Players to Present "Beyond the Horizon"

CHAMBER MUSIC BY LONDON QUARTET
Big Opportunity

The appearance of the London String Quartet in Albany should prove one of the big musical events of the season.

Chamber music is one of the oldest forms of ensemble, and until comparatively recent years, has had but a small following on this continent. Often the trouble has been with the interpreters who were unacquainted to the spirit of the music. But coming to Chancello's Hall on March 3, at eight o'clock the London String Quartet, whose interpretations as Chamber Music Artists have been termed sensational by the critics of the few cities where they have appeared, give the works of many other composers including the ultra-modern.

Their second concert has been heralded, announcing six concerts in one week. Furthermore, they were to play only Beethoven's- seven string quartets. So great was the success of this miniature Beethoven festival that requests were made for a later return in which they are to give the works of many other composers including the ultra-modern.

Albany has never had such an opportunity to enjoy Chamber Music, and not for years has a string quartet appeared here. Such a performance as this will, no doubt, be enjoyed by those who love Chamber Music. It is given under the auspices of an educational institution. The success of this concert will be to the credit of the education of this city, as it has been throughout the world, a whole opportunity to hear Chamber Music will be given to the students. It is certainly a bargain for all music lovers.

STATE TO PLAY TWICE
St. John's and St. Stephen's

St. John's of Brooklyn will oppose our Varsity at its Albany High School gym, on Wednesday, February 24. This will be the second meeting of the teams. In the first encounter State got the small end of the score, but every man is doing his best to turn the tables this time. St. John's is composed of fast, snappy basketball players and will put up a hard fight. Your team needs your support. Will you give it to them? Show your opponents that your spirit doesn't vary with the score but only the number of games won. Come out and hoot. There will be no standing around the game.

On Saturday, State will go to Annandale to play a return game composed of fast, snappy basketball players and will put up a hard fight.

At present there are three or four vacancies at Syddtim Hall for the second semester. Those interested are requested to apply to Dean Pierce for further information.
get the record our team has started to make this year.

It is for us the interested, rather to be dedicated here to the unlimited games which they who bought for us, thru the year so envied. It is rather for us to lie here dedicated to the treasures remaining before us, from those that not later than the may of gold, we have taken in enthusiasm for those games for which they have their full measure of enthusiasm: that we here belligerently write down our men shall not be any safer in vain, that State shall increase its dominion, and the basketball team of State, by State, and for State, shall not disembowel, forever.

NOTICE

ENGLISH TEACHERS

One of the first problems which the English teacher faces when he begins work on a piece of literature is the question of what reference material to use and of where to secure it.

Every week there will be an exhibit in the library, of books, pictures, and elrimina to be used in connection with the teaching of a certain piece of literature prescribed for high schools.

PRIZES IN SPEAKING

President Brubacher announces that a series of five orations will be made in May for excellence in speaking. The "President's Prize" will be awarded for an original oration spoken by a senior man; the "Trustee's Prize" will be awarded for the interpretation of a memorized selection (not original!) by a freshman girl. The competition for both prizes will be held in the Auditorium on the evening before Moving-up Day. The rules completing the contest are as follows:

1. President's Prize in Oratory:
   - The competition is open to senior men.
   - A general subject will be assigned by the President. Competitors will write upon the subject, choosing Dr. Thompson in order to avoid monotonous duplication of topic.
   - Competitors will write upon some topic assigned by the President.
   - Auditorium on the evening before Moving-up Day.
   - The four best orations will be selected, and the four speakers for the final contest will be held in the Auditorium on the evening before Moving-up Day.
   - The four speakers will be chosen by the President.
   - The four orations will be selected by the President.
   - The four orations will be judged by the President.
   - The four orations will be delivered by the President.

2. Trustee's Prize in Oral Interpretation:

BEYOND THE HORIZON by Eugene O'Neill, has been very favorably called the greatest play written by an American author. It is not certain that the plays of others, and at least one of those authors, would be altered by another play of Mr. O'Neill's plays. Staging the force of the quicker elements on the stage was the first step in the logical coloring of the first act, the whole which is never modified is lighted by J. Lionel Atwater as a symbol and center of our country's life. By looting of the first act. Beyond the horizon, this scene drama, which of itself is a symbol and center of our country's life. So far as its logical coloring, the whole which is never modified is lighted by J. Lionel Atwater as a symbol and center of our country's life.

Press Comments

The plays of Eugene O. Nelligan are in my judgment, the most original and significant things that have been done in dramatic form on this side of the Atlantic."—William Archer, in the New York Evening Post.

"Mr. O'Neill has an almost feminine intensity in the devotion of character, yet at his best he is an imposingly effective author."—Arthur Pollock in the New York Times.

It is difficult to say whether Mr. O'Neill should be more lauded for his technical skill or for his extraordinary gift for characterization."—Christian Science Monitor.

It is safe to say that Mr. O'Neill is the most promising of American playwrights."—New York Times.

NOTES ON THE CAST

Mr. Frank McCarthy, Director of the Shakespeare Playhouse, has been giving performances of Shakespeare, "The Prince," and other interesting plays at the Court, Plymouth and Fulton Theaters in New York City, assisted by such stars as Lillian Drew, Enid Bennett, Marie Trelaski, Ethel Colman and others. Before becoming his career as an actor-manager, Mr. McCarthy appeared for several seasons with Lewis Waller and Ben Greet, and was associated with director Henry K. Hewlett at the Copley Theatre in Boston.

Mr. McCarthy has had a very unusual career in Shakespeare, having a short period to appear in upwards of seventy different parts in these plays, and during recent seasons he has appeared, as Hamlet, Shylock, Macbeth, Tamburlaine, Prospero, as well as in many other modern plays, and is the only person with the creation of Richard Braken, who created the role in New York City, who has played this role. Beyond the Horizon, Miss Laura Walker, one of the most successful Broadway stars of the past two or three seasons, is just completed a long run as the leading lady in "The Princess."—Current Opinion.
