Rathskeller Wall to be Built Despite Delays

by Cynthia Hilliard

Almost a year after its embryonic days in the exacting process of being designed, the Rathskeller Wall is finally scheduled to break ground this week. The project should be completed in about a month and a half. According to President Rick McKelr's father), to the Lewis Equipment Company (which belongs to SA Vice President Dick McKeith), the Rathskeller Wall will be a place for students to gather in order to obtain exposure, whether that means simply joining in an organization or being a member of a team. This is in contrast to the current closing time, which is the end of June, the Rathskeller Wall to be completed.

The wall is intended to be a place for student use at that time. According to FSA Director Joe Garcia, who oversees the Rathskeller Wall, the wall will be constructed so as to allow for a free flow of drillers from the Rathskeller Main to the pub section. A wall was decided upon because the Rathskeller consists of oak paneling, butcher block countertops, and mixed tiles, and beer and wine will share the brick pattern of the Rathskeller.

The idea for the pub evolved and was presented to students who wish to gain exposure, will be entertained. A place which the Ralhskeller is novel and sometimes even interesting. The wall, which was proposed to be completed over the spring term, was impossible, sectioning off an area for the bar seemed to be the next thing. According to President Rick McKelr, who chairs the Athletics Advisory Board (AAB), the Athletics Director Joe Garcia sees no need for any changes in AAB's special relationship with Athletics. The Lewis Equipment Company reccived the OK from the FSA in turn, consisted of the Alpine Company. The bar has begun through and by all means, this is not the first time. What may seem like a student-control situation is inconsistent with SUNY Board of Trustees guidelines. According to the Central Council, acting in response to numerous concerns over the perceived lack of student control of all athletic budgets, the Athletics Advisory Board (AAB) proposed to be completed over the spring term, was impossible, sectioning off an area for the bar seemed to be the next thing. Israelis Attack Port City

BEIRUT, Lebanon—Israel’s army launched a major offensive along the Lebanese-Syrian border that has already claimed the lives of 50 people. The attack came hours after the Syrian government declared a cease-fire on the border. The Israelis say they are targeting Hezbollah fighters, who they claim have been infiltrating the area from Syria. The Syrian government has denied the claim, saying it is responding to Israeli aggression.

Israel and Egypt Sign

CECINE, Egypt—Israel and Egypt have signed an agreement to normalize relations between the two countries. The agreement, which was reached after months of negotiations, is the first of its kind between Israel and an Arab nation. The agreement includes provisions for economic cooperation, cultural exchanges, and security cooperation. Both countries have agreed to remove all military checkpoints and to establish a hotline for communication.

China Shows Pace in Arms Race

LONDON (AP)—China’s military parade has been widely criticized, but the United States and the European Union continue to praise China’s defense spending. The defense minister, Dr. Simon Stanley, said on Friday: “This is not about defense. This is about China’s commitment to peace and stability.” The Chinese economy has grown rapidly in recent years, and the country has become a major player in international affairs.

WASHINGTON—The Patroon Room has announced that it will be open evenings for campus center events. The announcement comes as the university is considering ways to increase student engagement and retention.

The dramatic upswing in the use of campus space has been attributed to the increasing demand for events. The university has been working to accommodate the demand, and the announcement of the Patroon Room's new hours is a step in that direction.

Different Directions

Freeze Dried Coffeehouse Center, Middletown

"Difference is what it is, different direction," said the Blue Hare.

Saturday night at the Campus Center, New Englanders gather to listen to a new band for jazz aficionados: group called Directions. The group is led by saxophonist soloist, John DeJohnette, and guitarist, John Abercrombie, with bassist Miroslav Nemcik.

Since that Delta Ohm and the Black Cat performing space is closed, the group has chosen to play in a new space, the Blue Hare. A common friend of both groups, the Blue Hare's contracts a new band, Directions, for a few shows.

For most of the shows, the group has been led by saxophonist soloist, John DeJohnette, with bassist Miroslav Nemcik, guitarist John Abercrombie, and drummer Warren Kimbro, though the group occasionally expands or contracts with the addition of other musicians. At the Blue Hare, the group played for over three hours, with various arrangements mixing, and another tune from John DeJohnette's solo work, played by John DeJohnette playing saxophone, as the group performed several tunes.

The group's music is all in rock'n'roll, but if you were to find the myth, the poor-asmusician, the Blue Hare would be an admirable place to do so. The Blue Hare's music is a blend of Be-bop, rock, and a difficult mix of rock'n'roll.

Just as there was a strain on other musicians, the Blue Hare's music is a difficult mix of rock'n'roll. The Blue Hare's music is a blend of Be-bop, rock, and a difficult mix of rock'n'roll.

For this gig, the Blue Hare is offering a special offer: Thursday night will be only $.35. The Blue Hare's music is a blend of Be-bop, rock, and a difficult mix of rock'n'roll.

And don't forget the stage baud. It is, after all, their prime reason for being. In other words, the SUTS'YA Jazz Society needs all the help it can get.

Which leads into another, more basic reason for concentrating on lesser events: These events are a way for the group to prove that they are just as good as anyone else. The Blue Hare's music is a blend of Be-bop, rock, and a difficult mix of rock'n'roll.

