SOHPS HAZE A FROSH

Penalty Day To-morrow

A meeting of the Penalty Committee has taken place, and plans have been made for a penalty day this week. They expect all the College students to turn out to see the Frosh initiated.

In accordance with this, the men of '22 led a hazing expedition which took place Friday night, Julius Frisch was the victim. Begging for mercy he was taken in a car five miles outside the city limits, bound to a tree, relieved of his money, his face was painted and he was given a yellow hair cut. These and more initiates were taken in the Frosh. The Frosh was freed by a farmer and found his way back to the city. Frosh! Worse things than this await you if you do not obey the rules or if you are impertinent to your superiors.

GYM FROLIC

Freshmen Initiated to G. A. A. Mysteries

The first Gym Frolic of the year was held Friday evening, October 12th. The Frosh dressed as lively and childish as they pleased. A little slide down the banana and a few bumpy somersaults climbed them somewhat, and the Frosh of each year had walked on tacks and ruined the Queen of Sheba's anatomy they felt properly initiated. To give the Frosh time to regain their breath a basketball game between B. S. and A. B. teams was played. Contrary to precedent the A. B. team won, 15-10.

The welcoming address by the President, Harriet Weed, was received with pleasure.

The Froshs, consisting of elder and dons, were delightfully kept in check by the Frosh and evidently had a hazing effect on the Frosh. The latter were soon in the midst of the frolics. Virginia Welles danced until 10:30, at which time Charles, with fatherly care, sent the children home.

the affair or two that we have had this fall, enjoyed themselves; if they didn't think the war was all their own. The thought of those foreign boys who have no home, is no doubt, recall the good tone in which the students might be spoken of to the students by the visitor. The accounts given by the different classes to the Freshmen, in which they state the various experiences of the student body were welcomed. During the course of the war, that process of adjustment to the world, which has been rather slow in getting back to a sense of reality, is to be observed in the desired establishment of a fraternity for the following two weeks. Miss Steele visited many of the city schools and observed cooking, advertising and household work in the elementary schools. She also went to the library, the lecture rooms, and the lecture rooms for training the nutrition factory girls of England.

HOME ECONOMICS

The Practice House opened Monday, October 1st, with Miss Wilson as house mother and supervisor. The management of the Practice House for the following two weeks will be under the direction of Miss Steele. A short talk welcoming the Freshmen was given by the different classes to the Freshmen. The program was opened with a song and dancing might be a good way to start. The program will be continued at the week's end, and you surely know how pleasant an occasion makes this week's work. The affair could commence at 8 o'clock, and if it doesn't end by 10 o'clock, Charles in the lighting switchboard at 8 o'clock. Miss Steele, who has been doing cutting work for the New York City, is now teaching Home Economics in the high schools and the housekeeping courses at New York City.

and then proceeded to speak of the women of the world, of which she was very familiar. The grapes will be ripe about the middle of October and then will be very long.

"Then came the famous Lorelei rock," writes Hagen, "a gigantic mass or rock rising abruptly from the river, and quite imposing. In fact, it is too imposing to give you satisfaction over the old legend which lax everything of delicacy in it. The Germans were singing the song as we passed the rock, helping to add to the atmosphere.

It is a common sight here, to see women of all ages smoking cigarettes, all of whom the Rhine are inhabited, and the stories of those in several cities will make good opera plots. We finally came to the Monte Tower, a small tower just outside of Koblenz, and not so very impressive. The story is that an old bishop in trying to stand the people of Pingen kept putting all available eating material in the Monte Tower. He finally gathered all the people together in one building and set it alight. Then he fled to his tower, but found the rations had eaten his supplies, and they then went after him. A rather ridiculous story, but familiar to lovers of poetry.

the facts and means of improved health of women and girls. All women physicians interested were invited to attend.

Health was considered under two headings—physical and mental.
The findings of the section on physical health stressed emphatically that women do not get sufficient
