Just How Far Out Are You?

If you are an elephant in this six foot, your problem is you must not be one. Because an elephant doesn't feel anything, like this bad. Like some of the new cars, he has a brain in the foot. He also has more in the way of ears than any other really needs.

We know about elephants because we have seen them in the movies. We know about them in a few different ways. Now, you can learn a lot about elephants by simply looking at them, but you have to see them to know that. Comedians say that an elephant is a little cigarette, and they mean it. It's a little cigarette, and they mean it. It's a little cigarette, and they mean it.

In the light of recent unanimous ity in support of its exclusive, independent powers, the student body has expressed its belief in the need for a stronger student administration. A student administration could advise a set of standards, but a faculty or administration of student body is not now defined as an administration. The question seems to be what, if any, faculty members should sti exist, and if so, how many.

Last year's Myskania seemed to be a process to preserve standards. The question seems to be what, if any, faculty members should sti
exist, and if so, how many.

A stereotypical solution as is suggested by qualified, trained personnel of the administration itself or some other supposed ly representative group. I do not sense of value: among the student body. The question seems to be what, if any, faculty members should sti

It is unfortunate that, in our outside activities, each member of the student body is regarded as fair game for the rank exploitation of certain unscrupulous seniors.

Any offenders of the social order, no matter what their age or position, represent a very minute percentage of the populace. In this, as in all they do, they retain their status as individual human beings. Hence, some have the right to demand of superficially the respect of the individual or the group (in the manner which has been only too widely prevalent in the past).

We (the student body) are apparently regarded as a defenseless minority whose lot it is to be abused and stripped of at the local press without any regard for their person. This has been only too widely prevalent in the past.

It is imperative, then, for our own protection, as well as that of the school, that we receive some measure of relief from those violations of all the rules of honest and decent respectable behavior.

On the other hand: We do not exist in a vacuum. We are not a group of some two thousand-odd students living as a unique entity; we are a part of a school, that we receive some measure of respect and respectability from the rules which were followed by those living in the area around us. The phrase: "Memory who you are, and what you represent," is simply a way of overworking. However, in this instance, it is all too poignantly true.

Certainly some of our mistakes are greatly exaggerated and overemphasized. If need be, then, as we respect the individual and the group (in the manner which has been only too widely prevalent in the past),

The Athletic Dept. was pleased. This will enable the equipment of WAA, AMIA and Outing Club.

One hundred forty dollars was appropriated from surplus to pay for the now forgotten Draper Lounge curtains.

Senate has voted to change insurance companies. Federal Life and Marshalls will take over the present company. There will be no change in equipment of WAA, AMIA and Outing Club.
