A Solution?

The key word here at State last year was apathy. Everyone had a different solution to offer to clear up the situation. One of the basic solutions was the need for more student union activities. Many students felt that students generally were not satisfied with the number of opportunities they had on campus. I am of the opinion that students should be self-sufficient in their ability to get what they want. Therefore, the first thing that must be done is to foster an attitude of cooperation among all students. The only way to do this is through proper advertising and promotion. Everything from the Student Senate to the Student Body should work toward this goal.
