Students Elect New Queen; Court Reigns Campus Night

Freshmen, Sophomores to Present Skits Tomorrow For Campus Night

Fresmen and Sophomores will present a series of skits tomorrow night at 8 p.m. in McClenahan Hall to entertain the students and provide a form of entertainment that can be enjoyed by all. The skits will be performed by students from both classes and will showcase their talents and creativity. The performance is expected to be a lively and enjoyable event that will bring the campus community together.

CAFT Court
CAFT Court will be in session during the intermission following the freshmen skit. The court will convene to discuss and render decisions on any cases that may arise during the evening.

Music Council Presents
Eastman Wind Ensemble

The Music Council will present the Eastman Wind Ensemble, a renowned group of musicians, in an evening of musical performances. The ensemble will feature a variety of music pieces, including classical, orchestral, and contemporary compositions. The concert will take place at 8 p.m. in McClenahan Hall and is free to all students. The ensemble's performance is anticipated to be a highlight of the evening.
A More Effective Rivalry

As rivalry comes to a close this weekend, we cannot fail to realize that much of the purpose of this program has been achieved.

Rivalry, itself, has been a "coping mechanism" for the period of conflict and fun between the freshmen and sophomores classes. And to help this trend continue, the University of Wisconsin and the University of Illinois have organized the spirit of cooperation and good sportsmanship.

We wonder if rivalry really does help the freshmen and sophomores. Do they do harm? Do members of the rival classes have too much fun?

In this rivalry, we help to polish up the lodgers who do not participate in an extra-curricular way. Academic interests suffer when a few do all of the recruiting.

However, the main reason for rivalry seems to be that participation in class events does not seem to have carried through to participation in all college organizations. As a result, the potential leaders are not being discovered. It is felt that they never get around to joining the campus clubs.

Proud of State College

Last week we attended a national golf conference in Miami, Florida. Feeling that we had an unusual opportunity to learn about people in other schools and other parts of the country, we did a lot of watching and listening.

We had expected a certain amount of discrimination against Negroes. That college students would be more liberal than the older Southerners. However, these stereotypes, even now at least, have been extremely exaggerated. We were surprised to find that our social habits have been extremely liberal and that we are far more liberal than our elders. We are glad to see that we are being. Independence has come of age.

Perhaps the most disappointing aspect of the conference was the number of students who carried personal prejudices to such an extent that they did not have time to attend any meetings, discussions, or lectures. We suppose that our prejudices are the result of the two sides of their existence. However, there is a limit to prejudice.

We thought the conference was outstandingly successful. The proceedings were beautiful. Many students who were both friendly and sincere of their activities. Yet certain attitudes caused such disagreement among the schools that they represent. We are glad to see that.

Focus On Faculty

This week's focus is on the faculty in the Department of English. We are particularly interested in the course, "Introduction to Shakespeare," which is usually offered during the fall semester. We interviewed the professor, Dr. William H. Grenander, and he expressed great enthusiasm for the course.

Dr. Grenander is a member of the English department faculty and has been teaching at the University of Chicago for many years. He has published several articles on Shakespeare and his work has been widely recognized in the academic community.

Dr. Grenander's teaching style is very engaging and he has a talent for making difficult concepts accessible to his students. He is frequently sought after as a speaker and has given lectures at many universities as well as conferences.

Dr. Grenander is also involved in the production of a new Shakespearean play at the University of Chicago. He is in the process of selecting the cast and is currently working on the script.

We asked Dr. Grenander about his experience with Shakespearean plays and he stated that he has been involved in several productions. He feels that Shakespeare's plays are timeless and that they continue to be relevant today.

Dr. Grenander's enthusiasm for the course and his dedication to the subject matter is evident in his teaching style. He is a valuable asset to the English department and we are excited to see his work unfold in the upcoming semester.

Common-Stater

"In order to study any subject we must first learn to think.

"The more you learn, the more you understand.

"The more you understand, the more you think.

"And the more you think, the more you learn."

Mr. Shakespeare Flops; Tragedy Turns Travesty

In his latest attempt to recreate the famous Shakespearean character, the actor's performance was met with mixed reviews.

The actor, who is well-known for his portrayal of the bard, attempted to bring the characters of "Romeo and Juliet" to life on stage. However, the audience was left with a mixed reaction.

Some found the actor's performance to be authentic and engaging, while others felt that he lacked the necessary skill and passion required for such a role.

"I found the actor's portrayal to be quite convincing," said one audience member. "He truly brought the characters to life, and I appreciated his efforts to capture the essence of the play."

Others, however, were less impressed.

"I felt that the actor was not fully prepared for this role," said another attendee. "He seemed uninterested and unengaged, and I found his performance to be quite disappointing."