In Mary Wilkes, the charming woman of twenty minutes from the corner of Colümbus Street, a group of SUNYA's most active students have taken up residence. Some, the group boasts, have been at SUNYA for over twenty years, yet still returning to Mohawk to continue their education. Others, like Wilkes, are new to SUNYA and enjoy the campus culture and activities. The group consists of students from various majors and backgrounds, united by their love for Mohawk.

Mohawk Campus exists for the use of SUNYA faculty and staff, as well as SUNYA students. Although not open to the general public, students and faculty members can utilize the campus facilities and enjoy the beautiful grounds. The campus is known for its peaceful environment and serves as a retreat from the hustle and bustle of city life.

One third year student stated, "I don't have a car and don't use the facilities much, I just use Mohawk Campus. It's a very, very peaceful place... It's just looks nice. What's do bad about that? Imperially since there's no campus police, you have to help but leave the place messy. The lawn is usually left strewn with litter and debris..."

The Mohawk Campus facilities are well-maintained and available for use by SUNYA students and faculty. The campus includes a variety of outdoor activities, such as ice skating, bicycling, boating, swimming, and picnicking. The equipment is well-maintained and available for use by SUNYA students and faculty. New Awareness

In Science Fiction

by Paul Lippert

Science fiction has traditionally been an extremely sexist form of literature. In the 1960s, the Frenchwoman Hugues Rougier published Le Temps des Violons, a novel about a young woman who travels through space, meets an alien civilization, and fall in love with a member of this alien race. One of the most striking aspects of this novel was the depiction of a woman who was not a passive object of male desire. The character of the young woman in Le Temps des Violons is not passive, but rather active and self-determined. She is not a conventional heroine, but rather a strong, independent woman who is able to assert her own desires and needs. Her relationship with the alien character is not one of exploitation, but rather one of mutual respect and understanding.

Fellini’s ‘Amarcord’

by Hilke Rabiek

Fellini’s ‘Amarcord’, a film that depicts the memories of a young boy growing up in the small town of Amarcord, Italy, during the 1930s, is a perfect example of how the New Wave of the 1960s influenced science fiction. The film is a mixture of fantasy and reality, with Fellini using the conventions of science fiction to create a filmic montage of long sequences, which are often surreal and dreamlike. The characters in the film are often depicted as having superhuman abilities, and the film is filled with scenes of violence and destruction.

When I get people on campus whether or not they watch T.V. I always seem to paint a picture of the way people are in the U.S. and I always seem to use the word 'programming.' I do not say that programming is bad, but I do say that it is a way of life. I believe that the American way of life is programmed, that it is a way of living that is controlled by the media. I believe that the media is in control of the American way of life.

On His Farm There Was This Chick

by Marie Durand

I'm a chick. I don't feel like a chick, but I'm certainly not a woman. It's a new term that's been coined by the young people to describe themselves and it's been adopted by older people, too. The term 'chick' is not new, but it has been given a new twist.

To be called a 'chick' is not necessarily a bad thing. Many young people, especially those who are just starting out in life, feel that they are not yet ready to be labeled as women. They see themselves as 'chicks' because they are still learning about themselves and the world around them.

But when the term 'chick' is used to describe someone who is not physically developed or who is considered to be less than a woman, it becomes a negative characterization. This is where the problem lies.

It's important to recognize that the term 'chick' can be used positively or negatively, depending on the context in which it is used. When it is used to describe someone who is physically mature and capable of taking on adult responsibilities, it is a positive term. But when it is used to describe someone who is not yet physically mature or who is considered to be less than a woman, it becomes a negative characterization.

It's important to be aware of the implications of the term 'chick' and to use it in a way that is respectful and appropriate. By doing so, we can help to create a more positive and inclusive society for all young people.

NYPIRG Sues Legislators

by Judy Magee

The New York Public Interest Research Group (NYPIRG) has announced its intention to sue the New York State legislature for the additional payments it made to legislators in 1975. NYPIRG believes that the payments are illegal and should be returned to the State.

The payments in question total more than $100,000 and were given to all 163 members of the legislature. NYPIRG has filed a lawsuit against the State to recover these payments.

In the press conference last Wednesday morning, Donna Keating, an attorney representing NYPIRG, said that the payments were illegal and that NYPIRG was seeking a full refund of these funds.

The payments ranged from $1000 to $9,000 per legislator, and were made in three installments: (1) a lump sum payment of $1000, (2) $1,000 for the remainder of each legislator's term, and (3) an additional $1,000 payment on July 1, 1975.

The payments were made in violation of the New York State Constitution, which prohibits the payment of any cash or other compensation to legislators.

The payments have been described as a "tortured interpretation" of the Constitution, and NYPIRG believes that these payments should be returned to the State.

NYPIRG attorney Dennis Kaufman claims that legislators' "lulus" were illegal and that NYPIRG will proceed with the case to recover these funds.

"It is difficult to switch schools or pick a new major at this point. Most students have remained "at least long enough for those already enrolled to receive their degrees."
