLY a forty-foot gateway bounded by two brick pilasters and ornamental lamps, but unlike any other gateway in the entire world.

For back of it is the General Electric Company's main office building, accommodating 2100 employees. And just next door is its laboratory with the best equipment for testing, standardizing and research at the command of capable engineers. Then down the street—a mile long—are other buildings where everything electrical, from the smallest lamp socket to the huge turbines for electrically propelled battleships, is made by the 20,000 electrical workers who daily stream through.

What a story this gate would tell, if it could, of the leaders of the electrical industry and business, of ambassadors from other institutions and from foreign lands.

The story would be the history of electric lighting, electric transportation, electric industries and electricity in the home.

This gateway, as well as the research, engineering, manufacturing and commercial resources back of it, is open to all who are working for the betterment of the electrical industry.

Illustrated bulletin, Y-863, describing the company's plants, will be mailed upon request, Address General Electric Company, Desk 43, Schenectady, New York.

the freshmen down to two field baskets, one by Stuart and one by Myers. At the end of the game the sophs had piled up 28 points while the junors had been able to make but 13.

The sophomores started off in the interclass league by losing four straight games, two to the seniors and two to the juniors. Their ending, however, makes up to some extent for their bad start, for they scored two straight victories over their rivals, the seniors. Their last game was far by the best game that they have played. They stand third in the championships race. The seniors are first, and the juniors second.

The Labor Question—Is it five o’clock yet?"

On Approval

It was in the mountains of the region of Arkansas, and the husky widow stood by the side of her prospective third husband.

"Well, ma’am," said the old minister, "do you take this man for better or worse?"

The widow smiled her reply, "Well, ma’am," she drawled, "he’s powerful better than my first husband and somewhat worse than my second, so I reckon I’ll chance him."

In the Good Old Times

A charitable lady was reading the Old Testament to an aged woman who lived at the home for old people, and clanged upon the passage concerning Solomon’s household.

"And Solomon really seven hundred wives?" inquired the old woman, after reflection.

"Oh, yes, Mary! It is stated so in the Bible."

"But, nun," was the comment, "What privileges had early Christians hold?"

SORRY BUT!

The following blank space, we’re sorry for, it’s almost inextricable that there can be some students in college who are not familiar with the necessity of getting copy for the "News" in the office by Monday morning.

This blank space is eloquent of these people’s inability to many stand single requirements. We have “Smiles” to insert here, but word in the “News” for the “News” in the office by Monday morning.

Sorry this week may have been realized impracticable. This is an office by Monday noon.

“I do not base this week’s column on rigid censorship. They were sorry for it’s almost inextricable. It’s almost inconceivable..."
