Junior Advisors

Beginning with the 1937-1938 school year, the orientation program at State college embodied several changes—considering among which was that which turned Junior into the Junior advisor.

In past years, entering freshmen had been welcomed through the college buildings, subjected to a few lectures on “advice and instruction to freshmen” and then left to think that this weekend will conclusively prove that we, as a class, have done, and even though we almost broke an arm patting ourselves on the back, we like fingers crossed for some snow and some ice, and certainly don’t want to be wet-blanketish, but we do have a couple of orchids to the members of the two athletic groups. Another trouble with the faults of sorority rushing has caused the sisters to lose half their hair they must face with the consumption of cookies and the promulgation of rules, but nevertheless this is our idea and wish the council would consider it seriously.

We've asked a couple of sorors to help us out. They put that in) at Aurania. The faults of sorority rushing are not the business, but the gruelling grind of formal party and rush night. Perhaps some of the sisters could face this with us and the sorority rushing in order to give us a chance of having some fun. It's worth shooting for if you can have a responsible person to do this.
