And now to our regular department. As we made our contributions to every line—writing, planning, reading, and criticizing, we have fully realized the possibilities of our magazine. We have seen many changes take place in the business and managerial offices of the newspaper. We have collaborated with our brothers on the staff to form a committee to make some changes in our management. We have done so to carry on with undying effort. Writing on this point in the last number of this magazine, we turn out a better magazine, and, most fascinating of all, do so to carry on with undying effort.

Edward Colmar, Madeline Grunwald, Robert Leifels, and Arnold Ellerin, '41, assistant sports editor.

In the spring of the year the chief question in the mind of every leader was that of the coming magazine. The students are graduating this month and next. Pardon Mr. John Porter Edge!

Real Romance Score Is 30/1-173½

Contrary to the state, John Porter Edge, who is a fullback on the football team, got a big girl the other day. Mr. Edge is one of the boys who have been trying to win the girls' hearts. He is a good athlete and is known to be a good student as well. His score in the real romance contest is 30/1-173½, which is the highest score of the year so far. Mr. Edge is planning to attend the University of Pennsylvania, where he hopes to continue his studies in the field of engineering. He is also looking forward to being a member of the football team at the university.

Semester, the Sophs Gave the Comets a Big Surprise

In the second semester of the academic year, the sophomore class gave the junior class a big surprise. The sophomores had been working hard all semester, and they were determined to come out on top. On the day of the game, the weather was perfect, and the crowd was cheering wildly. The sophomores took the field and started playing with a lot of energy. They were able to score several goals, and the crowd was cheering even louder. The junior class, who had been expecting a close game, were surprised to see the sophomores dominating the game. The final score was 5-0 in favor of the sophomores. This was a big win for the sophomores, who had been working hard all semester to prove themselves. They were able to make the seniors look bad, and this was a big accomplishment for the sophomores.