Gerstenberger Hits 15th
As State Tops Montclair

This year Karl Gerstenberger has proven to be one of the most valuable players on the State College Van­ ning team. He is one of the team's starting outfielders this year and has been a rallying point in the team's bracketing.

Karl's big day this year came with his setting a new record against the Montclair team. Karl was in the third spot in the order of the batting lineup and in two at-bats, two hits, two runs scored, and two assists.

Powfella Wins 1st
Weightlifting Match

Powfella was victorious in his first match against the Montclair team. He won the 110-pound class with a lift of 225 pounds. Powfella is one of the team's most promising young men.

Touching All Bases

By DAVID JONES

This past weekend, we were happy to see what we thought was the last game from AMIA, landing into the field, we were hit with the news that the AMIA season was over and the team was disbanded. The AMIA season ended on a high note with a victory against the Montclair team. The final game was successful in two respects: it was a 3-0 win and 11-1 final margin of State.

Gerstenberger Wraps Up
Career As State Brewer

Karl Gerstenberger, a star player for the State Brewer team, wrapped up his career with a strong performance. Gerstenberger, known for his speed and agility, was a key player for the team.

Dr. Bob Felsen, a leading expert in the field of sports science, has commented on Gerstenberger's performance, saying that his dedication and hard work have paid off.

The State Brewer team has been a force to be reckoned with in recent years, and Gerstenberger's contributions to the team have been significant. His leadership and teamwork have been instrumental in the team's success.

Gerstenberger's departure marks the end of an era for the team. The team will miss his skills and will look to his replacement to fill his shoes.

The team is currently in the process of filling Gerstenberger's position. A number of candidates have been considered, and a decision is expected to be made in the near future.

The team has already begun to prepare for the upcoming season, with training camps scheduled to commence shortly. The team is looking forward to a successful season and hopes to build upon their recent successes.

The team wishes to extend its gratitude to Gerstenberger for his contributions to the team and for his dedication to the sport.
Potter Club To Celebrate Thirty Years

Thirty years ago, the magazine of the Potter Club was first published in the Kent State University Record. The club, founded by a group of students in 1922, holds its thirty-ninth annual meeting this Sunday, November 22, in the Potter Ballroom from 7:00 to 9:15 p.m.

This year's meeting will be dedicated to the memory of the late Mrs. Potter, who was the second president of the club from 1922 to 1924. She was the first woman to hold the presidency of the club, and her leadership was instrumental in bringing the Potter Club to national attention.

The meeting will begin with the installation of officers and the election of new members. The club will then proceed to its traditional business meeting, where reports will be given on the activities of various committees and subcommittees.

Following the business meeting, there will be a dinner for members and guests, followed by a dance in the evening. The dance will feature music performed by the Potter Club's own band, the Potter Pan Pipes.

All former presidents of the Potter Club are invited to attend the meeting and join in the festivities. The club hopes to see as many former presidents as possible present to celebrate this special occasion.

Campus Chest to Give Aid to World Students

The Campus Chest Drive, a fundraiser for the aid of students from around the world, will be held this weekend. The drive is open to all students on campus, and donations are welcome from anyone who wishes to help.

The proceeds of the Campus Chest Drive are divided among the World Student Aid Fund, the American Association of University Students, and the United Nations University. The aid is provided to students from countries around the world, and the donations are used to support their education.

SUB to Present Club Penguin

The SUB will present Club Penguin, a popular online game, during their meeting this week. The meeting will be held in the College Union Ballroom on Friday evening, and all students are welcome to attend.

Formation of the SUB, which is the Student Union Board, was established in 1922. The SUB is responsible for planning and overseeing the events and activities on campus, and they work to ensure that all students have a voice in the decision-making process.

In addition to the presentation of Club Penguin, the meeting will feature the installation of officers and the election of new members. The club will also present a financial report, and a discussion of their plans for the upcoming year.

Dr. Sekhar Speaks Today

Dr. Sekhar, a visiting professor from India, will speak on "Racial Prejudice in the United States" at the College Union Ballroom on Friday evening. The lecture is open to all students, and the event is sponsored by the College Union Board.

Dr. Sekhar's lecture will focus on the issues of racial prejudice and discrimination in the United States. He will discuss the historical and cultural factors that have contributed to the persistence of these issues, and he will provide insights into the ways in which we can work to address and overcome these challenges.

The lecture is part of the College Union Board's series on current social issues, and it is designed to provide students with a deeper understanding of the complex issues facing society today.

In addition to the lecture, the College Union Board will also present a financial report, and there will be an opportunity for students to ask questions and engage in discussion.
